'Use Force,' Britain Urged By Zambia at Conference

11 Lost As Ship Sinks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The captain and 10 crewmen of a Spanish freighter were believed to have perished shortly after abandoning the vessel before it sank in a North Atlantic storm, according to reports received today.

The coast guard said 23 other crew members of the Monte Palomares were missing and were the objects of a search by several merchant vessels, the coast guard cutter Escanaba, and coast guard planes. The search area was 840 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Four crewmen were rescued uninjured by the freighter Steel Maker after a harrowing night on a raft tossed by 35-foot seas. They said they witnessed the drowning of the Monte Palomares' master and a number of crewmen but saw at least 23 others transfer safely to a lifeboat and a raft.

The coast guard said the ship, which normally carried 38 men, was abandoned at 3:55 p.m. EST Monday and sank shortly after.

Sixty-knot winds had moderated to 25 knots today, aiding the search operation. Seas had subsided to 20 feet.

THREE SHIPS

The 474-foot Monte Palomares was one of three ships to radio for assistance from the storm area.

The Greek freighter Lampsis with 30 crewmen aboard, reported its hull was cracked by the storm and abandonment appeared imminent. However, the crew managed to keep the vessel afloat by boring holes in the bulkheads to drain the bilge.

The 441-foot Lampsis radioed that it would continue the voyage as soon as its No. 3 hold was sufficiently drained. It was adrift about 240 miles southwest of the Spanish ship.

The Coast Guard cutter Androscoggin stood alongside the Lampsis and damage controlmen planned to board the vessel with portable pumps when weather permitted.

NO DANGER

Engine damage disabled the Polish freighter K. I. Galczynski about 700 miles north of Bermuda. The 5,584-ton vessel was in no danger and awaited the arrival of a tug to tow it to Halifax. It had been bounced from Northern Europe to New York.

The rescued Monte Palomares crewmen said they counted 18 shipmates in a lifeboat and five others on a raft. Early search reports said there were no signs of lifeboats or rafts.

The 5,973-ton Spanish vessel was carrying grain from Norfolk, Va., to Spain when its cargo shifted under the stress of high seas. The vessel immediately heeled to an angle of 30 degrees.

STORM HITS AGAIN

REGINA (CP) — Visibility was reduced to near zero across southern Saskatchewan today as another in a series of storms swept across the province. Wind, gusting to 40-miles-an hour, whipped snow into blinding clouds as snow removal crews cleaned up after the weekend storm.

NEW DELHI (CP)—The body of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, who died Monday in the Soviet city of Tashkent, returned here to an India whose prepared hero's welcome turned into grief and mourning.

A joyous welcome had been prepared for the diminutive 61-year-old Shastri before news was received of his death from a heart attack only hours after an Indo-Pakistani summit meeting in Tashkent agreed to shun war as a means of settling disputes.

Six generals carried the coffin on their shoulders from a special Soviet aircraft. It was borne on a gun carriage on the final journey to Shastri's bungalow where the body will lie in state before cremation Wednesday.

About 6,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen lined the route from Delhi airport.

President Saravpalli Radhakrishnan, newly sworn-in Prime Minister Gulzarilal Nanda and members of his interim government were among thousands who thronged the airport. Thousands more lined the seven-mile route into the capital.

Meanwhile, India's new prime minister promised today to carry through the agreement with Pakistan his fallen predecessor had hammered out.

Shastri had governed this troubled land of 460,000,000 people for 19 stormy months after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru.

The 5-foot-2, 110-pound prime minister had signed a limited peace pact Monday in Tashkent with Pakistani President Ayub Khan, agreeing to pull their forces back from territory seized during the September war between India and Pakistan.

Kosygin to Attend Funeral

Nanda, in a nationwide broadcast, said Shastri died "after successfully concluding a mighty effort for peace — we shall honor the agreement he made and implement it faithfully."

A Soviet plane bore the remains of the humble-born little leader across the Hindi Kush mountains to India's dusty plains.

Ayub Khan and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who was host of the Tashkent conference, helped carry Shastri's coffin to the plane in the Soviet Asian city.

Kosygin left shortly after to attend the funeral, and Ayub returned to Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital.

Shastri's body will be cremated beside the sacred Jumna River in New Delhi.

The Queen sent Earl Mountbatten, last viceroy and first governor-general of India, to represent her at the funeral. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and State Secretary Dean Rusk will represent the U.S.

Tributes to Shastri poured in from many parts of the world.

Prime Minister Pearson, in Lagos for the Commonwealth prime ministers conference, said: "I receive with shock and regret the news of the death of Prime Minister Shastri, with whom I have had the honor of friendship. He will be greatly missed, especially by his Commonwealth colleagues meeting here."

World Leaders Pay Tribute

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said Shastri's death "is all the more tragic as it came just as he and the president of Pakistan had begun relations on a new and more hopeful course."

President Johnson said his death was a "grievous blow to the hopes of mankind for peace and progress."

Kosygin hailed Shastri as "a great humanist of our time."

British Prime Minister Wilson, also in Nigeria, said the loss of Shastri "will be felt throughout the Commonwealth, and indeed everywhere. His qualities of statesmanship, sincerity and integrity are valued."

Ayub Khan said he was deeply shocked and sorrowed.

Shastri died at 1:32 a.m. (11:32

American Newsmen Kicked Out

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno today ordered all American correspondents expelled from Indonesia.

Sukarno issued the order in a speech at a ceremony installing the new Indonesian ambassador to Syria, H. M. Sudjono.

The president said he has decided to expel American correspondents from Indonesia in retaliation for lies he said were being written in the American press about the current Indonesian political crisis.

There now are two American correspondents in Indonesia: R. E. Staniard of United Press International and Donald Kirk, representing the New York Times.

Antoine Yared of The Associated Press is a Lebanese.

"They also say," Sukarno declared, "that (Defence Minister Gen. Abdul Haris) Nasution has become supreme commander of Koti (the supreme operations command). I am still the supreme commander of Koti.

"Go to hell with your lies," he added.

Sukarno then turned to First Deputy Premier Subandrio, who is also foreign minister, and said:

"I order you, Subandrio, to kick out all American correspondents from Indonesia. This is our country. We do not want foreign correspondents writing untrue things about Indonesia."

Wilson Explains Boycott Strategy

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — Africa's first conference of Commonwealth prime ministers opened today, then went into restricted session to discuss "economic war" against Rhodesia.

The already sombre atmosphere of the meeting was saddened by the death of India's Prime Minister Shastri and tribute to his memory became the opening item of business.

Zambia's Vice-President Reuben Kamanga reiterated his government's demand that Britain use force to topple the regime of Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith who declared independence from Britain on an unconstititional basis two months ago today.

Britain's Prime Minister Wilson gave an hour-long explanation of Britain's position, stating once again that economic sanctions alone—particularly an oil embargo—will be sufficient to bring down the white-supremacist Rhodesian breakaway government without the use of force.

Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, as leader of the senior Commonwealth country outside Britain, replied to an address of welcome by Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria, who called the conference.

Senior also in point of experience in diplomatic and foreign affairs, Pearson noted that this is the first prime ministers' conference since formation of the Commonwealth secretariat under Canadian diplomat Arnold Smith.

"It is a unique conference in other ways also," said Pearson. "It is the first emergency meeting. It is the first meeting to discuss a single problem. I have heard cynics say it may also be the last meeting anywhere.

'This Meeting Will Be Success'

"I do not for one moment believe this. I am convinced this meeting will be a success, that it will assist the effort to end soon the deplorable situation in Rhodesia, something which we all desire."

Sir Abubakar, leader of Africa's most - populous country, also spoke in confident vein but said that the Rhodesian problem presents a threat to the existence of the Commonwealth.

"Although held together by invisible links the Commonwealth has continued to thrive," he said. "Indeed its continued existence is accepted by many as vitally important not only to the member states but to the world as a whole. It is for this reason that we consider it necessary for the heads of Commonwealth countries to meet and avert the threat to the existence of this organization."

Soldiers in pith-helmets and uniforms reminiscent of British colonial days guarded the Federal Palace Hotel where the conference was held amid exotic tropical gardens on the shore of the Lagos lagoon.

It was learned Wilson—determined not to be put in the "dock" at the conference—was pleased with the moderate tone of the opening session.

Balewa, presiding at the conference, paid a tribute to Shastri on behalf of the Commonwealth delegations after which the assembly stood in two-minute silence as a mark of respect.

In his opening speech, the Nigerian prime minister called for a swift crushing of the Rhodesian regime and said the Commonwealth leaders must decide what to do if sanctions failed to achieve this, conference sources said.

He urged Wilson to call a conference of black and white Rhodesians to draft a new constitution for the country and to arrange a crash program to train Africans to take over responsibility.

He also called for the release of all political prisoners in Rhodesia.

The sources said Balewa made it clear he did not envisage African majority rule in WAR WEEKS AWAY?

Special to The Times

LAGOS, Nigeria —Rhodesia is only eight to 12 weeks away from the roar of guns if economic war does not smash the rebellion of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

That was the Canadian view today as 19 Commonwealth countries sat down here to discuss the African crisis that is a threat to the organization and the peace of the world.

NEEDS TIME

The Canadian delegation believes Britain should have time to keep the economic screws on Rhodesia in a bid to end the breakaway by peaceful means. But Canada believes that if this does not work, in about three months, Prime Minister Harold Wilson will have to turn to alternative means.

The only alternative is force.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson was in a tricky position as Canada sat down at the conference table with some angry African Commonwealth partners. Britain expects Canada's backing in its stand that economic sanctions and time will break the Smith regime, while the African states expect Canada to understand and appreciate their impatience and position.

NO SOLUTIONS

Some of them believe Pearson has something to pull out of the hat, although he said he had no ready solutions when he arrived here Sunday for the two-day talks that opened today at the Federal Palace Hotel. The situation calls for some Pearson diplomacy, and he has been receiving a steady stream of callers in his hotel suite. He met with Wilson before the conference opened.

Rock-Tossing Mob Fired On, Youth Killed

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Violence erupted anew in downtown Santo Domingo today. A youth was killed and another seriously wounded when police fired into a rock-throwing mob.

The greater part of the Dominican capital was quiet.

National Police Chief Gen. Herman Despradel said a mixed police and army patrol in a truck near a high school in the suburbs was greeted by a shower of rocks. One of the soldiers fired, he said, killing one of the rioters. The other youth was struck in the thigh.

Hanoi Contact At Bomb Pause

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee disclosed today that the direct communication from the United States to North Viet Nam was transmitted shortly after the start of the present U.S. pause in bombing the Communist country.

Representative Cornelius Gallagher (Dem., N.J.) told this to reporters after a 2½-hour closed briefing of the committee by State Undersecretary George W. Ball. Gallagher said the communication, first mentioned Monday by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers, was in the form of an aide memoire.

"The significance is that when an aide memoire was sent before, it was rejected out of hand," Gallagher said. "This one was accepted."

New York Mayor Rebuffed Again By Striking Transit Workers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The striking Transport Workers' Union today dealt another blow to hopes of settling the city's 11-day bus and subways strike quickly by rejecting for a second time Mayor John V. Lindsay's latest strike-ending efforts.

Following informal morning meetings with a three-man mediation panel, union spokesman John O'Connell said the TWU would stand on a statement made Monday by chief union negotiator Douglas MacMahon.

MacMahon, in the statement, flatly rejected the mayor's three proposals for ending the walkout. The mayor had suggested arbitration, fact-finding by a special panel, or recommendations by the present mediation panel.

"The mayor's statement is not going to contribute to the settlement of this strike," MacMahon said following Lindsay's proposals in a television report. "The mayor must tackle the issues."

STUDENTS TOSS ROCKS AT POLICE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) —Hundreds of Negro students rioted today at Parker High School in Birmingham, hurling rocks and bricks at hastily summoned police.

Cause of the uprising was not immediately determined, but there were reports some adult civil rights workers had gone to the Negro school to recruit students for a voter discrimination protest march.

The students congregated in a courtyard behind the school and hurled bricks, rocks and bottles over the roof of the one-storey white structure.

Officers armed with riot guns ringed the school.

$2 Million in Art Stolen From Museum

BESANCON, France (UP)—Thieves escaped with an estimated $2 million worth of drawings and etchings from the Besancon art museum Monday night, museum officials said today.

The officials said robbers ransacked two exhibition rooms filled with the works of Fragonard, Tiepolo, Veronese and other masters, and carried away about 50 of them. First estimates placed the loss at about $2 million.

Authorities said the thieves removed a heavy iron grill from a window in the main entrance hall and then apparently went upstairs where a special exhibition of drawings and etchings was set up last November.

A spokesman for the museum said the thieves took only the drawings and etchings, bypassing a priceless collection of paintings in other rooms.

STYLIST'S ADVICE TO LADIES

'Get Rid of Hair, Start Living'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vidal Sassoon, the London hair stylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in the U.S. ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdos and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when the United States is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Sassoon, 38, expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews Monday. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

"Every woman would cut her hair this way if she saw how easy it is," says Anna Lenz of Munich. To contrast her close - cropped hair, she wears makeup that takes one hour to put on.

"Men love my hair short," says Sassoon model Judy Mursch, 23, of Copenhagen. "They rub their hands in it. They can't believe it's so thick. I think it's very sexy."

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two or three weeks.

So far, ladies in the U.S. aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

In the words of beauty expert Virginia Graham: "Imagine showing your wedding pictures and have people ask, 'Which one's the groom?'"

A tire expert tells us tires should be replaced when there is less than 1/32 of an inch of tread left. He says manufacturers generally make five different grades. New cars usually wear "first line" tires, and second, third and fourth line tires of diminishing quality are also available. Best of all are "premium" grade.

A third or fourth line tire should last 8,000 to 12,000 miles, a second line 12,000 to 20,000 and a premium tire more than 35,000 miles.

So next time you see bargain tires on sale check the grade. You probably are getting what you pay for.

B.C. Municipal Aid Condemned by Rathie

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial aid to municipalities in B.C. looks sick compared to that in Ontario and Quebec, Mayor William Rathie said Monday.

Mayor Rathie said governments in both the eastern provinces have different financial arrangements with their municipalities than in B.C. and both provide greater assistance.

He was commenting on a claim Saturday by B.C. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that B.C. is better to its municipalities than any other province.

The mayor said Quebec is making huge contributions toward the routing of the Trans-Canada Highway through Montreal. He compared this with the $350,000 Vancouver received last year from the provincial government's $80,000,000 highways budget.

But he proposed that Britain should immediately announce a definite target date by which the African majority would take over control through a phased program.

Under an agreed agenda they considered ways to topple the Rhodesian regime as quickly as possible, the constitutional future of Rhodesia including its advance to Negro majority rule, and Commonwealth help for Zambia in its vulnerable position as Rhodesia's neighbor and major trading partner.

Arrival statements by delegates indicated most are willing to wait and see whether the British - sponsored sanctions bring down the government of Premier Ian Smith.

But some qualified this willingness with a warning that other measures, including armed intervention, should not be ruled out if sanctions prove ineffective.

Warrant Issued In Break-In At Motor Firm

Theft of six blank cheques with the firm's name on them was reported by Dolphin Motors, 904 Pandora.

One of the cheques was cashed over the weekend at a local beer parlor. It was made out for $150.

The cheques were taken from the office of firm manager J. P. Destrube. A screwdriver was used to force the office door, police said.

Police said the man they are seeking is believed to be driving one of the firm's autos.

COMMUNISTS SILENT ... ... ON 'DIRECT' CONTACT

Viet Peace Hopes Dimmed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A peace bid delivered at a face-to-face meeting between diplomats from the United States and North Viet Nam has so far failed to spark any official reply from the Communists, administration sources said today.

It was disclosed Monday night the United States sent a note to Hanoi more than a week ago clarifying its position on negotiations on the war in Viet Nam and seeking to persuade the Communists to go to the conference table.

Administration officials said the U.S. communication was handed to a North Vietnamese official by an American diplomat at one of the capitals in which the two countries both have representatives.

The message sent to Hanoi apparently was the only such "direct" contact that has been made between the two governments. Hanoi's failure to answer it further dimmed hopes for turning back the tide of war in Southeast Asia and moving closer to the conference table.

Disclosure of the meeting between U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats followed a general statement by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers it was a "safe deduction" the U.S. had been in direct contact with Hanoi during the course of the "peace offensive" launched by President Johnson last Dec. 20.

Several factors apparently motivated the administration's decision to disclose its direct approach to Hanoi. Among these were:

- President Johnson's reported desire to bring the public and Congress up to date on his peace efforts prior to delivering his State of the Union Address Wednesday night.
- The assertion by assistant professor Staughton Lynd of Yale University that he was told by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong that the U.S. government had made no contact with his country and this was "quite disturbing." Moyers said Lynd, who returned Sunday from an unauthorized trip to Hanoi, was "incompletely informed."
- The desire to convince U.S. allies, neutralists and European Communists that the president was passing up no avenues in his effort to find a peaceful solution in Viet Nam.

There apparently was some difference of opinion among some high administration officials as to whether the direct U.S. peace bid should be disclosed at this time.

Some, particularly in the state department, were reported to feel that the disclosure might lessen the possibility of a favorable response from Hanoi. The White House apparently concluded otherwise.

There was no detailed information available on the contents of the American message. It was assumed, however, it consisted of some additional clarification of the 14-point peace plan Johnson authorized Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to submit to the United Nations last week.

At the same time he discussed the possibility of a direct contact with Hanoi Moyers also disclosed Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman would stop in Saigon to discuss the peace campaign with American and South Vietnamese officials.

WEEK TO CLEAR

Regina Tied Up After Blizzard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway crews in parts of Saskatchewan and eastern Newfoundland today were started on what would turn out to be a week's plowing in the wake of two enormous blizzards that slugged the areas Sunday.

The worst storm to hit Regina in almost 20 years left the city buried under drifts that officials estimated could disrupt normal movement for a week. Conditions at Moose Jaw were similar.

Milder weather was to move into Saskatchewan today although predicted highs of 10 above were unlikely to help in snow-clearing operations. Only light snow was expected.

Hurricane-force winds gusting to 85 miles an hour pushed the Atlantic blizzard through Eastern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Sunday. It moved across to Newfoundland around noon and piled drifts up to 15 feet in the streets of St. John's.

A 300 - mile stretch on the Trans - Canada Highway from St. John's to Grand Falls was blocked but by Monday night plows had reached a point 50 miles west of the capital.

As communications were restored, reports of washed-out bridges, causeways and sections of road filtered in from the island's south coast, battered by giant seas and high tides during the storm.

SCHOOLS STAY SHUT

Power was restored in most of St. John's Monday night after widespread failures. Schools were to remain closed for the second day today but businesses were expected to re-open after the weekly Monday holiday.

Elsewhere in Canada generally typical winter conditions were predicted for today.

Milder weather was moving across Alberta and in Manitoba a few snowflurries and highs of five and 10 below were forecast.

British Columbia's coastal temperatures were rising to the mid-40s today with some rain. In northern B.C., 30 - degree readings were bringing a welcome break after two weeks of sub-zero conditions.

Quebec was becoming cold and windy but no heavy snowfall was expected.

Southern Ontario was expected to follow the warm and cold pattern prevalent during the last couple of weeks. The temperature in Ottawa dropped to zero early today from 38 Monday. In Toronto the plunge was to 15 above from 43.

Baby Born In Stalled Truck

CUDWORTH, Sask. (CP)—A story of a baby born in an unheated truck marooned in a strong weekend blizzard came to light here Monday.

When Mrs. Joseph Gruza, 24, of Prudhomme, Sask., realized her baby was on the way, she and her husband headed for the Cudworth hospital 15 miles distant in their farm truck at the height of the storm Saturday night.

Five hours and two miles later, when the truck bogged down in the drifting snow and stalled, Mr. Gruza struggled to a nearby farmhouse for help.

When Mr. Gruza returned with a horse and sleigh, he found a newborn baby girl in the unheated cab. Mother and child were rushed to the farmhouse.

Instructions from Dr. G. Kondzielewski at the hospital here were relayed over the telephone. When the blizzard ceased and snowplows clared roads Sunday Mrs. Gruza and her child were taken to hospital.

The baby qualified as the first born this year in the district 45 miles northeast of Saskatoon and will receive gifts from local merchants. She is the couple's fourth child.

No-Spill Beer Gets Car Ride

Magistrate William Ostler said he was puzzled in central court Monday how two opened bottles of beer could remain upright on a floor of a moving car without tipping over.

But he gave the benefit of the doubt to Peter A. Reid, 19, of HMCS Qu'Appelle, and acquitted him of being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Cpl. Robert Duncan, Esquimalt police, said he stopped Reid and his companion in the accused's car on Paradise St. Dec. 16.

He said he found two opened bottles of beer on the floor of the vehicle in front of the front seat.

Reid testified he had no knowledge of the beer being in the car and first saw it when the officer came around to him from the other side of the vehicle.

He said he got into the car at HMCS Naden parking lot and had driven around Esquimalt for about 10 minutes.

"It is a great tribute to the roads in the municipality they (the bottles of beer) didn't fall over," commented Magistrate Ostler.

He said foam on the bottles was consistent with drinking before the two sailors were stopped or the bottles being shaken in transit.

Investigating officers did not smell liquor on the breath of the two men.

MOURNING FOR SHASTRI

p.m. PST Monday) in the villa where he was staying outside Tashkent. Aides said he dined alone at 10:30 p.m., telephoned his family in New Delhi, and went to bed half an hour later but could not sleep.

At about 1:20 a.m., the prime minister was seized by a coughing spell and staggered into the hall crying, "Doctor, doctor." His staff, packing to leave Tashkent today, put their chief back to bed and summoned his personal physician, Dr. R. N. Chugh. The doctor said Shastri lost consciousness three minutes later and stopped breathing at 1:32. A team of eight Soviet physicians joined in unsuccessful attempts to revive him.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that death was due to a heart attack. Shastri had had a serious heart attack in 1959, before becoming prime minister, and another a month after succeeding Nehru.

Shastri had seemed in good spirits earlier in the evening when he and Ayub Khan were Kosygin's guests at a reception. He smiled and clapped at a brief program of music and dances.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan said the prime minister, during the automobile ride back to the villa, said, "We must fight bravely for peace as we fought in the conflict."

Shastri's body was flown home across Pakistan. Since the fierce Indo - Pakistani war, the two countries have barred each other's planes from crossing their borders.

About two hours after Shastri's death Nanda, who is 67, took over the reins of government. As home minister he was next in line, and he was sworn in by President Radhakrishnan in a brief ceremony at the presidential palace.

The president and Nanda then went to Shastri's residence to pay their respects to the prime minister's wife, Lalita. They were accompanied by Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter, who is information and broadcasting minister.

Congress party members in Parliament will meet soon to decide whether Nanda will remain at the head of the government or be pushed aside for someone else, as he was after Nehru's death. Observers expressed belief that he has a good chance of holding the post this time.

Shastri was born in the abject poverty of a mud hut in backcountry Mughalsarai village in North India's Uttar Pradesh state Oct. 2, 1904.

The date was 43 years before the end of British rule brought the independence he was to help win in the non-violent resistance movement of Mohandas K. Gandhi and Nehru.

His work for freedom cost him nine years in British jails.

Shastri's school teacher father died when he was 18 months old and he and his two sisters grew up with their grandfather, who sent him to school in the nearby holy city of Banaras.

Lacking the ferry fare, sometimes he swam the Ganges, books strapped to his head.

Three months before graduation, Shastri quit high school to join the independence campaign. His activities soon landed him in prison. Released, he finished high school, entered a Sanskrit college and won the degree of "Shastri," meaning graduate in ancient scriptures. The title remained part of his name.

His education behind him, he married Lalita Devi at the age of 23 and rejoined the resistance.

Imprisoned again, he got word that his year - old daughter had died of typhoid because his family lacked money for medical care. The Shastris later had two other daughters and four sons.

Shastri, a five-foot two-inch, 110-pounder, developed into an adroit politician and a force in the All-India Congress party, becoming its general secretary for Uttar Pradesh state—India's most populous—at 31.

Flag Honor Ordered For Shastri

Canadian flags on all federal buildings were ordered to half staff in Ottawa today by External Affairs Minister Martin in tribute to the late Prime Minister Shastri of India who died after a heart attack Monday.

Flags on provincial buildings will follow suit, officials in Victoria said this morning.

At noon today, however, most flags on federal poles were still flying high, as news of the order had not come through official channels.

A check with officials at Work Point, HMCS Naden and the Bay St. Armouries showed their flags were still flying at full staff.

A memorial service for Prime Minister Shastri has been tentatively set for Friday at the Victoria Sikh Temple.

Ajab Singh Sangha, a spokesman for the Sikh community, said Sikhs from all parts of Vancouver Island will be invited to attend.

"Shastri's death came as a shock to members of the community, he said. "He was highly respected because he worked to improve the general lot of the poor people of India."

TOLD TO DROP COVER CHARGE FRENCH CAFES

PARIS (Reuters) — Cover charges in French restaurants were abolished by government decree Sunday.

The charge is forbidden following complaints the price of a restaurant meal can often turn out to be 25 per cent or more above than stated on the menu.

Restaurant owners can increase their food prices 10 per cent to make up for the loss of the cover charge, but there must be no increase in drink prices.

OAK BAY TEST

Patrol Boy To Bounce Right Back

Oak Bay municipality will use rubber children to slow down traffic on Henderson Road.

The suggestion was made by Chief John Green Monday night while the traffic committee was studying the problem of kindergarten children crossing Henderson Road at Uplands School.

Chief Green said the rubber figures of children at school crosswalks had been used successfully in Vancouver and New Westminster.

The committee asked the chief to investigate the possibility of obtaining two figures.

GET TOUGH

Coun. J. D. Watts also asked the police to "toughen-up" on speeders on Henderson Road.

"Make an effort to hit hard —really hard," he advised the chief.

Chief Green said radar traps are useless along that section of road because it could not pick out an individual car in heavy traffic.

Henderson Road is the main traffic route to the University of Victoria.

Dibelius to Retire

BERLIN (AP) — Dr. Otto Dibelius, 85, a critic of nazism and communism, will retire March 31 as Protestant Bishop of Berlin, it was announced Saturday. The West Berlin Protestant Church gave failing health as the reason for Bishop Dibelius' retirement from the position he has held since 1945. The heads of the synods of East and West Berlin have convoked an electoral college to suggest a candidate to succeed him.

TORRENTIAL RIO STORM KILLS 145

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—A torrential daylong summer rain storm crippled this Brazilian city of three-and-a-half million today. An estimated 145 persons were dead, more than 1,000 others injured and many thousands homeless.

The storm, which dumped more than 10 inches of rain on the city in 18 hours, knocked out light, gas and telephone service in many parts of the city.

Slum areas, perched precariously on hills that spread fingerlike through the city, were hardest hit.

The city's 40 ambulances were unable to answer all appeals for help.

In the Pavaozinho slum, 19 persons died when shanties collapsed and slid down a hillside. In the famed Copacabana Beach area, five bodies were recovered after 10 houses were swept downhill.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved ... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

'UNIVERSITY NEEDS DEBATE'

He Tried to Stir Up Uvic

Des Bill Talks To DR. C. D. TARLTON

Dr. Charles D. Tarlton, an assistant professor at the University of Victoria for three and one-half months, last week circulated among the faculty a typewritten, four-page statement asking "What's Wrong at Uvic?"

One man who read it told him, "You don't know what you're talking about. You only just got here." Another said, "If you were more involved you would not be so critical." And a third asked, "Why don't you go back to the States if you don't like it here?"

The reactions were disappointing to the 28-year-old political scientist who was deliberately trying to start an argument by his criticisms.

Between lectures one day this week he reluctantly talked about it. "I really wanted to stir up things on campus. I'm not sure it is a good thing to make this a public matter."

He agreed to talk only when it was pointed out that his statement is a public document in circulation throughout the university. But he still refused point blank to have his photograph taken.

Start Argument

"The value of my criticism depends on the reaction it provokes. I wanted to start an argument—to get people thinking. What I would like is for someone to write a complete contradiction of it."

He was in his office in the Ewing Building. It is a bare, functional room, its drabness relieved only slightly by photographs on the walls.

He put his feet up on the desk and leaned back in his chair. Behind him on the wall was an old color photograph of Roosevelt as governor of New York, a much better color photograph of President Kennedy and a montage of pictures of such presidents as Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson and Truman — all Democrats.

Likes It Here

Dr. Tarlton easily answered the suggestion he go back to the United States. "I like this place. I like the city. I want to stay here. It is a measure of my commitment to the university that I wrote this criticism of it. If I didn't care I wouldn't say anything. I would just get myself another job."

He came here from the Berkeley campus of the University of California where for two years he was an instructor in political science. Before then he had earned an M.A. and Ph.D. from U.C.L.A.

"I'm used to universities where there is a great deal of controversy. Policy there is only formulated at the end of long periods of open debate and argument."

Dr. Tarlton said he is concerned that Uvic is starting many new programs which are not being analyzed and debated by the university community.

The faculty has a "right of review" on important issues but Dr. Tarlton said the presence of deans and department heads on faculty committees keeps many teachers from speaking frankly.

He said this lack of discussion of fundamentals reflects a general lack of "intellectual ferment among students, faculty and administration." Partly this is due to a hangover from the university's beginnings as a teachers' college, he thinks.

Forget Past

He said the classrooms are dominated by the "reputation" of Victoria College as a "teaching" institution and the result is that lectures are filled with "information" to be learned, while the critical capacities of students are not developed.

Dr. Tarlton said, "If this university is to be a first class one we must forget the teachers' college. We nede to develop a separate, different, new institution altogether and not carry on from the old one."

He said, "Some people think this place has a reputation. It hasn't. It is too young. All it has is a potential and that is being steadfly diluted."

Dr. Tarlton said any university is "well into the advance stages of decline" when it allows "its corps of full-time managers . . . and administrative types among the faculty" to set academic standards, intellectual style and educational purpose.

Dr. Tarlton posed five issues that need to be thoroughly examined in open discussion among students, teachers and administrators.

They are the process of decision making at all levels, the role of department heads, the lack of student involvement in planning, how to increase the creativity and quality of faculty and what the bachelor's degree should mean and how it can be infused with meaning.

He said none of these are easy questions and the worst thing at Uvic is not that they are not answered. Said he: "They are unasked."

He has asked them. And now he is waiting to see what the reaction is.

Early Merger Talks Forecast On Peninsula

Early amalgamation talks between Sidney and the newly-formed municipality of North Saanich was predicted Monday night by village chairman Arthur W. Freeman.

But the chairman in his inaugural address warned that union of the two municipalities depends largely on the establishment of a satisfactory community plan for the whole of the North Saanich peninsula.

He disclosed that North Saanich has agreed to establish an intermunicipal committee to pave the way for future amalgamation discussions.

The committee for the present will ensure close co-operation between the municipalities on matters pertainng to servces common to both areas, plannng and zoning matters.

Sidney will be represented on the committee by Mr. Freeman and commissioners J. E. Bosher and L. R. Christian. North Saanich has yet to appoint its representatives.

PLANNING

Mr. Freeman also appointed a long-range advisory planning committee to deal specifically with village growth and expansion problems.

All members of council will serve on the committee, and several citizens who have not yet been named.

The chairman advocated a hold-the line tax policy.

But he pointed out this could only be achieved by cutting down on the village public works program.

HIGHER COSTS

He explained this year costs for fire protection and street lighting would increase.

"We also have to anticipate a considerable increase in our health costs," he added. "Then there is the matter of costs for a library service."

Committee chairmen appointed are: Mr. Freeman, works; H. E. Rasmussen, finance; Mr. Christian, capital region planning; W. W. Gardner, civil defence; J. E. Bosher, joint services board; W. W. Gardner, metro board of health; Mr. Bosher, parks; Mr. Freeman, police and liaison; Mr. Bosher, fire committee; Mr. Rasmussen, garbage; Mr. Freeman, recreation; Mr. Christian, centennial.

Successor to Shastri Has Benefit of Unity

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP)—Lal Bahadur Shastri's successor has one advantage Shastri lacked when he became prime minister of India. The country is united as never before in recent years.

The war with Pakistan and the constant battle against economic misery has given India a new spirit that should help smooth the way for the country's new leader, Gulzarilal Nanda.

When Shastri succeeded Jawaharlal Nehru in June 1964, trouble was breaking out everywhere.

Language riots swept the south. Separatist tendencies flamed in other sections. The nation's chief unifying force, the ruling Congress party, was splitting into factions.

Because he belonged to no faction, Shastri was acceptable to all. A middle-roader, he had gained a reputation for mildness and conciliation in years of quiet but solid party work.

Shastri had a tough time at first, barely putting down one trouble before another flared up. But gradually he gained real, as well as paper, power and led India with firmness.

It was not until he showed steel as a leader in war, however, that Shastri was accepted by the public. And not until India's war with Pakistan in September did he pull India together.

GAINS RESPECT

After the September war, it was said in New Delhi: "He will be prime minister as long as he lives."

His successor Nanda, probably will submit to a party election soon to determine if he is to continue as prime minister. In India's parliamentary democracy, the ruling party's members of Parliament elect a leader who then is asked by the president to form a new government.

NANDA
. . . stern, ascetic

Nanda, home minister in Shastri's cabinet, is a stern, ascetic man who has characteristics that have made him unpopular in some sections of his party.

Like many Indians, he regularly consults astrologers.

He has led anti - corruption campaigns which have not ended corruption but have made many enemies for him.

As home minister, Nanda was Shastri's No. 1 "Communist watcher." He ordered more than 1,000 jailed last year, charging that they were plotting revolt.

Except for those who publicly renounced their ideology, most of the Communists still are behind bars.

PROPAGANDA DRIVE ENDS

KARACHI (AP) — Just before the death of Indian Prime Minister Shastri was announced in Pakistan Monday, state-controlled Radio Pakistan suspended its anti-Indian propaganda on specific instructions from Altaf Gauhar, secretary of information and broadcasting.

This was a step towards implementation of the pact signed at Tashkent by India and Pakistan, Gauhar said.

Jones to Appeal Slander Ruling

An appeal will be launched against a judge's decision throwing out of court a slander suit against Premier Bennett before the case could go to a jury, it was announced today.

Tom Berger, Vancouver lawyer for G. E. P. Jones who brought the suit, said he will appeal Monday's decision by B.C. Supreme Court Justice H. W. McInnes.

Mr. Jones was fired as government purchasing commission chairman after a bitter debate in the last legislature.

Mr. Justice McInnes ruled remarks by Mr. Bennett last March contained no slander of Jones, either in the natural, ordinary meaning of the words or in the innuendo Jones claimed.

In his ruling the judge upheld the premier's counsel, George L. Murray, who moved for dismissal of the action in the absence of the jury on the grounds that no slander had been uttered.

After delivering his 19-page judgment in which he reviewed the case of Jones the judge recalled the eight-man jury and told them he had decided there was no case which could properly be submitted to them and that he had dismissed the action.

The judge said that should Premier bennett ask for costs, he had no alternative but to allow them.

DID NOT APPEAR

At no time during the two days of the suit did Premier Bennett appear in court. The case opened Dec. 21 but the following day was adjourned while the judge considered arguments on points of law.

Mr. Justice McInnes said that the government had the power to remove Jones from office without further compensation if it was alleging dishonesty against him. But this had not been done. Jones had been provided with compensation in lieu of salary to permit him to draw a pension.

Considering this, said the judge, it was inconceivable that any reasonable persons would conclude or draw the inference (from the premier's remarks) that Jones was being removed from office by reason of misbehavior or dishonesty.

FLYING RIDER COMES DOWN WITH A THUD

A would-be aviator was grounded with a bump Monday in traffic court.

Motorcyclist Nelson E. Daniels, 19, convicted of careless driving, admitted he "flew" around the corner of Blanshard and Pandora and through two parking lots Nov. 17.

When caught, police said he told them he "was just bombing around."

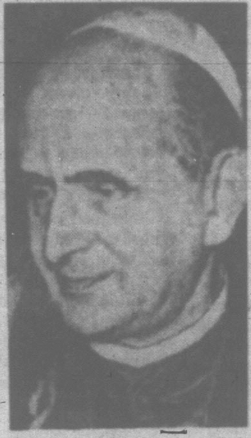
"What about all this flying and bombing?" asked Crown Prosecutor Walter Anderson. "Have you a pilot's licence?"

Daniels said he hadn't.

But he denied evidence of Crown witnesses that he had gone through a red light.

The youth was fined $40 by Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Magistrate Byers also suspended Daniels' licence for six months.



PACIFIC AREA TOUR is being considered by Pope Paul. He told five New Zealand bishops in recent audience that he hoped to make an extended journey which would include the Pacific.

Peace Move 'Sincere'

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato told Russia Monday he believes American peace moves on Viet Nam are sincere and appealed for Russian efforts to get negotiations started.

Sato's first expression of his government's more positive role in Viet Nam peace moves came in an hour-long meeting with Soviet Ambassador Vladimir Vinogradov.

A spokesman said the premier briefed the ambassador on his talks here Friday with W. Averell Harriman, one of the special U.S. presidential peace envoys recently sent to confer with foreign leaders on the United States' offers of negotiations.

Sato, who was reported to have appealed to the United States to continue the North Viet Nam bombing pause at least until after the Chinese lunar New Year Jan. 22, told Vinogradov the halt offers the best opportunity of bringing the countries concerned to the conference table.

Happy New Year, My Eye

BRANDON (CP)—In a huff with Ottawa over discontinuation of the CPR's Dominion passenger train service, city council Monday night turned down a suggestion that new year's greetings be included in a protest letter to Prime Minister Pearson.

"We are not wishing anyone a happy new year," said Alderman Terrance Penton. "We are mad."

Minus greetings for 1966, the letter protests that western Canadians "have been used as pawns in a compromise decision to provide for reinstated rail services between Montreal and Ottawa at the expense of western Canada.

'NOT FAIR'

The protest said the decision of the board of transport commissioners to allow the CPR to discontinue the Dominion service could not be interpreted as "being fair and just."

Council did not give serious consideration to a proposal by Mayor Harry Veiner of Medicine Hat that the Prairie cities get together to operate a daily dayliner service between Calgary and Winnipeg. Brandon aldermen contended that this service is still the responsibility of the CPR.

Pipeline Fire Kills 2

LAROSE, La. (UPI) — Fire enveloped a natural gas pipeline liquids disposal pit Monday, burning two men to death and injuring five others critically. Flames billowed 300 feet high and winds whipped the fire dangerously near another crew nearby.

Everybody Loves A Winner

Victoria hockey fans love a winning team twice as much as they love a loser.

At a meeting of the city's recreation and community services committee Monday afternoon arena manager J. B. Morgan reported that in November 20,378 fans paid to see the league-leading Maple Leafs.

In the same month last year with the hockey team in the doldrums only 12,234 fans paid admission to watch the pros.

Attendance in October of this year was 18,560 as compared with 11,719 in the same month in 1964.

UP 1,600

In the same report Mr. Morgan noted that public skating figures were up 1,600 from the same month last year hitting the 12,984 mark.

At McPherson Playhouse concerts and dramatic shows continued to be the biggest crowd-gatherers with 7,653 paid admissions.

Crystal Garden continues to be a popular spot with the swim set with 15,326 paid admissions for November.

RENOVATION

Prior to presenting his report Mr. Morgan asked the committee to approve the pre-budget spending of $6,605 to renovate the concession area at Crystal Garden.

The city recently took over operation of the concession and Mr. Morgan said the expenditure is essential if the concession is to operate efficiently.

The committee approved the expenditure subject to ratification by city council.

Cuba Seen Pressured To Criticize Chinese

HAVANA (AP) — Diplomatic sources in Cuba say Fidel Castro has been under pressure by the Soviet Union to make a public statement dissociating himself from Peking's belligerent brand of communism.

They reasoned the Cuban premier, mindful of an estimated $350,000,000 annually in Soviet aid, took the easy way out. He criticized Chinese trade relations, not ideology.

According to the diplomats, for almost $1,000,000 a day in military and economic aid, Moscow expects Cuba to side with it against China in their dispute over leadership of world communism.

They said Castro's criticism may be the first step in a series of anti-Chinese statements.

The new controversy centres around a charge by China that Castro lied in saying Peking broke their rice-sugar agreement. The dispute could have far-reaching repercussions.

"There's no doubt that something is going on among the three nations," said one Havana diplomat, "but the question is what."

The dispute already has caused tension at the solidarity conference of revolutionaries and there has been speculation the Chinese delegation might walk out.

Driver Jailed, Another Fined As Impaired

One driver was jailed and another fined in central court Monday for impaired driving.

Ronald Child, 2623 Blanshard, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to seven days. The offence occurred on Gorge Rd., at 5:45 a.m. Dec. 27.

He had a previous conviction June 27, 1963, in Esquimalt.

Hugh Heglin, 908 Dunford, was fined $350 for impaired driving Sept. 6 near Jacklin and Station.

He can drive only for business purposes for four months.

Heglin pleaded not guilty.

GOYA PORTRAIT BACK UP

Duke's Medals Okay Art Sleuths Decide

LONDON (AP)—The National Gallery's Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington went back on display today with four companion pieces intended to demonstrate that the celebrated portrait is genuine.

The $392,000 portrait, stolen from the gallery in 1961 and recovered last year, has been cleaned and restored. Four electronic eyes were included in the gallery's security system.

After the portrait's disappearance, a dispute arose over whether Goya had actually painted it. Some art historians pointed out a discrepancy between the date the portrait was supposed to have been painted and the date the Iron Duke was awarded some of the medals he is wearing in the picture.

The gallery took infra-red photographs of the portrait which show that some of the medals were painted on later, a common practice of the time.

Also displayed are four other Goya studies of the Duke—a large equestrian study from Wellington House in London, drawings from the British museum and the Hamburg Art Museum, and a photograph of a portrait in Washington's national gallery.

OPPOSES VIET NAM POLICY

Georgia Legislature Bars Negro

JULIAN BOND
. . . boycott threatened

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A young Negro civil rights worker from Atlanta has become the first elected Georgia representative in 98 years to be denied a seat in the state House.

Representative - elect Julian Bond, 25, who last week endorsed a statement denouncing U.S. policy in Viet Nam and urging American youth to avoid the draft, was barred from his seat Monday night on the first day of the 1966 session.

House members voted 184 to 12 for a special committee's recommendation that Bond be denied the oath of office because of his stand on a statement issued last Friday by the Student Non-violent Co-ordinating Committee.

Bond, publicity director for the civil rights group, won a landslide victory in his predominantly-Negro district of Atlanta last June.

Bond, who refused comment on the House action, announced earlier he would take the issue into federal court if denied his seat.

WILL STAGE PROTEST

A SNCC spokesman said demonstrations would result and possibly a boycott of Georgia products.

A House committee recommended the action against Bond by 23 votes to 3. The three votes came from Negro members who were among seven sworn in as the first Negro House members in 58 years.

Bond told the committee he stood on his endorsement of the SNCC statement. He said he had not advocated violation of any law while voicing admiration for anyone with the courage to burn his draft card.

The Georgia legislature had not refused to seat a member since 1868 when eight Confederate veterans were barred from the House.

Promise in Tashkent

THE TRAGIC DEATH OF PRIME Minister Shastri in Tashkent gives dramatic impact to the agreement with Pakistan which he signed on behalf of India only a few hours before he was stricken.

Under more ordinary circumstances the clauses of the joint communique might have been interpreted in some quarters as a minimum statement designed to save face, particularly for the Soviet hosts who had undertaken the role of peacemakers. But Mr. Shastri's demise has raised the proceedings to a more significant level. There should be little inclination on the part of Pakistanis to depreciate the Indian leader's sacrifice by failure to observe all aspects of the agreement; while Indians should feel bound to honor their Prime Minister by respecting the monument to peace which was his last achievement.

The Tashkent talks, as expected, fell far short of reaching any sort of settlement of the basic Kashmir dispute. But they brought one concrete result in the agreement of each side to withdraw troops to the lines held before August 5, prior to the outbreak of military operations, and to observe a ceasefire. Another calls for the exchange of prisoners.

The rest of the document is concerned mainly with affirmations of good intentions, recognition of each other's rights, and an agreement to hold further meetings of top-level spokesmen.

These are certainly encouraging undertakings, if there is sufficient goodwill on both sides to make them effective. They at least promise to ensure non-violence in the continuing relations of the two countries, and this is a prerequisite to any progress in creating an over-all settlement.

Moscow may well feel gratified at this essay into international mediation. Russia has obviously gained prestige through the Tashkent talks, and there may be an interesting story behind the efforts of Mr. Kosygin which brought at least a measure of success in the last hours of the conference and saved the project from embarrassing failure.

The Russians have at least achieved more than had been achieved before, and deserve full credit for it. The Soviet's Communist rival, Red China, on the other hand, stands as a war-maker in contrast to Moscow's peaceful intrusion into Asian affairs. Moscow has set a pattern which could have great significance not only for Asia but for the world. It is not too much to say that Tashkent could conceivably become the name of a turning-point in Asian developments—and a point at which the half-century-old Russian revolution attained maturity.

Lal Bahadur Shastri

THE FRAIL BODY AND TIRED heart of Lal Bahadur Shastri have failed under the excessive demands made upon them by the little man who was Gandhi's disciple and Nehru's organizing genius.

From the days of a childhood which knew the rigors of poverty, through the years of combat—non-violent—against Britain as India strove for independence, and on into years of high public office culminating in the post of Prime Minister, he made demands on his physical resources which they could not indefinitely withstand.

His passing will be deeply mourned by his own people and by those in distant lands who appreciated the tireless efforts he made to shoulder the burdens bequeathed in turn by the founder of Indian independence and the moulder of its early form.

His career took him from the mud hut of the Indian village to the highest office in the sub-continent—a progress approved by millions of his countrymen, particularly those of the Congress Party in which his labors were fully appreciated.

The measure of the man has been indicated by the tributes voiced by leaders of the world. In the short period allowed him as India's leader, he had earned respect for the wisdom and moderation which characterized his approach to the still unsolved problems of India—a respect unconfined by the bounds of rival ideologies.

School Begins at Home

DR. JOHN J. DEUTSCH PURsues the course of characteristic logic in his emphasis on the need for substantial investment in education as a vital factor in Canada's future economic health.

His case is simple and clear, if not new. Modern technology and processes require skilled manpower. Skilled manpower comes only from those who have been adequately educated, trained or retrained. And Dr. Deutsch sees a scarcity in the years ahead.

He calls specifically for improvement in high school facilities and universities to encourage young people to go as far as they can in school.

It is gratifying, in this respect, to note that British Columbia as a whole seems to retain more students for a longer school life than any other province in Canada.

But even in Victoria, one of the best served areas educationally in the province, many students do not go as high as their potentialities would permit them.

Attendance at school is mandatory to the age of 15. After they reach that age, about four per cent of students in the Greater Victoria district quit classes, usually in grades nine or ten. A similar loss is recorded in the succeeding grades in high school.

At the completion of the high school course, about one in every nine young British Columbians goes on to university. Others find jobs or take post-high school instruction in such fields as nursing and technology. Many enter trades and businesses.

There are numerous reasons for a disinclination to extend school life. Emphasis has been placed on the economic aspect. Some feel they cannot afford to proceed beyond Grade 12. Others find the lure of the dollar from an immediate job irresistible. Still others—and too many of them—have grown up in environments not conducive to making the most of education opportunities provided largely by the public.

This is a point too often overlooked in such reports as that made by Dr. Deutsch. Affluent as we are, generally inclined as British Columbia is to encourage scholarship, many persons forego their chances of higher education because they come from homes which have ignored the development of an atmosphere favorable to study.

The number of post-high school students who continue to specialized fields in university or elsewhere must depend in large part on the fostering of a desire for such higher education. That inclination may start even before the child enters grade school.

Not all children are college material, it is true. But we in Canada may be wasting too much that is college material—and much of the wastage must be attributed to the failure of many households to realize that school begins in the home.

Federal Rescue for Huge Cities?

Alsop

THE New York City transit strike perhaps usefully serves to underline a fact that needs to be faced more squarely. The fact is that the plight of America's vast urban conglomerations has become one of the two or three prime national problems. Here is one of the world's great cities, already barely habitable under the best conditions, which has been rendered totally uninhabitable by a total transit tie-up. The transit system that has produced this result would have been regarded as a public scandal in any other time and place. The subways are filthy and crime-infested. Except in off-hours, the buses are unbearably overcrowded and also poison the streets with their fumes.

'After-You-Alphonse'

In this shocking situation, so far as one can judge, Mayor John Lindsay, former Mayor Robert Wagner, President Johnson and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller have all been playing "After-You-Alphonse" with the prime purpose of avoiding personal responsibility for the ultimate settlement of the strike. The reason for this is also revealing.

If the people who run the buses and subways are given a raise — and some raise seems almost unavoidable — transit fares will also have to be raised, thus breaking Mayor Lindsay's promise to keep the present 15-cent fare. In the bleakest period of the depression, New York was still rich enough to absorb deficits in the transit system and thus to give its citizens very cheap rapid transit, which was also far cleaner and more comfortable than it is today. But that is not so any longer.

New York is, in fact, hovering on the naked brink of bankruptcy. A current deficit in the operating budget of $300 million is to be succeeded by another deficit in the next year's operating budget of at least $500 million.

Budget of Billions

A capital budget of billions would be needed to build schools, the parks, the housing and the other things that are needed to make life in New York as pleasant, say, as it was in the early terms of Fiorello Laguardia — and New York City was no paradise at that period, either. But, of course, this kind of capital budget is unthinkable for a near-bankrupt city.

Nor is there the most slender likelihood that good housekeeping by Mayor Lindsay will open a way out of the mess in New York. He will probably have to raise taxes; the city's bankers can hardly let New York go on the cuff much further.

But if Mayor Lindsay does raise taxes he will surely make matters worse in the long run. The ghastly urban combination of a constantly rising tax rate with decreasing habitability has already had very grave effects. Business, industry, the comfortable middle class of people long since began to flee to the suburbs. Raise taxes further and the flight will be increased.

Yet no one can suppose that the urban conglomerations like New York can handle their own affairs for very long if they reach the hideous condition that New York and most of the other great American cities have been drifting toward for at least 20 years. This is the condition of places permanently inhabited by no one at all, except millions of the poor and a tiny percentage of the very rich who can afford to insulate themselves from the surrounding ugliness and discomfort.

This drift has got to be stopped. A country as heavily urbanized as the United States today cannot permit its urban centers to become mere ulcers, hideous socially, tottering economically, repellent physically. A country as rich as the United States ought not to think twice about the remedy.

The remedy — the only possible, the only practical remedy — is bold federal action on a very large scale. For 20 years the leaders of the American government have shown no sense of proportion about this matter. Think of the plight of the cities, and then think of the Agriculture Department budget, which has been permitted to rise until in 1965 it reached $7.3 billion.

Under the lunatic system now prevailing, the largest share of benefits conferred by this enormous expenditure on agriculture goes to the million successful American farmers — one of the most prosperous single groups in the entire U.S. population. If we can afford this kind of pious gesture, in honor of our noble rural past, we ought also to be able to afford practical investments on a comparable scale to solve the ulcerous problems of our urban present.

Reportedly, President Johnson is thinking about a thin-end-of-the-wedge proposal — no money now, but maybe a lot later — to start really big pilot projects of urban reconstruction in seven or eight of the largest American cities. If true, this is good news.

The good news is diluted by the thin-end-of-the-wedge approach, of course; and it is just about neutralized by the way the Department of Urban Affairs has been handled. A chief is still not chosen; and the President has reportedly come around again to housing boss Robert Weaver, an amiable, decent, but weak man whose main recommendation is being a Negro. It does not matter if the new department head is a Negro, a Chinese or an Eskimo, so long as he is brilliant, farsighted and courageous.

The time has come for fact-facing to replace fiddle-faddlin.

By JAMES H. GRAY

Challenge to King Wheat

Gray

EMIGRES from the Canadian prairies who remember it as a one-crop satrapy ruled by King Wheat, will be rubbing their eyes in disbelief over the New Year's editorial in the Regina Leader-Post. In assessing the prospects for 1966, it was well down toward the end of the editorial before the editor got around to agriculture. But as the editor himself indicated, agriculture in Saskatchewan can be safely set aside while a little gloating is done over other things.

This is the best indication yet of the economic revolution that has been sweeping the west in the last decade. Outranking agriculture, not in importance but certainly in public interest, is oil development, potash, water resources, pulp mill construction and even mining prospects.

Wheat is still more important than anything else when it comes to producing new wealth for the people of the prairies. But wheat does not pour $40,000,000 a year directly into the provincial treasury of Saskatchewan or $150,000,000 into the treasury of Alberta, as the oil and gas industry does.

Railway Attitude

Wheat is regarded by the railways as a social responsibility which they claim they must shoulder at a loss. It is not like potash and sulphur which have become millions of tons of new profit-producing revenue.

The boom in potash development in Saskatchewan will result, by 1970, in the chemical becoming the most important source of railway freight income on the prairies. Last year Saskatchewan shipped 3,000,000 tons of potash. It required almost as much equipment to move the potash as it did the wheat crop.

In five years the province will be shipping 8,000,000 tons a year. To handle this volume the railways are now placing orders for the equipment that will be needed to handle it. The C.P.R. alone last year ordered 900 special 100-ton hopper cars worth $16,000,000. It will add another 1,000 cars this year and is converting 1,500 box cars to the potash trade.

Moving potash and sulphur to market yields the railways a minimum $9 per ton in revenue. Thus potash alone created $27,000,000 in freight revenue for the railways in Saskatchewan in 1965, a figure that will rise to $100,000,000 in 1970. That is twice as much as the railways would get for moving 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to market.

Profit for Transport

To move potash to the Minneapolis-Chicago area costs the shippers $15 a ton. To move wheat from Saskatoon to Fort William, a somewhat shorter distance, will yield the railways $4.80 a ton. So potash is at least twice as profitable to haul as wheat, and it can be moved in less expensive cars than wheat.

Four years ago sulphur was a drug on the Alberta market. A million tons of it were piled around the gas plants of the province. Today, thanks to a booming world market, it is adding $22,000,000 a year to oil company income as Canada has become the second most important sulphur shipper in the world.

Sulphur which moves to Vancouver for export has a rate of $9 a ton. Roughly a third of Alberta's 1,800,000 tons of sulphur sales are made for export through Vancouver, somewhat more than a third goes to the U.S. and the balance is consumed in Canada.

To the Minneapolis-Chicago area the sulphur freight is $11.50 a ton from southern Alberta. However, most of this trade is in liquid sulphur shipped in cars supplied by the producers. Thus the railways do not have to tie up capital in rolling stock for the sulphur trade.

Sulphur, as a by-product of natural gas processing is not a great job-maker like potash. Its job-creating function is confined to the railways. But 100 cars of sulphur gathered daily from points all over the province, assembled into trains, and moved out of the province, is a big plus for Alberta railroaders.

On-Spot Jobs

The glamorous thing about the new potash and pulp industries for Saskatchewan is the on-the-spot job-creating potential. Three mines in production and the five others being built will provide a minimum of 5,000 steady year-round jobs in the heart of agricultural Saskatchewan. This will come after the employment of 10,000 men on the construction of the plants. The $65,000,000 pulp mill will employ 1,500 on construction and 900 thereafter.

Potash employment is already revitalizing a dozen market towns and reviving the railway towns that were dying on the vine. It is forcing wages upwards in areas long unaccustomed to paying more than bare minimum rates. It is creating booms in housing, in the retail trade and in the service and supplies industries. But most important of all, it is solving the problems of rural poverty for the marginal farmers in the area.

Given a choice between steady industrial employment and eking out a living on a "family farm," the Saskatchewan farmers are choosing the steady jobs. Some of the shattering implications of that fact will be discussed in a second article.

Preparations for the annual poultry show are proceeding apace. Over 800 entries have been received by the secretary of the Poultry Association. These will include the most aristocratic representatives of poultrydom in the northwest.

The keenest competition will be among the Buff Orpingtons, the Black Minorcas and the Barred Rock, and the Brown and White Leghorns. These birds come from widely separated points, namely Saturna and Galiano islands, Duncan, Nanaimo and Cobble Hill.

OTTAWA

No Indian Take-Over

By MAURICE WESTERN

Western

MR. Arthur Laing, in a meeting with the National Indian Advisory Board, has done his best to dispel widespread concern about the agreements between the governments of Canada and Ontario on the subject of welfare services.

The concern is traceable to highly misleading news reports originating in Toronto where some details of the agreement were prematurely disclosed. According to one dispatch, "responsibility for the welfare of Indians in the province (has) shifted dramatically . . . to the province from the federal government." It is further stated that: "Ontario set out more than a year ago to assume greater jurisdiction over its Indian citizens" and that this goal has now been realized.

Nothing of the kind has happened. There is not and could not be any transfer of jurisdiction. As Mr. Laing told the Indian Advisory Board on Monday: "We are aware as a federal government of our constitutional responsibilities and there is no thought of either avoiding them or of delegating them."

It has never been any secret, however, that the federal government wishes to make available to Indians, if they desire them, provincial services from which they are now excluded. There has now been worked out with Ontario what might be described as a permissive, umbrella agreement in the form of two accords, one covering welfare services, the second community development. It is the sort of agreement which was not acceptable to Quebec, in the case of the Ungava Eskimos, because it is based on the principles of gradualism and consent.

Responsibilities Honored

This does not mean that it is now open to Ontario to legislate in respect to Indians or to set up a special administration for Indians (which it what would be involved in any transfer of jurisdiction). It does mean that Indians, by arrangement, may avail themselves, for example, of provincial job placement or educational services. The lion's share of the cost (between 70 and 80 per cent) will be borne by Ottawa, and Mr. Laing recognizes no dilution of his responsibilities as the federal minister answerable to Parliament.

At the time of the Great Whale River agreement (July, 1965), by which Quebec extended to residents of that community —Indians, Eskimos and whites alike— municipal-type services, such as power, water and sewage collection, Mr. Laing issued a long statement on federal policy towards Eskimos, who in law are Indians although not included in the Indian Act. One of the most important assurances in that statement, which stands unamended, is that the gradual extension of provincial services must be "subject always to full consultation and in accordance with the wishes of the Eskimos concerned."

This principle is spelled out in detail in the agreement with Ontario. It is wholly erroneous to suppose that the accord will become generally applicable as soon as it is effective. By its terms no service shall be extended to any Indian band "unless that band has been consulted by Canada or jointly by Canada and Ontario and has signified its concurrence." Application is, therefore, on a band basis.

Band Decision

The Six Nations, for example, cannot be bound by the agreement of the Union of Ontario Indians. It will be open to the Ojibways of Owen Sound to reject arrangements which may have appeal for Algonquins of the Ottawa Valley.

A band must signify concurrence. In other words, consultation is not enough; there must be consent. Mr. Laing specifically rejects the theory that white men know best what is good for Indians.

It is evident from many Indian expressions of concern that "integration" is taken to mean loss of the reserves. On this subject there are, of course, many differences of views among the Indians themselves. In any case the agreement contemplates no abrogation or erosion of treaty rights.

As Mr. Laing told the advisory board: "Nothing could be further from the truth. For many of your people, who feel insecure in the refined trappings of modern technology, these are their pillars and their anchors. The reservation is still the fortress of many. Contrary to some newspaper stories . . . we have not the slightest intention of cancelling the reserve system. We do propose to discuss with you whether the old commitments are best serving the Indian people at this time and how the enormous treasure guaranteed to you by the separate lands may best be developed exclusively for the use of your people."

To the Editor

Not So Royal

Regarding the letter titled "Royal Treatment" published Jan. 5. I would like you to publish my experience of very discourteous treatment received on this same ferry from Tsawwassen on January 2.

I was hospitalized in Seattle on Christmas Eve on being stricken with a very severe heart attack. My daughter drove me out to the Tsawwassen ferry en route to Victoria only a few hours after leaving the hospital and I was still in a very weak and sick condition. My daughter asked if she could just assist me to the ship.

This was flatly refused by one of the officers there. Apparently one has to have a title to one's name to receive a little help and courtesy.—Mrs. Ada Taylor, 2330 Cook.

Hypocrisy

It is surely time Canada came to its senses and established lotteries or their equivalent. No government can successfully legislate a people from taking a chance; loopholes will be found. The subject is now thoroughly hypocritical with our government taking its profit from pari-mutuel betting on horse racing, the rankest game of chance in itself.—"Against Hypocrisy."

First Born Get Breaks

The dice are loaded in favor of first-born children, says a University of California psychologist.

Citing 29 studies to prove it, he argues that a significantly higher percentage of scientific geniuses and other eminent persons were first born than would be expected according to the laws of chance.

Professor William D. Altus, writing in scholarly "Science" magazine, traced the relation of birth order to genius back to 1874, when Sir Francis Galton made the first known observations.

Galton found that an unusually high percentage of the fellows of the Royal Society were eldest sons. The Englishman concluded that it was due to the law of primogeniture (exclusive right of inheritance to the first born), which gave the eldest the means to follow his ambitions.

In 1916, the American researcher E. L. Clarke reached a similar conclusion in his study of great authors.

However, Professor Altus, himself the last born in a family of six, points out that Clarke and several other researchers note a second correlation between genius and the last born.

Clarke's explanation was that first and last born enjoy greater educational opportunity than those born in-between. The first succeeds in getting a start before adversity falls and the youngest have the elders to help them financially.

How Long Can Europe Sleep?

* * *

U.S. Boosting Its Scientific Lead

By DIETER STOLZE
In Die Zeit, Hamburg

Somewhere a forgotten satellite is circling the earth.

Who is going to think about the modest attempt of France one month ago to become established as the newest space power in view of America's great space triumph?

The difference is really too great. The U.S.A. caused four astronauts to meet in space whilst one of Europe's industrial nations was just able to launch one tiny satellite—with great effort—an attempt that ended uselessly because the satellite burnt out immediately after take-off.

The unmistakable satisfaction concerning that failure which could be sensed occasionally in the Federal Republic seems understandable in view of the unpleasant energy with which some propagandists tried to boast of their grandeur.

Malicious Joy

But does this occasion really allow feeling of malicious joy to arise? France's failure is at the same time proof of our incapability in this important field of technology.

A study was recently presented to the European countries which proves that they will lose even more ground in comparison with the U.S.A.—not only in space travel but in many other fields of science and technology.

The most thorough analysis of funds invested in research to date, made for the OECD by two scientists of the British National Institute of Economic and Social Research has resulted in the following: Europe is still investing too little in her future.

The main points of the OECD study are:

$17,500 Million

The U.S. spent 17,500 million dollars for research and development in 1962. The five European industrial countries, Great Britain, France, Holland, Belgium and the Federal Republic together only spent 4,360 million dollars.

About 435,000 scientists and engineers are presently working in research and development in the U.S.—still more in the Soviet Union. The five previously mentioned industrial countries together only have a total of 147,000.

Some 1,300 scientists and engineers from western Europe emigrate to the U.S. annually, most of them expecting better working conditions and higher pay. Western Europe passes about 5 per cent of her young generation of natural scientists to the U.S. each year.

The consequences of this development are obvious. The New York Herald Tribune made the following comment on the OECD report: "Technically speaking, American industry has managed to surpass its European competitors by far."

America's superiority has paid for itself for a long time. With the sale of licences and patents, the U.S. makes nearly 600 million dollars per year, some 9 times more than what they have to pay for their work.

The Federal Republic, especially, is in a very bad position. We spend less per head of population for research than any other of the countries investigated with the exception of Belgium.

Two Spoke Out

Only Karl Schiller and Franz Josef Strauss spoke out at the Bundestag debate by saying that the refusal of sufficient "investments for the future" is a terrible threat for us as the third largest industrial nation of the world. For that reason we must bring order to our financial policy. And we have to increase our efforts to achieve European co-operation in technology.

The Plowden Commission report concerning the British aviation industry states: if we want to survive, we must find partners in Europe—the Americans do not need us, they are strong enough by themselves.

De Gaulle Must Look to France

By JOHN ARDAGH

PARIS—There is a long list of pressing domestic measures that many Frenchmen feel President de Gaulle has neglected in the past seven years in favor of his foreign and military policy. As he and his ministers resume this month their dubiously-renewed mandate, they will have to begin to tackle some of these reforms if they want to survive. For the voters have warned them clearly.

M. Pierre Sudreau, the distinguished ex-minister who broke with de Gaulle in 1963, and last autumn was invited to be the Centre parties' candidate, long before M. Lecanuet, told me: "Gaullism will die unless de Gaulle now makes some new reforms. His vote was poor because he and his ministers have been victims of their own stability, and have failed to notice how the country has changed. They thought it was the same as five years ago. But the basic structures of France, over-centralized and too juridical, are rapidly being made obsolete by technical progress."

I asked him what de Gaulle should do.

Forget Prestige

"First, stop spending so much money on nuclear weapons and other prestige luxuries—including, I fear, aid to Africa. Next, devote far more public money to social services, education, public works, the modernizing of industry, and so on. Finally, carry out basic structural reforms notably in land ownership." (Sudreau was Minister of Housing, 1958-62.)

In 1960 an official committee headed by two leading planners, Louis Armand and Jacques Rueff, reported to the government on the main obstacles to economic and social progress, and how to remove them. The government tacitly accepted most of the proposals, but has applied very few.

True, its record of reform is better than that of the Fourth Republic, but it is poor compared with the power it enjoys, and what it could have done. And many problems grow more pressing each year.

The rapid French economic progress of recent years is now, in every field, coming up against outdated structures and methods that prevent it from advancing much further. The engine has been revved up to a fair speed—thanks to the Plan, the Common Market, and so on—but now it cannot go faster without a tune-up.

In some sectors, the problem is lack of public money rather than of reforming zeal. The growth of private wealth has vastly outstripped the growth of public services, so there is a crying lack of good modern roads, adequate telephone services, hospitals, etc.

Complex Issue

The biggest problem of all is decentralization and regional development—a vast and complex issue. Though most provincial towns are far livelier than 10 years ago, the government's policy of coaxing industry out of the Paris area has been largely a failure; and worst of all, the Gaullists have shown little sign of relinquishing to the provinces one jot of the highly centralized political power bequeathed them by Napoleon. The power of the "communes" remains largely negative. All decisions pass through Paris still.

Most liberal Frenchmen agree that if de Gaulle really wants to build a balanced and modern France in the next seven years, his government will have to take the initiative by simplifying, and decentralizing, the hopelessly complex state administrative machine.

It may have served Napoleon well, but it makes no sense in 1966.

Few Regret Giscard Out

By BERNARD NOSSITER
The Washington Post

PARIS—Economic officials in the West are privately delighted with the exit of Valery Giscard d'Estaing from the French finance ministry.

Giscard, as he is popularly known, has become the very symbol of hard-nosed, old-fashioned economics. His austere, go-it-alone policies, clearly supported by President de Gaulle, amassed gold for France at other nations' expense.

The new cabinet, led by super economics Minister Michel Debre, holds out the hope of increased spending on public works and encouragement to revive France's lagging business investment.

This should increase the demand here for foreign goods, perhaps reduce French sales abroad and generally relieve some of the pressure Paris has been exerting on the financial reserves of other nations.

MICHEL DEBRE
. . . super minister

This does not mean that Debre is a wild-eyed inflationist. He has said that "monetary stability is a necessary measure." But he has also said that stable prices are not the be-all, end-all of economy activity.

Debre, unlike Giscard, believes strongly in the importance of France's indicative plan of economic development. He will not hesitate to junk Giscard's balanced budget and will spend to reach the growth targets.

For the rest of the world, there is at least one debit in the list of credits from the Debre appointment. The new minister is much less enamoured than Giscard of competitive markets. As a firm believer in planning and state intervention, Debre would turn much more readily to import curbs to protect French industry. He is thus less likely to be as interested in the Kennedy Round of tariff bargaining.

The key negotiation confronting Western finance ministers is that over reform of the world's monetary system. Here, Giscard embodied the most conservative view, demanding that any new international asset be tied in some fashion to gold. He was too sophisticated to hold the primitive gold standard views of some French theorists. But he never departed drastically from them.

Humanity Marching Toward a Synthesis Declares U Thant

I was brought up in a conservative Buddhist family and was trained to respect and observe the essentials of Buddhism. Among others I was trained to achieve a certain degree of emotional equilibrium or detachment which is one of the essential teachings of Lord Buddha. I was also trained to regard humanity as a whole and not in terms of segments or divisions constituting the whole.

This observance of Buddha's teaching enables me, I believe, to view things from a perspective different from that of most people. When I was in college, I succeeded to some degree in overcoming certain types of emotion. For instance, local interests became subordinated to national interests. Gradually national interests were subordinated to human interests. I began to view things from a human point of view and not from a national or a regional point of view.

To illustrate my point, I would cite my experience at a boxing match. A Burmese boxer and a boxer from a foreign land were in the ring for a title bout. I could watch the progress of the boxing match without any emotional reaction. I would not feel one way or the other whatever the result of the match might be.

Sounds Strange

This perhaps may sound strange to you but this is the way in which I have been trained and this is the way I like.

Perhaps because of this background, my reading of history leads me to one conclusion among others: humanity is marching toward a great synthesis.

The trend is unmistakable. Let us look at the religious aspect of the human situation throughout history. History abounds with religious strife and struggles. Wars of crusades are a glaring testimony to the total absence of religious tolerance in the early days of history.

Even as late as the 19th century, religious tolerance was regarded in many parts of the world not only as a sin but as a colossal crime. However, humanity has moved a long way from those closed religious societies to much more open and much more tolerant societies.

Desirable Attitude

Now in the second half of the 20th century, religious tolerance is not regarded as a sin or a crime but as a very desirable attitude in civilized societies. So, all great religions are beginning to co-exist peacefully.

I believe that similar trends are noticeable in the political field. A close analysis of modern history will reveal one fact that political ideologies are not static but organic in that they are adaptable to the vicissitudes of time. What one considers to be a fixed political dogma at one time is no longer true at a later period.

Although ideological differences and intolerance from time to time have been acute, I believe that they are also undergoing fundamental changes like religious differences and intolerance at a certain stage in human history.

U THANT
. . . humanity first

Since I am a believer in the concept of the great human synthesis, I hold the view that political ideologies are also moving toward a stage of peaceful co-existence in the same way as religious beliefs. This process may take a long time, perhaps several generations, but the trend is unmistakable.

Please do not misunderstand me when I say that I believe in the peaceful coexistence of political ideologies. If the choice is between democracy and dictatorship, I am for democracy as I have stated on many previous occasions. I believe very strongly in the democratic way of life, democratic processes, human dignity and fundamental freedom of conscience, freedom of religion, freedom of association, freedom of speech and freedom of work.

Not Blinded

But this belief in democracy does not blind me to the knowledge that there are hundreds of millions of people who believe otherwise, in the same way as there are hundreds of millions of people who do not agree with me in my religious beliefs.

This attitude and this belief in the concept of human synthesis enable me to view things perhaps differently from most of you.

If we believe in the future of the human race, homo sapiens, and if we really mean to build a better world on the basis of understanding, love, tolerance and a philosophy of live and let live, which are the keys to all great religions, then I believe that this approach is the only rational approach to all problems.

How Ottawa Bungled Arms Shipment Story

By GERALD WARING

Waring

OTTAWA—This is the story of a news report that wasn't true and a government that bungled the simple matter of denying a false report.

It isn't a big incident, but the pattern of cause and effect is so clear that it helps explain how the Pearson administration time and again gets its fingers caught in the wringer of adverse publicity.

It started Dec. 31, when the Canadian Press news service reported from Washington that "The Canadian government has veteod two recent armament sales to the United States because the materials involved were bound for the Vietnamese war, sources here said today."

The story went on to report that "apparently" one sale was of ammunition and the other of replacement parts for "Buffalo" transport planes manufactured by De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. at Toronto. "Informants suggested "Canada couldn't sell any more of these planes to the U.S. if it wouldn't supply replacement parts, the CP said.

* * *

On Jan. 2 I telephoned the then minister of trade and commerce, Mitchell Sharp, to check out the story. It is under this department that export controls are exercised.

He flatly denied the story. "We don't forbid exports to the U.S., and we haven't forbidden any exports to the U.S.," he said. On the other hand, he added, "We don't permit shipment of arms to Viet Nam"—meaning direct shipments from Canada, because this would jeopardize Canada's official neutrality as a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

On Jan. 3 Prime Minister Pearson was asked, during a press conference, if he had seen the CP story, and if he had any comment.

"Yes," he replied, "I saw that story. I have nothing to say about it at the moment."

On Jan. 4 he held another press conference, but neither he nor any reporter alluded to the story.

On Jan. 5 the Ottawa Journal commented editorially:

"Mr. Pearson should have been embarrassed to give such a lame response to a question he might have anticipated and on which the country expects him to be informed . . . But why didn't the prime minister have something to say? He had no answer, no defence, nor did he even promise a statement.

"This matter touches close to the heart of our foreign policy. Yet Mr. Pearson has no comment, other than to announce that the Liberal conference was all smiles."

* * *

Ouch! But fair comment. Why didn't Mr. Pearson ask one of his aides for a report when he saw the story? Why didn't Mr. Sharp send Mr. Pearson a memo on it? Why didn't the PM's two press secretaries foresee that the CP story presented a public relations problem? They should have seen to it that the PM was briefed to handle the question on Jan. 3, but failing that they should not have left it at "nothing to say." Mr. Pearson should have raised the matter himself next day and flatly denied the story.

It wasn't until late on Jan. 7, at another press conference, that the PM stated "exactly what the situation is . . . The shipment of military supplies to the U.S. for the U.S. armed forces does not require an export permit . . . The shipment of military items from Canada to Viet Nam would be incompatible with Canada's position on the International Control Commission."

Out of the Storms Come Topics for the Ombudsman

By ART STOTT

Stott

THE surface was clear and wet on the Shawnigan Cutoff when we drove up last weekend to check storm damage. The road into our little place was a foot to 14 inches deep in snow. Someone had been in before us, presumably on a similar errand.

I am not woodsman enough to tell from his prints how much earlier he had made the trip. Nor could I tell whether he followed deer track or deer took advantage of the trail he had mushed. It was odd, though, to see the cloven print in the middle of the boot depression. And the deer print was deeper, perhaps because, being smaller, it penetrated further in the first place.

We were relatively lucky. The shack was dry inside. The arbutus limbs that had fallen on the roof apparently had not pierced the shingles. But across the road coming in, small trees had come down, bringing the power line with them, and around the cottage half a dozen evergreens—pines, cedars and balsam—had snapped off at the top. A couple of weeks earlier and I could have been in the Christmas tree business.

Where the snow had rotted by the lake and under the trees, fresh green thrust up in tender leaf, small but certain sign that spring can't be far away.

* * *

Inside the shack it was cold as only the inside of an unused cabin can be—a sort of solid chill that confronts you.

In the soft living of the technological age, we aren't disposed to revert to pioneering practices and artifacts—coal oil lamps, wood stoves and the like. When the power's off, we look around, lock up and come home.

And because we're so dependent on modern conveniences now, we pay for power year around. Which makes me wonder if the B.C. Hydro will submit to me the regular minimum charge bill for January. Will I be expected to pay for a service that wasn't available? Do dozens of other people around the lake face the same question?

If we are, I'll have to appoint an ombudsman to take up the issue with the authorities. It's one of several matters that need inquiry. While we were at the lake, neighbors four houses removed were busy digging their way out of snow and setting up lines again. They had a problem.

What, they wanted to know, was Mr. Gaglardi going to do about the state of the Shawnigan Cutoff around the east side of the lake? If taxes were about twelvefold what they were a couple of decades ago, what were the summer home residents getting for them? If not a decent road, then what?

I'll take that up with the ombudsman, too, when he's appointed.

* * *

And there are a couple of other matters that concern me. Down at Foul Bay, when the sou'easters rode in on the high tides, they brought with them pounding logs to batter my boat-launching slip from its foundation. I read a few days ago about a ruling preventing beachcombers from salvaging logs that had broken from a boom in transit around our coastline. The logs, according to the ruling, were the property of the firm that had bought them, and couldn't be snaked off the rocks for a period of time through unauthorized salvage. That's fair enough. But who owned the logs that beat up my slip? Who do I sue?

While I'm feeling vinegary, perhaps I should also reserve for the ombudsman the question of long-distance telephone rates. When the issue was last discussed, some local people made the point that it costs more to phone from Victoria to Vancouver than it does from Victoria to Seattle. The explanation, as I remember it, was that long-distance calling carried a relatively high tariff because it was one of the revenue producers that offset local rates. The company has a point there, I think. But when I tried to phone Toronto on Christmas and New Year's, all I got, after the local operator, was a recording asking me to call back later because the circuits were overloaded.

In other words, we pay a higher rate than might be expected for a service which breaks down under pressure.

About time we got that ombudsman established, I think.

'Divine Poet' Rehabilitated

By GEORGE ARMSTRONG
The Manchester Guardian

ROME—Dante, the 13th century Florentine poet, who confined several popes to his "inferno" and who was a leading spokesman for the anti-papal political faction in Florence, has not only been rehabilitated by his church but has been proclaimed by Pope Paul as a prophet for such international authorities as the United Nations.

Pope Paul also has announced that he is endowing a Dante chair at the Sacro Cuore University of Milan because, he writes, "for a particular right, Dante is ours! Ours, we mean, in the Catholic faith. Ours, because he greatly loved the church whose glories he sang, and ours because he recognized and venerated the Roman pontiff as the vicar of Christ."

No Regret

There need be no regret that Dante's voice was often lashing and severe against more than one Roman pontiff and that he had bitter reprimands against ministers and representatives of the church," the pope's declaration reads. "We do not seek to hide this aspect of his work, well understanding his bitterness, which did not even spare his beloved Florence . . . and we can concede to him the right to make these judgments considering the deplorable failures of his time."

Until the beginning of this century, Dante's treatise "De Monarchia," was on the Vatican Index of forbidden books and his "Divine Comedy" was prohibited in several countries.

Pope Paul singles out the treatise for special praise, saying that, even though conceived in medieval terms, it calls for the presence of a supernational authority to be custodian of the peace.

"This omen of the divine poet's is not so Utopian as it might seem to some. In our own times it is reflected in the practical activities of the society of nations, with a range and with benefits which extend to the people of the whole world."

Famous Last Words

Victor Hugo
(1802-1885)

The celebrated French poet, dramatist and author of "Les Miserables" and "Toilers of the Sea," was the towering figure of 19th century French literature. He died at the age of 83 saying: "I see the black light!" Then: "Now begins the battle between day and night." And finally: "Goodbye, Jeanne, goodbye!"

Julian the Apostate
(331-363)

This Roman Emperor, son of Julius Constantius who was half brother to Constantine the Great, was brought up as a Christian but subsequently renounced his religion and announced his conversion to paganism. An enemy of Christianity all his life, he died crying: "The Galilean has bested me!"

STRONG ECONOMIC UNION NECESSARY

HAMILTON (CP)—The time is ripe for a strong economic union between Canada, the United States and Mexico, Douglas Ambridge, chairman of the board of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Co., said Monday night.

He told the annual civic night dinner that such a union would not only help Latin American countries to self-sufficiency, but also would keep communism out of these same countries.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Speculatives Hold Toronto Spotlight

Spectulatives held the spotlight in trading today on the Toronto stock market.

D'Eldona, which recently reported some encouraging drill results from its property near Rouyn, Que., was the outstanding issue climbing 33 cents to 2.48 on more than 1,330,000 shares. It traded as low as 10 cents last June.

Other speculatives to show good gains were Quebec Manitou up 17 to 47 cents and Wilco 16 to 95 cents on more than 593,000 shares.

Patricia Silver, in the news over a faked press release probe, dropped from $1.64 to $1.57 at Montreal.

Wall Street closed higher today in heavy trading.

AT TORONTO in the industrial list Rothmans was up 1¼ to 26 and Pacific Petroleum 1 to 12¾. Aluminium and the Bank of Nova Scotia added ⅝ each to 36¾ and 76½.

Among base metals Campbell Chibougamau gained 30 cents to 7.90 while Normetal was up 20 to 4.95, and Sherrit Gordon 15 to 6.15. Noranda was off ⅛ to 54¾.

Alminex was ahead 15 cents to 4.60 in western oils and Canadian Export Gas 8 to 2.83.

AT NEW YORK the ticker tape ran as late as five minutes as speculative and investment interest ran high.

Rails, airlines and a variety of the glamour or "science issues were especially strong.

AT MONTREAL utilities were off but most other sections were off but most other sections moved fractionally higher in moderately active trading.

Banks were higher. Montreal and Nova Scotia each climbed ¾ to 66½ and 77¼ respectively. Royal added ¼ to 77½ and Canadienne National ⅛ to 69⅛.

AT VANCOUVER trading eased towards noon today as most mining issues declined.

Bornite continued its downward trend dropping .04 to $1.10 on 39,950 shares. Lornex lost .10 to $3.90 on 1,700 shares and Patricia Silver slipped .07 to $1.58 on 60,950 shares.

Gainers included Western Mines which climbed .05 to $5.95 and Granduc, up .10 to $3.50 on 2,800 shares.

Royal American led the oil section dropping .14 to $1.85 on 131,300 shares. Share oil was up .02 to .50 on 12,100 shares.

Macmillan, Blodel climbed .50 on the industrial board hitting $28.62 on 360 shares. Growers B rose by .20 to $3.80.

AT LONDON the market turned quietly firm today on small selective buying. Monday's warning by Prime Minister Wilson that continued economic restrictions would be necessary this year caused some initial declines, but these were later reduced or eliminated.

Tourism Canadian Gold Mine

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Tourism is a multi-million-dollar gold mine which could be developed into Canada's greatest earner of foreign exchange, says Harold Merilees, chairman of the B.C. Tourist Advisory Bureau.

In a speech to the annual meeting of the Kamloops chamber of Commerce Monday night he said the annual world expenditure on domestic and international tourism exceeds $53,000,000,000.

B.C.'s share of this was $200,000,000 in 1965, "yet the total budget for the B.C. government travel bureau is only $950,000."

He said provincial recreation minister Kiernan has estimated B.C.'s 1966 centennary will bring in in excess of $240,000,000 tourist-convention dollars. He suggested one per cent of this, or $2,400,000, was the least that should be expended to promote the tourist trade this year.

"When are we in British Columbia going to stop playing with this multi-million dollar industry as though it was some fascinating Christmas toy?" he asked.

PATRICIA SILVER

Faked Release Investigated

TOORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Securities Commission said Monday it is investigating reports of a faked press reelase sent out to some news media in the name of Patricia Silver Mines Ltd.

An OSC spokesman said the faked release was sent to some West Coast newspapers as well as to some in Ontario.

Patricia Silver has been extremely active recently on the Canadian Stock Exchange in Montreal in connection with its exploration work in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories.

The release, sent out on the company's old letterhead, said the company had stopped drilling on its Pine Point property. A promoter of the company described the statement as completely erroneous.

The stock was up 14 cents at $1.64 in Montreal Monday.

Promoter Lou Cadesky said the faked release erronequsly referred to Patricia Silver's property being in B.C.

"Another thing, we haven't even started drilling yet, so how could we stop" he said.

"It was a pretty crude effort on somebody's part."

He said he learned of the release from a reporter asking about it. He said he immediately notified the stock exchanges and the Ontario Securities Commission, which started its investigation.

MAILED SATURDAY

An OSC spokesman said the investigation will try to uncover the persons responsible for the letter. The letter was sent from Toronto, apparently mailed Saturday night.

He declined to say whether the investigators have any definite lead to work on.

Patricia Silver, with head office in Toronto's financial centre of Bay Street, was incorporated in Ontario in 1961.

It holds a 20-year renewable lease on two claims in the silver-rich area of Cobalt, Ont., for which it pays an annual rental of $1,000 plus a royalty of 85 cents a ton on any ore milled.

It also has an option to purchase the property for $250,000.

Other holdings are a base-metal prospect in Jessop township near Timmins, Ont., and its 51-claim option in the Pine Point area.

The company has carried out surface exploration on the Pine Point property and Mr. Cadesky said drilling will start in a week.

Provinces Will Get $4.7 Billion

OTTAWA (CP)—The 10 provinces will have combined total revenues from taxes, federal government payments and other sources amounting to $4,701,683,000 this fiscal year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

Their total general expenditures, exclusive of debt retirement, will run to $5,170,020,000, the bureau said in an advance release of data to be contained in an annual report to be issued next month.

The revenue figure is up 23.2 per cent and the expenditure figure up 21.5 per cent from combined provincial totals in 1964-65 fiscal year.

The figures released Monday showed federal government payments to the provinces through tax-sharing arrangements. Atlantic provinces grants, transfer of estate taxes and compensation for withdrawal from joint programs totalling $474,885,000.

The province's own taxes are expected to yield $3,113,690,000. The balance will come from licences and permits and liquor profits. Liquor profits are expected to be $259,730,000.

On the expenditure side, the provinces are expected to pay out $1,496,160,000 in health and welfare benefits and $1,465,450,000 towards education. Transportation and communications, including highways, roads and bridges, will cost $940,090,000.

Cigarettes In Most Shops Up One Cent

The price of cigarettes was generally a cent a package higher today than last week — or 40 cents for 20.

The increase follows tax adjustments made in Ontario, source of most cigarettes, and a manufacturer's increase last week in the price of cigars.

Some firms have not yet hiked the price of cigars, although it is expected all will be selling at one cent higher per cigar by the end of this month.

In Victoria, some stores were still selling cigarettes at the old price per package, although the price per qarton was increased.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING SALES SHOW BIG GAIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Department stores did a pre-Christmas rush of 27.2 per cent more business in the week ended Dec. 24 last year than they did a year earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

But the heavy volume of sales was spread over the last five shopping days before Christmas. In 1964, Christmas fell on a Friday and sales figures for the week covered only four shopping days.

DBS said sales were up 24.9 per cent in British Columbia.

Shipyard Rescue Plan Hits Snag

LONDON (CP) — A government operation to rescue a bankrupt Scottish shipyard in co-operation with trade unions and private business teeters uncertainl ytoday as some union chies fbalk.

Lord Thomson, Canadian-born newspaper magnate, is among prominent businessmen who agreed to put a total £650,000 ($1,950,000) into refloating Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. as the newly-capitalized Fairfields (Glasgow).

The government backed the project with £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) for a half interest in Fairfields and asked seven unions represented at the yard to invest £50,000 ($150,000) each.

Economics Minister George Brown, who organized the rescue mission after the Clydeside shipyard folded in November, said Friday negotiations were complete. But the following day Dan McGarvey, head of the Boilermakers and Shipwrights Union, said his union rules forbade investing in the new company.

Without the boilermakers—about one-third of the 3,000 Fairfields work force—the other unions are unlikely to participate in the plan.

'UP TO GOVERNMENT'

A spokesman for Lord Thomson said Monday night his money had been signed over last Friday and if the unions decided to pull out it would be up to the government to find an alternative source for the remaining capital needed.

Chairman of Fairfields is Scottish industrialist Iain Stewart, a director of the Thomson Organization and Thomson's Scottish Television. Sir Isaac Woifson, chairman of the Great Universal Stores group, joined Thomson' and Stewart in putting up the private-enterprise money.

Combines Hearing Set Back

VANCOUVER (CP)—A preliminary hearing of charges under the Combines Act against 10 companies and secretary-treasurer Leslie Burrows of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association was adjourned Monday by Magistrate Cyril White to Feb. 23.

The charges allege that Burrows and the companies conspired, combined, agreed and arranged, together with 40 other companies in Western Canada and Japan, to prevent or lessen competition in the production, purchase, barter-sale, transportation or supply of Mandarin oranges from Japan.

The 10 companies named are Birks-Crawford Ltd., W. H. Malkin Ltd., Slade and Stewart Ltd., David McNairn and Co. Ltd., and Chess Bros, Ltd., all of Vancouver; Kelly Douglas Co. Ltd., of Burnaby, B.C.; Consolidated Fruit, Calgary; Dominion Fruit Ltd., Macdonalds Consolidated Ltd. and Canada Safeway, Ltd., all of Winnipeg.

It is alleged the offence occurred in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Ontario west of Fort William.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL AGRICULTURE PARLEY DUE

Crop Insurance Program Planned

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Correspondent

VANCOUVER — Agriculture Minister Joe Greene is taking a hard look at methods of providing compensation for market losses for farmers in an agriculture disaster area.

As a primary step he intends to call a federal-provincial meeting of agriculture officials within a month to pin down a hard base for a nationwide crop insurance program.

He is also considering a far-reaching proposal to establish some sort of board to judge how losses not already covered by an act of parliament might be rectified.

These considerations, which could have repercussions throughout the agriculture industry, were brought into sharp focus in the potato fields of B.C.

Greene, who has been subjecting himself to a crash course in western agriculture problems, was confronted Monday with the "golden nematode situation" on Vancouver Island.

Under the destructive insect and pest act these farmers are entitled to compensation.

But the tricky point is how to help those farmers whose crops could not be marketed because their neighbors had an infested field.

Whether it is golden nematodes, or other crop pests, Greene feels such a situation should be treated as a crop loss as the farmers simply are not able to get money.

"The act should be reviewed and revised to establish a method whereby this type of loss could be ajudicated not on an ad hoc basis but within the framework of the act," Greene said.

It was pointed out that in other fields there was legislation allowing claims boards to define and rectify injury.

Greene feels a similar type of mechanism might by developed to deal with injuries not encompassed by crop insurance or existing compensation legislation.

There might even be a possibility of broadening a statute to include losses in the field of animals.

Canadians may have to pay more for their food if the small family farmer is to rise above a sub-standard income, Greene said.

And unless broad new policies are undertaken by government the small farmer will be swallowed up by large corporate holdings which will control Canada's food production.

Greene told newsmen the country would have to stop evading, and start discussing, the implications of the agriculture structure which has served traditionally as the base of Canada's domestic economy.

Thanks to the family farm this country has had "more than adequate food over many years, and the cheapest food in the world," he said.

But while the average industrial worker is receiving an annual average wage of $5,000, the family farmer across the country is earning less, in some cases a meagre $1,500.

The family farm is far from producing a fair return on the investment and long hours of labor which are put into it, Greene said.

KILLERS VERSUS GREYS

A Whale-Watching Spectacular!

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—The Pacific Ocean was turned into a churning, boiling aquatic battleground Monday when nine killer whales attacked three grey whales.

A veteran oceanographer aboard a fishboat said the killer whales apparently were frightened off by the San Diego-based craft.

Ninety-three persons aboard the boat were on a whole-watching trip, including Dr. Theodore J. Walker, associate oceanographer at nearby Scripps Institute of Oceanography.

Walker said the encounter was sighted 1½ miles off La Jolla Cove. The 40-foot greys were blowing and the dorsal fins of 20-foot killers were coming up behind them.

Walker, who said the greys apparently escaped unharmed, described the battle:

"The greys dived. The killers leaped clear of the water after them. The next time we saw the combatants were just outside the cove, with the greys trying to head toward the beach."

Lifeguards at La Jolla said the whales came within several hundred feet of the beach.

The greys used their huge tail flukes to swat away the ramming killers, Walker said.

The killers finally turned and headed north as the boat approached to within 600 feet of the skirmish.

TOFINO—Don't write off the Ahousat Indians just yet.

"We're not that badly off," chief councillor Nelson Keitlah said Monday.

Last week Alberni NDP MLA John Squire said conditions at the Ahousat Indian settlement on Flores Island, about 20 miles north of Tofina are "indescribable."

"This is not so," said Mr. Keitlah.

"Housing is definitely a problem at the present time but the provincial government is helping us with a building program.

"The Indians are poor, but the band looks after them," he said

Mr. Keitlah said during the past few years about 100 persons have moved away from the settlement of 600, most of them to the Alberni Valley.

"About half the men remaining are fishermen and have boats; some are working at logging camps near Bear River and the rest are on welfare."

Mr. Keitlah said when similar stories of poor conditions at Ahousat were circulating several years ago "hundreds of cans of pork" were shipped to the Island community.

"We were sure tired of that pork."

$12,000 For Relining

DUNCAN—Relining the city water mains from the Cowichan River to the wooden storage tank will cost $12,000.

Russell E. Potter, consulting engineer, said Monday night relining is the only method of handling the loose tar problem which has plagued the city water supply.

At peak consumption the inner tar lining has worked loose.

Mr. Potter recommended council make a claim for full cost of relining against the firm which installed the pipes.

FLED FLOOD, LANDED IN DUNCAN

Getgood: Good Man to Get

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — John Getgood is a mild-mannered dramatics teacher at Mount Prevost School who has rubbed shoulders with many of the great names of Hollywood.

He sees a great potential for developing the fine arts on Vancouver Island, in local schools and in the semi-professional and university theatre in Victoria.

After a lifetime in the world of theatre, television and movies, Mr. Getgood was swept into the Cowichan Valley by the floods which last hear inundated Oregon and California.

At the same time he arrived here the Cowichan school board introduced dramatics to the local curriculum.

It was only a short time before he came to terms with the board and began teaching students at Mount Prevost.

Senior students are already in rehearsal for public production of the three-act play Captain Applejack, by Walter Hackett.

The school board is considering a request for $1,500 worth of stage equipment to produce the play.

In pre-war Britain, Mr. Getgood worked in broadcasting and the live theatre and conducted "anything from oratorio to Gilbert and Sullivan."

He came to Canada in 1957 and in Nanaimo directed the Lions' minstrel show.

He was lured away to work at the Ashland Shakespearean Festival in Oregon.

This festival started in a small park in the 1930s but is now a multi-million-dollar enterprise.

FIVE PRODUCTIONS

In 1964 the Getgoods took part in five major productions.

Later in the year Mr. Getgood turned his talent to producing educational television programs and had his mild flirtation with Hollywood just before the floods struck.

Now he is back on Vancouver Island, Mr. Getgood is deeply involved in theatre here.

Almost every night of the week he is in Victoria rehearsing a lead part in the forthcoming Phoenix Theatre production of "Venus Observed."

Regarding Mount Prevost School he says: "My interest here is because at last the fine arts are beginning to be recognized as an important part of education."

He said: "I'm happy to be at Mount Prevost establishing a theatre department in the school.

"If everything goes to plan the students hope to present a major play sometime in April or May."

HAMMER:

'Province Should Take Over'

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Les Hammer Monday urged the provincial government to take over responsibility for B.C. Indians from the federal government.

"The province has the necessary initiative, social service and educational facilities and a cost-sharing agreement could be worked out between the two senior governments," he said.

Mayor Hammer said he is seriously concerned over problems arising from many Indian families moving to the Alberni Valley from isolated areas.

'IMPOSSIBLE'

"Native Indians can become excellent citizens in any community, but this is impossible under the present country-wide system of administering Indian affairs.

"And the job is far too complex for individual municipalities to solve," he said.

Teen-age Indians on street corners, fires in over-crowded dwellings, recent death of six persons in an allegedly unseaworthy boat are all part of the same problem, according to Mayor Hammer.

Council Wants Reinforcements

DUNCAN — Duncan wants a hurry-up order for two extra aldermen.

Mayor Jack Dobson meets municipal affairs department officials on Wednesday to seek authority for early by-elections. This would increase the council to six aldermen and a mayor.

At the new year installation ceremony, Mayor Dobson said council has had trouble finding a quorum.

At Monday's meeting Ald. Hamish Mutter was absent on business in Vancouver.

A letter was read from Ald. Robert Mason asking a month's leave of absence because of illness.

And Ald. Barney Cocks said he would be leaving next week to take his wife on a convalescent holiday.

Ald. James Saunders said: "If we're going to go for six aldermen we should do it now.'

Grass Hat Sent To Pearson

SOOKE — Swamp grass milliner Mrs. Ida Planes has woven a hat for Prime Minister Pearson to wear at the opening of the new Parliament on Jan. 18.

The 74-year-old Mrs. Planes is the last Sooke Indian to speak her native tongue.

The hat, woven from swamp grass, has a cowhide peak. It has the name Mike woven into the front and a red maple leaf on the circular top.

7,000 STITCHES

It took five weeks for Mrs. Planes to weave the 7,000 stitches from patterns traced for her by Howard Jones, a former Victoria businessman who has taken an interest in her work.

Mrs. Planes will send Mrs. Pearson a woven jewel basket with Indian symbols.

Have Floods Spread Nematodes?

A more extensive survey of property in Saanich for evidence of golden nematode—a potato and tomato pest—has been ordered by the federal department of agriculture.

R. J. N. Mayers, in charge of the nematode control program, said the search for nematodes will be intensified because flood waters may have spread the infestation to another 400 to 500 acres.

He was particularly referring to the McHugh Valley on the east side of the Patricia Bay Highway where large sections of land are flooded.

The infestation was first discovered on a farm overlooking the low-lying area.

Duncan Studies Get-Tough Plan On Snow Removal

DUNCAN—City council next year may undertake snow clearance from sidewalks and charge ratepayers for the work.

The suggestion was made Monday by Ald. James Saunders.

His works committee was given permission to investigate purchase of a machine.

First, Ald. Saunders suggested a frontage charge.

Later he said all ratepayers should pay equally.

Failure of some residents to clear sidewalk in front of their properties forced older people into walking on slippery roads.

Mayor Jack Dobson asked the clerk to get a legal opinion about a charging ratepayers

Moderator to Speak

NANAIMO—James Alan Munroe, moderator of the 91st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will speak at 8 p.m. tonight in St. Andrew's Church.

(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON — Cassius Clay, a two-time flunky in the army's mental tests and twice rejected by his Louisville draft board, is now trifling with his deferred status.

He has been making such bright statements that Selective Service could have cause to haul him back for possible re-evaluation of his intelligence quotient.

CASSIUS CLAY

No clod would answer as Clay did the reports that his next fight in defence of his heavyweight title would be against Brian London, the Britisher. In Clay's reply was embraced not only complete comprehension of the subject but a model of direct response. "There ought to be a law against me fighting Brian London," he said.

No Harvardian or Rhodes Scholar who was ever accepted by his draft board could have phrased it better, after instantly recognizing the absurdity of a Clay-London fight. London was disposed of as a title contender by Floyd Patterson, who knocked him out in Indianapolis seven years ago in a warmup for his disastrous title defence against Ingemar Johansson.

Johansson watched from ringside that night to case the style of Patterson and was vastly unimpressed by Patterson's victory. Asked for his views, Johansson said, "Brian London, my sister Eva could beat him."

It may not have been in complete jest. Boxing writers who later met up with sister Eva in Ingemar's training camp agreed that she was not only pretty but well-stacked and gave her a big chance.

Arithmetic Makes Dollars, Sense

Clay had other things to say the other day in Chicago that indicate he has sharpened up considerably on his arithmetic, his biggest weakness in the draft board tests. That he has given much more thought to addition and subtraction is apparent in his announced plan to go into the closed circuit television business, personally, and form his own company to get a better deal from the gross revenue of his fights.

Because he recognizes that the big money is to be made in theatre-TV, Clay has said he will head up a new firm to be called Main Bout, Inc. This firm would replace the company for which Clay has been merely sort of an employee on a percentage basis. Now, as the champion soon to be freed from the holdover contracts, he can call his own shots as a board chairman.

Clay may not have impressed his draft board with his nimbleness with numbers, but he says he is now on his way toward big numbers in business. The outfit that televised his last three fights handled about five million dollars each time. This is what Clay wants to dabble in.

He'll Blow Out New Boxing Image

Clay's new role of producer as well as fighter was spelled out by him when he said his new television business would handle, in addition to his own fights, "other fights which I will help to promote." This could be fascinating to those boxing commissions in the states where Clay plans to fight. All of them have the rule that no fighter shall participate in the promotion and naughty ones who try to do so will be barred.

"I am endeavoring to bring about a new image to boxing," Clay said, "and I am definitely opposed to any tie-ins with former champions or their companies. I intend to do away with the stigma connected with certain types of unwarranted return-bout contracts."

Here is evidence of at least a Cassius Clay with a new image. He not only has a better understanding of figures, but is enunciating new principles for himself. It was his willingness to agree to a return bout contract with Sonny Liston that got him his first shot at the title he now owns, and it also got him suspended by the World Boxing Association. What was good for Clay then is bad for boxing now, it seems.

Clay a Victim Of His Own Skills

His next opponent, Clay said, will probably be Ernie Terrell, in Chicago in April. "He seems to be the best of the bunch," Clay said. "He's tall and he has a good reach." Clay neglected to say that most of Terrell's reach is directed toward grabbing and holding rather than punching. The public demand for a Clay-Terrell fight is unnoticeable.

It was after beating Liston the second time that Clay put his finger on boxing's great need for a gate attraction besides himself. "You people got to have a white hope," said Black Muslim Clay; "then we all make money." This was good thinking, even if the demand for Nordic supremacy in the prize ring is now minimal compared to the passions of the Jack Johnson era.

Clay is the victim of his own skills. In an era in which he could exploit his unpopularity by drawing crowds who would desire to see a braggart licked, he is simply too big, too fast for the dreary list claiming to be contenders for his title. Promoter Clay has the champion sewed up, but the party of the second part who could help the gate is elusive.

The latest standings in the United States professional football coaching sweepstakes show:

One resignation—Wally Lemm at St. Louis, by mutual consent.

One hiring—George Allen at Los Angeles, without mutual consent.

Still open — five jobs, and George Halas' mouth.

The latest shuffling and scuffling occurred Monday when Lemm and the Cardinal owners agreed to a parting and the Rams and Halas agreed to disagree over Allen's decision to leave Chicago Bears for the head coaching job at Los Angeles.

UP IN ARMS

Halas, infuriated at losing his defensive coach to the Rams, cited the signing of Allen as "a flagrant case of tampering" and said the Rams' "utter disregard and contempt for legal obligations present a serious challenge not only to the Bears but to the entire structure of the National Football League."

"When I hired Wally," said Cardinal president Charles Bidwill, "we knew that he wanted to be head coach on a six-months basis and that was fine.

"In the ensuing years, however, we felt more and more strongly that we wanted a head coach who would be with us all the time. When the issue came up again today, there was no compromise available, and by mutual consent, he is leaving the Cardinals."

DISAPPOINTING YEAR

The Cardinals, considered title contenders before the season got under way, finished with a 5-9 record—the second worst in Lemm's four years as head coach. The Rams were last in the Western Division with a 4-10 record under Harlan Svare.

Four jobs now remain open in the National League and one in the American League.

The NFL openings are at St. Louis; Atlanta, which still has not signed a coach for its new club; Pittsburgh, where Mike Nixon has been fired, and Washington, where Bill McPeak has been fired.

With Joel Collier taking over for resigning Lou Saban at Buffalo, one AFL job remains open—at Miami, which also has not signed a coach for its new club.

Hull Running Away In NHL Point Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull is turning out to be the biggest one-man show in the National Hockey League.

Statistics released by NHL headquarters today show that the Chicago Black Hawks' star left winger led all scorers last week with six points, boosting his total to 55 for the season, including a league-leading 32 goals.

He has played in 30 of Chicago's 34 games, missing four contests earlier in the season due to a knee and back injury.

Barring further injury, the 27-year-old native of Point Anne, Ont., has 36 games remaining to score 19 goals and break the record of 50 goals in a season which he holds jointly with Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, both former Montreal Canadiens players.

Hull's lead in the individual scoring parade to date is a comfortable 13 points over runners-up Norm Ullman of Detroit.

HAL LAYCOE . . . There's no love lost.

BUCKS HERE TONIGHT

Hebenton Deal Still Irks Hal

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If Portland coach Hal Laycoe could have his way, the Buckaroos would continue to belt and blank Victoria Maple Leafs from here to eternity.

After the Bucks' 4-0 Western Hockey League shutout victory over the Leafs Sunday night, the press people in Portland went looking for a genial, wise-cracking and should-be-happy Laycoe.

No such luck.

Instead, they found a snarling, sarcastic and bitter Laycoe.

It doesn't do much for the Laycoe image, but that anger will be there as long as Victoria holds claim to right winger Andy Hebenton.

STILL BITTER

Laycoe still is extremely bitter over the deal that took Hebenton out of Portland. The Portland pilot charged that the method and manner in which Toronto Maple Leafs acquire Hebenton for their Victoria farm was in direct violation of a WHL regulation.

"But with all the money Toronto gets from television," said Laycoe, "they can afford to do these things.

"Do you know," he continued, "that there is a rule in the Western League that no team can be owned by an NHL team?"

The 4-0 shutout did little to soothe Laycoe's feelings.

WANNA BET?

"After this game," asked Laycoe, "do you think you'll get 25 people in the rink for Tuesday's game?"

"I've been around long enough to know better, but, darn it, I still get angry every time I see Hebenton on the ice . . ."

Victoria manager Buck Houle countered with: "I don't know why Laycoe should be hostile towards Victoria. He should be angry at Boston . . . The Bruins are the ones that let Hebenton get away."

Undoubtedly, Laycoe would prefer Hebenton to a record, but the Bucks get a chance, at Memorial Arena tonight, to rub the Leaf noses into the ground.

The Leafs haven't scored a goal for 155 minutes, 35 seconds and are 26:54 from setting a WHL record. The record of 182:29 scoreless minutes was set by the old Victoria Cougars.

TWO WON'T PLAY

Although plagued by a rash of injuries, Leaf coach Frank Mario expects to have all his players dress with the exception of centre Milan Marcetta and winger Lou Jankowski.

Marcetta was scheduled to enter hospital Monday for a minor operation to clear a swelling condition in his right thigh, but the Leafs' club doctor had advised against it.

The doctor reported "a strong pulse and good circulation" and feels Marcetta may be able to return to action as early as Saturday, when the Leafs entertain Providence Reds of the American League.

Game time tonight is 8:15.

Waiter Anxious To Serve

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A hotel waiter will get a tryout with the Houston Oiler football team next fall.

The waiter is Eduardo Lloret, 25, an Argentinean soccer-style kicker.

He has never played American football before, but in a two-hour practice session recently at the Oiler field he kicked field goals from as far out as 50 yards.

K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the American Football League club, held the ball while Lloret kicked.

Lloret, a member of the amateur Gran Columbia team in the Houston Soccer League, served Adams at a party at a hotel and asked for the tryout.

Lloret came to Houston three years ago from Buenos Aires to study at the University of Houston.

RECOVERING more quickly than she expected from cartilage operation, Brazilian tennis star Maria Bueno says she hopes to leave for Europe by the end of April in preparation for Wimbledon.

Jumper Healing

MOSCOW (Reuters — Valery Brumel of the Soviet Union, world record-holder for the high jump who fractured a leg in a motorcycle accident last October, has had an operation here to remove the metal plate fastening the bones in his right shin. His condition was reported good and he will be able to resume walking again soon.

Twins Expecting 'Lot of Squawking'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Success is going to Calvin Griffith's pocketbook in 1966.

The Minnesota Twins' owner mailed new contracts to players on his American League baseball championship team Monday, and he admitted:

"There's going to be a lot of them squawking, but I've heard it before."

Griffith is caught in the bind of rewarding his players for winning the 1965 pennant and still holding his player payroll within what he considers reason.

"I would think our payroll would go to $600,000, he said. "That's second in baseball only to New York Yankees, who I would guess are around $700,000. If we got around $2,000,000 in radio and television money like the Yankees, we could do that too."

RAISES OFFERED

Griffith is offering raises to most of his players, holding a few at their 1965 level and asking only two to take cuts. He won't identify the two, but speculation centres on pitcher Dick Stigman, second baseman Bernie Allen or possibly outfielder Bob Allison.

The biggest contract fights are expected with shortstop Zoilo Versalles, the American League's most valuable player, and pitcher Jim Grant, who won 21 regular-season games and also chalked up two of the Twins' three victories in the World Series they lost last October to Los Angeles Dodgers.

Both have announced that they plan to ask for salaries in the $50,000 range. Griffith is adamant that neither will get that much.

MINOR HOCKEY

Results of last week's games in the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association:

Bantam-Canucks 0, Stampeders 2; Pee W[illegible] Quakers [illegible] Buckaroos 1, Blades 1; Pee Wee Cougars 3, Leafs 1.

EX-MAJOR LEAGUER

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Andrew (Jackson) Reese, 62, who played professional baseball for four years with the old New York Giants, died Monday following a short illness. Reese was a third baseman-outfielder with the Giants from 1927-30.

BABE RUTH DECISION . . . . . . DELAYED MONTH

City Still Batting

Victoria is still batting for the 1967 Babe Ruth World Series, but it will be at least a month before the final pitch is thrown.

With another "time out" called, officials of Babe Ruth International are planning a return visit to "further analyze" Victoria's bid.

That was the information handed Wilf Sadler, the Vancouver Island director, in a telegram Monday from Babe Ruth headquarters in Trenton, N.J.

The telegram read:

"Regret delay Jan. 10 decision. Further analysis necessitated between Babe Ruth officials and your group prior to final voting by international board of directors for selection of 1967 Babe Ruth World Series.

"Site and final decision and announcement will be made on or before Feb. 15.

"Executive vice-president Richard W. Case and J. J. Grant, board chairman of series committee, will meet with you next week."

A bid by Fairbanks, Alaska, apparently has caused the delay, said Sadler.

"Alaska must have come up with something," said the Victoria baseball executive. "Fairbanks application seems to have upset our applecart.

"I still think," Sadler continued, "that our position is stronger than ever."

Nancy Greene Close Second In Slalom Event

NANCY GREENE
. . . great effort

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (CP) — Marielle Goitschel of France won a special slalom today in the ladies' international ski meet here, barely edging Canada's Nancy Greene.

Miss Goitschel, 20-year-old Olympic champion, dipped and weaved down the two runs for a total time of one minute, 28.69 seconds. Miss Greene, 22, from Rossland, B.C., had a total time of 1:28.84.

Miss Greene broke into the European dominance of the starry Goitschel sisters, edging Christine Goitschel, 21, clocked in 1:29.98 for third place.

The winner was timed in 45.76 on an extremely difficult first run and had the fastest time of 42.93 seconds on a much easier second run. Miss Greene, rated first in the world last season in women's slalom and giant slalom, was timed in 45.87 and 42.97 for the two runs.

Christine Goitschel's clockings were 46.93 and 43.05.

FIELD OF 87

Today was the first time a "single stake" slalom had been run in international competition.

Twenty-nine competitors in the strong field of 87 from 14 countries were disqualified or dropped out on the steep first run today.

The second run was laid out for the first time with single poles instead of the traditional two-pole gates and allowed the contestants to make greater speed and sharper turns. Few fell on the second run.

Both runs were made on the same slope above Grindelwald, with only a few hundred spectators on hand. Snow fell during the first run, with vertical drop of 404 feet. A warm wind softened the snow before the second run with vertical drop of 394 feet.

Miss Greene was the only Canadian among the first 12 in unofficial aggregate results.

Meanwhile at Adelboden, the French-American duel between Jean-Claude Killy and Billy Kidd continued Monday with the American Kidd this time edging his rival.

Kidd, 22, of Stowe, Vt., emerged the clear over-all winner of the Adelboden giant slalom meet. He placed second in the first race Sunday and won Monday's race.

Killd, also 22, the winner of Sunday's race, fell Monday and was disqualified.

Both men hit top form at the beginning of the season, which culminates with the world championships at Portillo, Chile, in August.

The Canadian men's team could manage only a 31st placing in Monday's run as its best showing in the meet.

Peter Duncan, 21-year-old Sherbrooke, Que., native who is considered one of Canada's best hopes for international medals in the next few years, placed 31st in 1:54.97. He was disqualified in Sunday's race.

Scott Henderson, 22-year-old Calgary native, placed 34th.

Expansion Plans Get Off Ground At NHL Meeting

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League's board of governors will meet in New York Feb. 7 to 9 to consider applications from one Canadian organization and a dozen U.S. groups seeking a spot in the league's proposed expansion plans.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Monday he is looking "hopefully" to the meetings for some definite decisions aimed at getting a second six-team division beyond the planning stage.

The league proposes to add half a dozen teams to the present six-team loop for the 1967-68 season if possible or if not, by the opening of the 1968-69 schedule.

"It's quite possible an announcement will be made at the meetings concerning the allotment of franchises," Campbell said. "I'm looking hopefully to some decisions being made then."

However, it was "extremely unlikely" that a full complement of six new franchises would be decided in New York.

The fact a city has been deemed "suitable" to NHL requirements does not necessarily mean a franchise will be automatically allotted there, he said.

By last October the league announced Vancouver, San Francisco - Oakland, St. Louis and Los Angeles are centres meeting NHL standards.

COULD BE OAKLAND

The San Francisco - Oakland selection was made contingent on the completion of the new Oakland Alameda, scheduled to open early next year with a 13,000-plus seating capacity, or modernization of the Cow Palace—current home of San Francisco Seals of the Western Hockey League.

Completion of a proposed new arena in the Pacific National Exhibition grounds at Vancouver is the league's stipulation to that city.

It is understood that Vancouver's application comes from the current owners of Vancouver Canucks of the WHL.

The NHL president said 12 applications have been received at league headquarters from groups in the U.S.

FIVE FROM L.A.

He said the identity of the various applicants must remain confidential, but did disclose that the league received five applications from Los Angeles groups, two from Pittsburgh hopefuls, and one each from San Francisco, Minneapolis-St. Paul, St. Louis, Baltimore and Buffalo.

He refused to speculate as to which group or which cities will receive favor at the governors' meetings.

William Jennings, president of New York Rangers and a league governor, has said he personally favors Baltimore and Minneapolis-St. Paul, subject to a final check on their buildings and playing facilities.

'I HAVE A JOB'

Parseghian Turns Down Pro Offer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Post says Notre Dame Football coach Ara Parseghian was offered, but rejected the head coaching job of the professional Washington Redskins.

The newspaper says club president Edward Bennett Williams was believed to have talked to Parseghian Dec. 30 in Chicago.

The Post said Parseghian also was sought by the new Atlanta franchise and Pittsburgh of the National Football League and the new Miami franchise of the American Football League.

Parseghian, asked about the offers, was quoted as saying from his home in South Bend, Indiana:

"I have a job. I am the coach at Notre Dame. I am happy in college football. I don't know what I might do in the next three or four years."

Rochester Veteran Inherits Point Lead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Three goals in his last three starts lifted veteran Dick Gamble of Rochester Americans to the top of the American Hockey League scoring pack and within three tallies of the 350 career mark in AHL play.

Gamble, a 16-year professional, picked up two assists last week in addition to his 21st, 22nd and 23rd goals of the season, boosting his point total to 47 in 34 games. The five-point pickup gave him a one-point edge on Gordon Labossiere of Quebec Aces, the leader a week ago, according to official league figures released today.

The 37-year-old left winger also moved past slump-ridden Al Caron of Buffalo Bisons as the AHL's No. 1 goal-scorer. Caron, blanked in his last eight games, has 22 goals. Gamble's lifetime total of 347 goals is the fifth-highest in the league's history.

Labossiere, limited to two assists in three games during the week, has a two-point margin over third-place Murray Hall of Pittsburgh Hornets while sharing the playmaking lead with Bob Courcy of Cleveland Barons with 27 assists.

Rookies are running 1-2-3 in the goaltending derby. Quebec's Gary Bauman leads with a goals-against average of 2.63; Gary Smith of Rochester is second at 2.66 and George Gardner of the Hornets third with a 2.71 mark. Gardner increased his league-leading shutout total to six by blanking Buffalo last week.

FLEMING TRADED . . . . . . FOR McKENZIE

Green-Hunting Blues Get Reg

NEW YORK (AP)—New York hockey fans who thought the Rangers were after Boston's tough Ted Green had their signals crossed.

The Rangers acquired Reg Fleming, a rugged left winger, Monday in a National Hockey League deal that sent right-winger John McKenzie to the Bruins.

The swap was made by the NHL's fifth and sixth place clubs less than 24 hours after an advertised vendetta involving the Rangers and Green, Boston's volatile defenceman, failed to materialize during a 3-1 Bruins victory at Madison Square Garden.

William Jennings, the Rangers president, had declared a "bounty" on Green after the Bruin's penalty spree, which included a spearing incident that put New York's Phil Goyette out of action for a month, in Boston's previous visit to the Garden.

Green totalled 36 penalty minutes in that game, one minute short of the single-game league record.

The record-holder is Fleming, who set the mark in a 1960 game against the Rangers when he was playing defence for Chicago Black Hawks.

Fleming was traded by the Hawks to Boston in 1964 and responded with the best point production of his career. He scored 18 goals and added 23 assists.

The 29-year-old checking specialist had four goals and six assists this season for the last-place Bruins but had fallen out of favor with coach Milt Schmidt. Schmidt recently gave the six-year veteran a tongue lashing for lethargic play and Fleming claimed he wasn't playing enough.

McKenzie, 28, who came to New York from Chicago in a 1965 trade, has six goals and five assists this season.

The Rangers also recalled Rod Seiling, 21-year-old forward-defenceman, from their Minnesota farm team and returned centre Jim Johnson to the Central League club.

HECTIC SCRAMBLE FOR WORLD CUP TICKETS

Brazil Favored to Put Trophy Out of Circulation

LONDON (AP)—Pele, the genius of Brazil; Rivera, the slim Italian schemer or Rocha, Uruguay's ace goal-grabber—any of them could shoot the golden goals that could take the Jules Rimet Cup, emblematic of world soccer supremacy, out of circulation this year.

When the World Cup finals are staged in England in July, those three countries each will be trying to win it for the third time and make it theirs for keeps.

British bookmakers believe it will be Brazil. The Brazilians, defending champions, are favorites at odds of 5 to 2.

They won it in Sweden in 1958, and again in Chile in 1962. Most of the 1962 team has gone now, and the new Brazilian squad still is something of an unknown quantity.

But Pele still is there. While he is in the forward line, weaving, drawing opponents out of position, letting fly with his fantastic shots, Brazil is capable of defeating anybody.

Garrincha (Little Bird), the right-wing wizard whose dribbling helped Brazil to win the World Cup in 1962, now is out of favor with Brazilian soccer officials. Nobody here knows whether he will be coming to England with the team.

But there still is Edson Arantes do Nascimento—Pele, for short—and any World Cup star will tell you that Pele is the most feared player of all.

Brazil is competing with Portugal, Hungary and Bulgaria in group three, on the grounds of Manchester United and Everton. Manchester and Liverpool fans have been clamoring for tickets ever since the draw was announced.

Italy, winner of the trophy in 1934 and 1938, edged into the tournament by a victory over injury-weakened Scotland.

The Italians have one of the finest pairs of fullbacks in the world—Burgnich and Facchetti, of Internazionale Milan. They have Rivera in the forward line, to put opposing defenders out of position, and centre forward Mazzola to punch home the goals.

Italy is playing at Sunderland and Middlesbrough, along with Russia, Chile and North Korea. Rivera and Mazzola will have a hard job getting the ball past Russia's black-clad goalkeeper Yashin.

Uruguay has a tough draw. It has to play at London's Wembley Stadium in a group that includes host country England, and sellout crowds of 100,000 will be roaring for the home team.

The Uruguayans have had an uneven career in the World Cup. They won the trophy in 1930 and 1950, failed to qualify for the tournament in 1958, and could get no farther than the quarter-finals in 1962.

Hector Silva and Pedro Virgilio Rocha starred in Uruguay's forward line in 1962, and they are likely to be playing again. They'll have one of the hardest tasks of all, finding holes in England's defence, solidly put together by team manager Alf Ramsey.

France and Mexico will be competing with England and Uruguay in the London group.

West Germany is the only other country to have won the World Cup.

It took the trophy once, in 1954. Veteran centre forward Uwe Seeler is expected to lead the West German forward line against Argentina, Spain and Switzerland in group two.

Want to Be A Millionaire? —Try Football!

NEW YORK (AP)—It might have cost National and American football league clubs in the neighborhood of $25,000,000—give or take a million or two—over the last few weeks to sign college players in the high-pressure war for new talent.

There's no actual way of telling how much the 24 clubs spent but if you can believe reports, the five-figure contract has become commonplace, if it isn't already on the way to becoming obsolete.

At least 20 players are reported to have received contracts calling for from $200,000 to $700,000 or a total of about $7,000,000—just under the going rate for a new franchise complete with 32 veteran players.

PRICE SOARS

Ever since the NFL and AFL began battling over the country's top collegians the price has mushroomed. Joe Namath's $400,000 was tops last year but at least four players may have exceeded that figure this time.

And when you add in the various free agents signed—maybe as high as 50 for the new Atlanta and Miami clubs—with a $5,000 bonus and $10,000 in salary, it's easy to see how $25,000,000 might have been spent.

Joining Anderson in the $500,000-and-up group are Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski, who also signed with Green Bay; Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis, who went with Atlanta of the NFL and Missouri back Johnny Roland, who signed with St. Louis of the NFL.

The players receiving about $350,000 are Tulsa quarterback Billy Anderson, Los Angeles, NFL; Michigan State tackle Hal Lucas, St. Louis, NFL, and LSU tackle Dave McCormick, San Francisco, NFL.

LINEMEN CASH IN

At $325,000 are Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams, New York, AFL; Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird, Oakland, AFL; Mississippi halfback Mike Dennis, Los Angeles, NFL; Mississippi tackle Stan Hindman, San Francisco, NFL.

The $300,000 group shows LSU tackle George Rice, Houston, AFL; Missouri tackle Francis Peay, New York NFL; Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton, Miami, AFL; Arkansas tackle Glen Ray Hines, Houston, AFL.

In the $200,000 and above category are Kentucky tackle Sam Ball, Baltimore, NFL; Michigan tackle Bill Yearby, New York, AFL; Massachusetts end Milt Morin, Cleveland, NFL; Tulsa tackle Willie Townes, Dallas, NFL.

And if all those figures can be believed some player in college today, such as Floyd Little of Syracuse, might be signing for $1,000,000 next year.

ARGOS SIGN

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference have announced the signing of rookie quarterback Bill Van Burkleo and veteran tackles Bill Frank and Danny Nykoluk for the 1966 season.

Apartheid Policy Extended to Golf

CAPE TOWN (AP)—The South African government underlined Monday its determination to extend its policy of apartheid in sports to golf tournaments.

Planning Minister Jan Haak, in a statement, reaffirmed the government's earlier decision not to allow South Africa Indian golfer Sewsunker Sewgolum to play at Cape Town later this week in the eastern provinces' major tournament.

Sewgolum, who travelled from Johannesburg to Cape Town during the weekend, was trying to make contact with the minister to appeal the decision but his chances of success seemed slim.

A department of planning official seemed to close the door firmly when he said his department could not "take the matter any further."

Haak referred in his statement to permission given to Sewgolum, who took part last weekend in the South African Professional Golfers Associated Tournament near Johannesburg, to participate in competitions in previous years.

He said the earlier permission had been granted "as a concession against government policy" and that the concession "should in no circumstances be regarded as an indication that the government was diverging from its approved and clear policy."

The minister ruled last week that Sewgolum would not be allowed to play in the Natal Province open championship at Durban next month but later reversed that decision. Sewgolum defeated Gary Player to win the Natal Open last year and has twice won the Dutch Open.

SQUABBLE with Toronto's Kent Douglas may prove costly to defenceman Pierre Pilote (above) of National Hockey League-leading Chicago Black Hawks. Pilote suffered fractured thumb during second-period fight and may be lost to Hawks for three to four weeks.

Champs Not for Sale Say Celtics' Owners

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Traveler says the owners of Boston Celtics are trying to sell the National Basketball Association champions. The Traveler says two attempts to sell the Celtics "within the past 17 or 18 days" were rejected.

The Rupert-Knickerbocker Breweries purchased the Celtics for $3,000,000 from Mrs. Walter A. Brown, widow of the club's founder, and Lou Pieri last June.

The brewery later was sold with all assets except the Celtics and some New York real estate. The present owners are Marvin Kratter and Jack Waldron.

Hirshberg said Kratter's asking price was "something considerably over the $3,000,000 he paid the original owners."

In Cincinnati Waldron, president of the Celtics denied the report.

"We deny it categorically," said Waldron, who was here for the annual NBA All-Star game.

"The Celtics are here to stay. Neither Mr. Kratter nor I have entered any negotiations to sell the Celtics."

ILLEGAL RECRUITING TACTICS

Houston on Probation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The University of Houston was found guilty of three football recruiting violations Monday and was slugged with a severe three-year probation that prohibits the school's football team from appearing in post-season bowl games.

The penalty was announced at the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention.

At the same time, the NCAA council, policy-making body of the organization, removed one-year probationary status from Arkansas and West Texas State, and returned them to full membership.

The council's action prohibits Houston's football team from appearing in post-season bowl games for three years, beginning immediately, and does not allow them to appear on any national television broadcasts.

Houston was charged with violations involving financial aid — in each case free transportation — in 1963 and 1964; with five violations involving recruiting — mostly transportation and entertainment of prospective athletes — 1962-65, and on one count of conducting out-of-season football practices.

England Goes One Up in Test

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters) — England sent Australia reeling to an innings and 93 runs defeat in the third Test match here today to take a triumphant 1-0 lead in the five-match series.

Losing their last seven wickets during the day for 89 runs, Australia was all out for 174 at 11 minutes after lunch. They had followed on Monday's 267 runs behind after being dismissed for 221 in its first innings in reply to England's 488.

Australia lost Brian Booth and Bill Lawry, their two remaining senior batsmen, with only one run added to their overnight score of 85 for three, and from then on they had virtually no chance of saving the match.

BATTING MEDIOCRE

England spinners David Allen and Fred Titmus cut through their ranks with some superb spin bowling, but on a pitch which was never acutely difficult the batting was mediocre.

Doug Walters, who made a century in each of the two earlier Tests, both of which were drawn, was unbeaten for a dour 35, top score for the team, and David Sincock clouted 27 runs, with five boundaries, in 37 minutes. The other batsmen never looked like making a stand.

Allen took four wickets for 40 runs in 16 overs today for innings figures of four for 47, and Titmus took four wickets for 40 runs, two of them today for 19 runs.

It was England's best win in Australia for 31 years.

The last time Australia went down by an innings in Australia was in 1936-37. England won by an innings and 122 runs.

Canada's Divers Poorly Trained

TORONTO (CP)—A U.S. diving expert says it's not the athletes' fault that the standard of divers in Canada is so low.

"Your kids have a long way to go to reach world standards," Hobie Billingsley, diving coach at Indiana University and one of the top Americans in his field, said Monday.

"But it's not their fault. There's kids competing here for a national championship who've never gone off a decent board or had proper coaching in their lives."

Billingsley, whose divers have won 23 major titles in the last three years, was discussing the diving situation in Canada following the Canadian indoor 3-metre titles here on the weekend.

Little Leaguers Find Defender

HAMILTON (CP) — Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play in baseball's major leagues, defended little league baseball Monday night.

Robinson, 47, was speaking at the 15th annual B'nai B'rith sports celebrity dinner here at which the little league all-star baseball team from nearby Stoney Creek, Ont., was honored.

Stoney Creek reached the finals of the 1965 Little League championship in Williamsport, Pa., before losing to Windsor Locks, Conn.

"There has been some criticism of little league ball," said Robinson, 47, who starred as a second baseman for Brooklyn (now Los Angeles) Dodgers of the National League after breaking into organized ball with the old Montreal Royals of the International League.

"But I'm all for it as long as coaches and parents realize the pressure of winning should not be too great on the boys. Let them relax and enjoy the game."

RCAF IN CONGO

Heat, Humidity At $20 a Day

By Wayne MacDonald
(Special To The Times)

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—As the first rays of dawn crept over central Africa, it flashed against the silver fuselage of a giant RCAF Yukon one morning last week.

On board were 51 RCAF ground crew officers from Namao, Alberta and Ottawa en route to Leopoldville to take part in the oil lift to petrol-starved Zambia.

The men will service the four mighty Hercules cargo carriers which each carry 108 barrels of oil a day to the Zambian cities of Ndola and Lusaka.

As the dawn filled the aircraft with spectacular orange light, the men stirred and prepared themselves for their final Canadian breakfast, an orthodox early morning meal of roast beef and mashed potatoes.

The servicemen had been 28 hours in the air flying from Ottawa to Etain in France from Etain to Kano, Nigeria, and from there on to Leopoldville.

106 IN CONGO

Their arrival in The Congo brings to 106 the total number of RCAF personnel taking part in the oil airlift. Many of the men on the Yukon had never been to Africa before.

Many, in fact, had never been to Europe. They spent the long hours of the flight glued to their cabin windows peering open-mouthed at the fields of France; the jewel lights of Nice and Monaco; as the aircraft flew over the Mediterranean at the sands of the Algerian desert and finally at the moonlit African jungles and the myriad native camp fires.

As the dawn rose, the Yukon was at the mouth of the Congo River and headed east to Leo. It finally swooped down across the city, a dirty, depressing metropolitan area of approximately 1,500,000 blacks and 25,000 whites. On arrival at the desolate airport, the men immediately saw the conditions they will work under for at least the next month; 100-degree heat all day; a humidity of between 90 and 100 per cent; a huge open service hangar which offers no protection from the searing heat; nearby fields which abound with snakes and lizards.

WORK AT NIGHT

Fortunately a good deal of the service work is done at night but even then the temperature is often in the 80s and the humidity just as high. The servicemen have been billeted at numerous hotels ranging from adequate to appalling in downtown Leo, some 20 miles from the airport. Many men are complaining bitterly about the accommodation but there is just nothing else available. Food is another source of irritation as there are few restaurants where it is safe to eat and prices are high. It is impossible to drink Leopoldville water which pours from the tap a muddy brown and the men must drink expensive beer or soft drinks. Virtually everything here is expensive due to two recent rulings by Congolese President Joseph Mobutu aimed at improving the local economy. Mobutu has ordered that all foreigners in the country exchange their money at the official bank rate of 150 Congolese Francs per American dollar.

This increases the cost of living of the servicemen since those who came here earlier, at the start of the air lift, were getting 350 to 400 Francs to the dollar on the money black market.

SPEND $20

Mobotu also declared that each foreigner in the country must spend a minimum of $20 American a day.

Persons in the country, including servicemen, can be stopped and searched at any time by armed officers of Mobutu's Force Publique and forced to show they have bank receipts for the required amount of Francs they should have spent.

The greatest problem of all facing both the ground crews and officers is ground transportation from Leo to the airport. No ground transport has been brought from Canada and replying on the Congolese is almost like hoping for Christmas in January.

Congolese-driven buses are ordered for a 6:30 a.m. pickup each morning at the various hotels. On occasions they arrive at 7 a.m., more often it is 7:30 or 8, and even later.

Even when they arrive you can't always be sure they will get to the airport in one piece.

But, even with these problems and more, the Royal Canadian Air Force is managing to make a great success of the oil lift.

Chef Hopefuls Seeking Entry To Cook Course

Applications are pouring in from would-be chefs.

Donald Cutler, supervising chef for the Canadian Pacific hotels, said he expected a dozen applications at the most but by late Monday more than 50 have arrived.

Of the applicants, possibly five or six will be chosen for a three-year course. They will graduate as juorneymen chefs and write provincial exams.

Mr. Cutler said the course met a good reception at CPR hotels in other cities.

Freedom-Bound Defectors Killed

TAIPEI (UPI) — Nationalist Chinese ships and planes Monday were ordered on "full alert" in the Formosa Strait, where Chinese Communist jets shot down an unarmed seaplane carrying three defecting seamen who, minutes earlier, proclaimed they were on "the road to freedom."

The twin-engine HU16 amphibious plane also carried a crew of three and an unknown number of Nationalist Chinese officials sent to the island of Matsu to welcome the sailors.

The seamen from Red China earlier in the day had sailed their 25-ton F131 armed landing boat to Matsu, off the Chinese mainland, after a shipboard mutiny in which seven of the 25 men aboard were killed. The defectors said four of the dead also wanted to defect.

The sailors, who were welcome by the Taiwan government, had displayed a safe-conduct card dropped over the China mainland by Nationalist planes.

Then they boarded the doomed plane for the trip to Taipei.

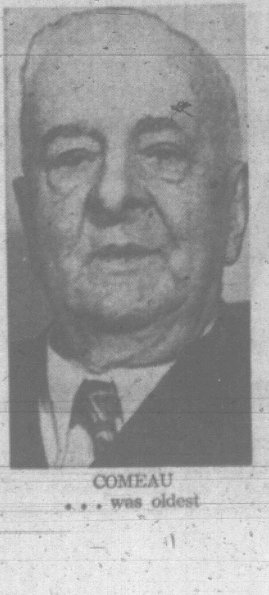
The aircraft took off from Matsu at mid-afternoon but 15 minutes later was attacked at low altitude by Red Chinese MiG jets. An air-sea search turned up no trace of the downed plane.

A large number of Nationalist jet fighters and warships were operating in the northern Formosa Strait with orders to engage any Red Chinese ships or planes in sight.

Canada Senator, 89, Dies in Nova Scotia

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—J. Willie Comeau, 89, one of Canada's oldest politicians, died in hospital here today following a brief illness.

Senator Comeau was taken to hospital about two weeks ago with an undisclosed ailment. Until his illness he had planned to attend the next session of Parliament. He submitted his resignation Monday to Governor-General Vanier.



COMEAU
. . . was oldest

He was first elected to the Nova Scotia legislature in 1907 and was continually returned as a Liberal member until 1925 when he was appointed to the executive council.

When the council was abolished in 1928 he again ran for the legislature and was elected continually until his Senate appointment in 1948.

Senator Comeau is survived by his wife, eight daughters, a brother and two sisters.

The body will be taken to the family home in Comeauville, N.S., and the funeral will be held from St. Mary's Church in Church Point, N.S. Time and date of the funeral has not yet been announced.

The current Senate standings are Liberals 54, Conservatives 31, independent 1, independent-Liberal 2, vacancies 14, total 102.

ONLY Conservative to win a Montreal seat in the last general election, Georges Calade said he is thinking of quitting the PC party. He said he will decide in the next few days but, in any event, will not attend the PC caucus Saturday of the Quebec Conservative MPs.

FIVE PROVINCES 'LAGGING'

More Civil Rights Urged For Mental Home Patients

OTTAWA (CP) — Patients in mental hospitals in five provinces can still be detained indefinitely against their wills and without reviews of their condition, a psychiatrists' conference was told Monday.

Toronto lawyer Barry Swadron said half the provinces have updated their laws to protect the civil rights of mental patients, but the other five lagged behind.

Speaking at the annual institute on mental health services sponsored by the Canadian Psychiatric Association, he criticized the mental hospital laws of Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces except Nova Scotia.

He said that in Ontario, for instance, a person could be committed to a mental hospital for life or long periods purely on the strength of certificates signed by two psychiatrists at the time of the patient's admission.

Mr. Swadron, who studied the legislation for the psychiatric association, praised Nova Scotia and the four western provinces for requiring hospital psychiatrists to examine all patients often and decide whether they are ready for release or need more care.

"There is an obvious need for independent boards of review to consider contentious cases, to protect the civil rights of patients.

'NOT ALL INCOMPETENT'

"Not all persons who are hospitalized against their will are incompetent to manage their affairs. No more rights than necessary should be taken from the individual."

In another address, Dr. C. A. Roberts, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Toronto, criticized federal plans to build four maximum-security criminals. The first one is under construction near Montreal.

He said the plans constitute an extreme approach. ". . . There have been proposals for the most physically restricted and psychologically damaging detention centres one could imagine."

He expressed concern about the "lack of communication" between penitentiaries officials in the justice department and the "best-informed professional people" in the corrections field.

Dr. Roberts also criticized the federal health department for not being more active in improving services for the mentally ill.

Dr. J. N. Crawford, deputy health minister, replied in an interview that the mental health division can only do as much as the provinces request. Health services were provincial matters.

FISHING CLUBHOUSE SET IN ESQUIMALT

Esquimalt council Monday night approved initial plans for construction of an Esquimalt and District Anglers' Association clubhouse.

The building will be at Fleming Beach on municipal property.

Council gave permission to lay a concrete slab and add a third ramp alongside the existing two.

Although the work will be done by the association as funds allow, the building will become the property of the municipality when completed.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Handi-Van can turn in a 35.5 foot circle. Lets you scoot out of packed traffic and deliver your goods where and when you promised.

Look at all the space. Handi-Van measures 211 cu. ft. inside. That will hold up to a ton of payload. Loadspace length from engine housing back is over 92 inches.

The engine is a 120-hp engineering gem. And if you want more muscle, you can specify a 140-hp workhorse. Powerglide is available too.

The metal floor is built to shrug off abuse from 'most any kind of load. In fact, it's a heavy duty floor at no extra cost.

Handi-Van's body and frame are unitized. And the heavy-gauge steel has extra resistance to corrosion, giving you longer service.

You can see how great Handi-Van is from the back. But the most important thing is on the front.

It's that GMC nameplate that makes the difference. Not the plate itself of course, but what it represents. GMC has a reputation for Engineering Leadership. For instance: realizing most Handi-Vans would be city-operated and subject to road moisture and salt, GMC engineers started at the bottom. Sheet metal in exposed areas is first galvanized, then covered with aluminum paint, phosphated . . . then, after all that, undercoated! No wonder Handi-Van stands up so well under the worst a Canadian winter has to offer. And no wonder GMC has earned that reputation for leadership. When you're thinking vans—think Handi-Van, by GMC.

RC Teachers Test New Strike Right

Long-Standing Grievances Boil to Surface In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—The current strikes by teachers in Quebec result from a general unrest among the profession that goes back several years.

The strikes started a week ago today with 284 French-speaking teachers in the suburban Montreal school region of Le Gardeur. They were followed out a day later by 354 teachers in the Ottawa Valley region in and west of Hull.

Since then 123 teachers have walked out in the Papineau region, while still more plan to do so Jan. 19 in Vaudreuil-Soulanges west of Montreal.

In the Eastern Townships, several thousand teachers have decided not to strike but to quit their jobs unless the local school boards meet their conditions for a new collective agreement.

In all these instances, the teachers want salaries increased to what they consider equitable levels.

In the Ottawa Valley region, the teachers are asking wages equal to those paid in the city of Ottawa. In all regions, the teachers want parity between men and women.

FACTORS LIE DEEP

There are, however, deeper factors—factors shown in the publication a few years ago of "Frere Untel" and the so-called new awakening in Quebec.

Brother Jean-Paul Desbiens, author of Les Insoleances du Frere Untel (The Impertinences of Brother Anonymous), told of the long suffering of a Roman Catholic teaching brother trying to educate the children of Quebec. The book sold like hot cakes.

Underlying the story was the contention that education in Quebec left much to be desired, a problem that the Lesage government tackled soon after coming into office in 1960.

The government set up a royal commission which studied education in Quebec, the rest of Canada and the United States. After its report, the government esablished a department of education which has been reorganizing the structure of the school system and teaching in the province.

TIGHTEN SYSTEM

The department has consolidated the myriad local school commissions — some 1,200 of them before reorganization—into 55 regional school boards. Last year, the government gave public servants the right to strike. Prior to that, teachers used the device of holding "study sessions."

There are other problems too. One is the difficulty that some school commissions have in raising money to pay the teachers. When the commissions do not have enough money, the teachers may continue to work until their situation gets desperate.

The education department then steps in to shake up or shore up local finances. But the commissions still have to call for extra money from the community.

With the increasing stress on education and growing number of children in schools, not to mention adult classes at night, there haven't been enough teachers to go around.

NEED MORE CLASSROOMS

Nor have there been enough classrooms, although the education department is building more and more schools under the regional boards.

The teachers say they have to work longer hours to handle the work of larger classes. As a result, they haven't the time to take additional university courses to improve their status and salary.

In negotiations meanwhile, the Hull regional school board is preparing a new salary seale, based partly on a conciliator's suggestions, to be presented to teachers' representatives Wednesday.

There was no sign of a move toward negotiation in the Papineau and Le Gardeur areas.

In Hull, the executive of the 150-member Junior Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution Monday night calling on the teachers to return to work for a month, without prejudice to their right to strike while negotiations continue.

Such a "magnanimous act" would serve the public interest, the chamber said. There was no immediate comment from the teachers.

FIVE 'COPTERS RESCUE NUNS' CAR IN S. VIET

QUI NHON, Viet Nam (AP)—The sisters of the Cross of Love have their car back in running order but it took five U.S. helicopters to do it.

The story goes back a year to the village of Xuan Thuong, 10 miles north of Qui Nhon and 260 miles northeast of Saigon, on the South China Sea Coast.

The Viet Cong seized the place and Sister Julienne, acting as mother superior, herded her handful of nuns out to safety.

They left behind their little diesel-powered vehicle, but first stripped it of battery, distributor cap and other vitals so it could not be operated.

Bridges in and out of the village were blown up and the car couldn't get far anyhow.

Two months ago Korean troops came back to Xuan Thuong.

The nuns went back to their convent base and found the vehicle useless.

The U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division responded to a plea for help. Five choppers were lined up for the job. In went tires. Pathfinders secured the area. A Chinook hovered over the beat-up old vehicle, picked it up and brought it out.

The rescued vehicle was landed in Qui Nhon and now is transporting children to school running errands for the parish and is a generally pretty zippy addition to the work of the church.

WAVES SLAM FISHBOAT

Russians Rescue U.S. Pair

BOSTON (UPI) — Two injured New Bedford fishermen, recovering in Brighton Marine Hospital, today praised crewmen of a Russian ship that saved them and their vessel from murderous Atlantic seas.

Hospital officials desribed as satisfactory the condition of Leo Powers, 55, who suffered multiple fractures of the left leg, and Donald Clattenberg, 40, who had bruises and deep cuts.

The men, crew members of the 67-foot dragger Venture I, were airlifted here Monday night after being rescued by the Russian fish processing ship Zelenogorsk.

"If it weren't for the Russians, we wouldn't be here now," said Powers.

"The Russians can take their share of the fish," said Clattenberg. "They did one hell of a rescuing job.

The 376-foot Russian factory ship went to the aid of the Venture I early Monday morning after the dragger had undergone a merciless battering.

HUGE WAVES

"I was at the wheel and was having a tough job of keeping the ship under control," recalled Clattenberg. "Finally huge waves crashed through the pilot house and I fell backward with other members of the crew. The sea was unbelievable."

Clattenberg said the Zelenogorsk hovered about the dragger, pouring out oil to calm the waves, then lowered a dory and brought the injured men aboard.

A smaller Russian vessel, identified as "motor vessel A429," took the venture in tow.

The coast guard cutter Vigilant rendezvoused with the Russians Monday afternoon about 30 miles off Nantucket. A helicopter carried Power directly to New Bedford, while Clattenberg made the trip in the Vigilant.

ACTRESS Greer Garson Monday rejected an invitation from Texas Republicans to run for the House of Representatives in the 1966 Congressional elections. The star of Mrs. Miniver declined after considering the offer.

Treatment by Radio Bid to Save Cut Man

BOSTON (AP) — A Boston doctor dictated treatment by radio Monday for a fisherman who suffered a deep head wound aboard a trawler pounded by strong winds and high seas off Cape Cod.

Harry Ingram, about 62, suffered a gash from the right ear to the right eye, was bleeding badly and was reported near death.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acushnet was ordered out of Province-town and reached the trawler, Rush, some 120 miles east of Woods Hole.

A coast guard medical corpsman was put aboard the Rush. He examined Ingram and then helped transfer him to the Acushnet. There the fisherman was treated and reported "stronger than expected."

Capt. John Pendergrass of the Rush said Ingram had fallen against a shattered port hole during the storm.

The coast guard said that when it was determined there were no ships with doctors aboard in the immediate vicinity of the Rush, a radio relay was set up between the public health hospital, the coast guard and the trawler.

"Pack off the wound with gauze or whatever type sterile bandage you have aboard, wrap it tight and apply pressure and ice," Dr. John Ratino said into the hospital radio transmitter.

Ratino said the crew replied that they were having a difficult time controlling the bleeding.

They dropped anchor but still the severe jarring motion of the ship in 18-foot seas and 50-knot winds was making the bleeding worse, the fishermen said.

"Now take his pulse," Ratino said.

"One hundred," came back the reply. Ratino said a normal pulse rate is 70 and that if Ingram's rate were not checked soon he would not live.

"Make up a sugar-and-water solution and administer it by mouth," the surgeon directed. This was to help increase the blood volume and body energy.

A hospital spokesman said the treatment-by-radio arrangement is run by doctors in off-duty hours and that the duty is rotated among staff members.

Similar situations arise frequently, the spokesman said.

Cyclist Hurt

A young cyclist was taken to hospital Saturday afternoon after he was in collision with a car on Fairfield near St. Charles.

Walter Giessler, 8, of 1464 Fairfield, was treated for leg injuries and released later from Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Police said he was in collision with a car driven by Ethel M. Palmer, 1638 Hollywood Crescent.

Blast At Ski Resort

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — An explosion believed caused by propane gas smashed a three-story building into six feet of rubble at a bustling ski area Monday, killing one and injuring 13. Scores might have been killed had the blast come one day earlier when 1,500 tourists jammed the resort high in the Colorado Rockies.

Bastion Offers $39,000 Program For Centenary

For $39,000 a local amateur acting group has offered to put on two centennial shows in 1967. For $40,000 a top-flight United States production company has offered to do basically the same.

On January 18 a special meeting of the Greater Victoria Confederation Society will decide who gets the nod.

Bastion Theatre Studio made its bid for centre stage Monday evening with a detailed brief to the society outlining its proposals for an indoor stage production and an outdoor pageant.

Two American companies and one Calgary company are bidding also for the honor—and two thirds of the $60,500 the society has to spend.

Peter Mannering, artistic director of Bastion Theatre, said the indoor production could be staged for $10,685. He forecast that a four-day run would lose $6,696, a 12-day run $400.

The outdoor pageant with a cast of more than 1,000 would cost $28,300 to stage, Mr. Mannering said. No estimate as to revenue was given.

The $28,300 would cover three performances of the outdoor pageant the script of which would be written by a local professional writer.

The indoor production, he said, could be a play on the trial of Louis Riel, Emily Carr's birthday party or one of Canada's early musicals Timber or Bonanza.

After an hour's discussion Monday the society decided to call a special meeting for Jan. 18 to discuss all proposals in detail and make a finsl decision.

Early in last night's meeting Alan Kent of Saanich had expressed alarm at the growing tendency of the society to be regarded as a sugar daddy by organizations holding events during centennial year.

NO IDEAS

"It looks to me as though we are only considering these (a list of grant applications) because we haven't thought of anything original to do," he said.

Lack of decision on the part of the Society came under fire from John Cockerill of Central Saanich.

"This is our 20th meeting and our agenda is practically the same as when we started," he said. "What it boils down to is that so far we haven't come up with any ideas for celebrations."

FEE FIGHT WON SAYS STUDENT

By SUE PELLAND
Uvic Correspondent

University of Victoria students' council thinks it has already prevented fees from going up next year.

At an open assembly Friday, the first since the withholding plan was put to students in November, students' president Paul Williamson and vice-president John Thies told students they should withhold their $56 until Jan. 27, the opening day of the legislature.

Wednesday night the Uvic Board of Governors waived the $5 fine on the first deadline for payment of fees (Jan. 7), remaining firm on their Jan. 15 deadline.

The board told the council that students who haven't paid their fees in full by Jan. 17 will be charged a $10 late fine.

At Friday's assembly Thies told students: "I don't think we're going to have to pay the $10 fine. The board doesn't want our blood money.

"I think we have already prevented fees from going up," he said later.

The council urged students to pay on the 27th explaining: "We must extend it past the Jan. 17th deadline in order to focus our action away from the board. If we paid on the 17th it would clearly look as though we were withholding until the board gave way. We want to relate our action to the legislative assembly."

Council assured students there was little chance any of them will be expelled.

If students are required to pay the $10 late fine on the 27th, the council has said they have the guarantee of financial assistance from other Canadian universities.

SEPTEMBER SHOW

Sandown Considered As RCMP Ride Site

The famed RCMP Musical Ride, scheduled to perform in Victoria Sept. 9-10 does not as yet have a home.

Monday evening the Greater Victoria Confederation Centennial Society was told that Royal Athletic Park would not be available for the September dates.

The park is scheduled to undergo a major renovation program this year.

The ride could take place in the Arena, the society was told, but the cost of trucking in dirt fill for the safety of riders and horses would mean the performances would run at a heavy loss.

The same problem would face organizers if the ride was staged in Beacon Hill Park as one committee member suggested.

Provincial and city bylaws prevent the charging for admission to any shows staged in the park area.

As a last resort society members will try to book Sandown Park, Sidney, for the show.

It was pointed out that Sandown has the stabling facilities for horses and ample fan accommodation.

The racing season at Sandown opens the week following the ride.

Arthur Mayse

Among the accounts which filtered down from the snow-plugged Fraser Canyon last week was one that shocked me darn near speechless. The gist of it was that certain inclusive - fare passengers trapped in the crack CPR Transcontinental were refused food because they lacked the chikamin to pay for meals they hadn't counted on needing.

This because the company officer empowered to commission emergency chow for stranded travellers could not be reached from the slide area.

Well, maybe that's the way the grand old line handles matters these days, but I for one find it pretty disillusioning. Perhaps because a conductor on the E & N shared his lunch with me when I was about 11 years old, I have always taken it for granted that the CPR and its offshoots on land and sea couldn't bear to let a passenger go hungry.

My conviction was strengthened considerably when Win and I boarded the Princess Norah for a honeymoon cruise along the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Norah was a humbler ship than her proud sister-princesses that coursed between the Island and the mainland. Like all of them, though, she fed her passengers royally.

★ ★ ★

This we discovered with our first meal, which happened to be breakfast.

The Norah was laying to off Nitinat Bar while Indians in a sea-going dugout canoe loaded mail and supplies for Clo-oose.

A heavy swell was running. This, augmented by tide, imparted to the ship a corkscrew motion which became downright unsettling.

"Is something the matter?" my bride asked. "You're turning the oddest shade of green."

I felt green, too, but before I could fully analyze the condition, a glass materialized by my hand. A voice said soothingly in my ear, "This will fix you up directly."

Against my better judgment, I drank. The top of my head lifted several inches, descended with a slight thud, and the green feeling vanished.

I ordered scrambled eggs and sausage for two, and we were embarked on such a marathon of good eating as has rarely come our way since.

That steward didn't merely serve us—he plied us with roast duckling, shrimps in curry, thick steaks and in-between snacks as if his very life depended on fattening us.

This while the Norah poked her way in and out of remote coves, with a stop for a cannery here, and a leisurely side-excursion to a floating camp or a mining settlement far down the next inlet.

The upshot was that our all-inclusive trip lengthened from the specified seven days to nine.

But did the line bid us go hungry when our week was up?

Not on your life! Instead, we continued to gorge on the best the Norah's wonderful galley could produce.

★ ★ ★

If the CPR's ships fed their patrons both generously and graciously — remember the dazzling white table linen, the baronial cutlery, the super-plump olives nestling amid the iced celery?—its trains weren't behindhand, either.

If we land lucky in our next reincarnation, our hope is to find ourselves in a diner with plenty of scenery whipping past the windows, and our appetites in good order.

We'll ask for an Alberta steak, or maybe a Winnipeg gold-eye, and later we'll drink Canada's best coffee from oversized cups while the power line poles tick off the miles.

I didn't mean it to happen, but this screed seems to have turned itself from a scolding into something mighty like a love-song. Back, then, to our theme!

Next time a batch of hapless passengers find themselves committed to the CPR for a space beyond the limit of their fares, I hope the line will be prepared to cover the situation adequately.

This it can best do by remembering the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and keeping him well fed, CPR-style, to journey's end.

FRONT AND CENTRE as usual, Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham autographs the 100,000th round fired in Korea by the 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Tonight at Bay Street Armoury he will be honored by officers who served with him in 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment.

ROCKY ON LAST VISIT

JOINS ENGINEERING FIRM

Kilted Wrecker Turns Constructive

By TERRY IZZARD

Victorians like to think of him as THEIR general.

Like something from a war movie, Maj.-Gen. John M. (Rocky) Rockingham, is rough and ready.

In his day, he gained fame on the battlefronts of France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Korea.

Now all that's behind him.

In just a few weeks, General Rockingham will be Mister.

The kilted superman, as he was affectionately known to the troops, is retiring from the army for the second time in his star-studded life.

In the 54-year-old general's own words: "A soldier's job is largely destructive.

●

"In industry the work is constructive. This appeals to me tremendously."

On Saturday he will relinquish command of the Western Command to take up a post with Loram Ltd., of Calgary, a long-range planning group of Mannix Co. Ltd., a general engineering firm.

His 33-year army career will end undramatically.

But long after the jovial giant—he's 6-foot 3-inch tall—is gone, his courageous exploits will be the talk of many a mess table.

Like the time in 1944 when he took an enemy machine gun post single-handedly.

He was alone, armed only with a Tommy gun, when the machine gunner opened fire on him.

Instead of diving for the ground he ran straight towards the emplacement, killing two men and capturing a third.

The former linesman for B.C. Electric Railway Co.—at one time he dug holes for power poles—was to notch up many more such exploits before his fighting days were over.

They were to earn him several medals, including the Companion of the Bath, DSO with Bar, CBE and ED.

Born Aug. 24, 1911, in Sydney, Australia, the man who was to become a legend had no thoughts of an army career when he arrived in Victoria as a boy of 19 in 1930.

●

In 1933 he joined B.C. Electric. Even more important, as it was to turn out, was his enrolment as a reserve in the 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment.

When war broke out in 1939, Rocky, as he was already known, was a captain in the reserves.

In order to get to the fighting front he took a position as lieutenant with the regulars.

It didn't take long for him to show his true metal and in 1942 he was promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

In 1944, at the age of 33, he became the youngest Canadian to command his own brigade—the 9th Canadian Infantry. By this time he had been made a brigadier.

●

He hit the front pages of London's daily newspapers with a photograph showing him accepting the German surrender of Boulogne.

At the time, Rocky had just lit a cigarette while the German general was fumbling in his trenchcoat pocket for a light.

According to the picture caption the brigadier in tartan trews was saying:

"I have given him a cigarette and now he wants me to light it for him—darned if I will."

A man of quick decision, he made headlines in August, 1950, when he received a phone call from Lt. Gen. Charles Foulkes asking: "Want to go back to war?"

●

At the time, Rocky was progressing rapidly up the executive scale with B.C. Motor Transportation Co. in Vancouver.

His answer: "Give me 20 minutes to make up my mind."

Although it was no easy decision for a man with a good business future and a growing family, a day or so later he was back in the Scottish uniform flying east.

●

As commander of Canada's 25th Brigade he went into the Korean front line Sept. 4, 1951.

There, the long-striding brigadier made a further name for himself.

A war correspondent of the day recalled how the brigadier asked a machine gunner at his post: "That position suit you?"

"No, sir, I would rather be up there," pointing a few yards up the hill.

"Why?"

"Well, sir, from up there I would have a better chance to kill more of them if they come in, sir."

●

"Son, if that's the way you feel about it, move your gun right up there and I won't worry about this flank any more."

He was also something of a psychologist.

At one stage of the war, out-of-combat troubles were caused just about 100 per cent by poison liquor sold by unscrupulous natives.

In an unprecedented action, he had the rotgut analyzed and the contents made publicly known.

The findings: formaldehyde, alcohol and 60 per cent human urine.

There was no more trouble.

At this time, the troops' theme tune was called "Rocky's Army."

It was among the many songs sung round a battered old piano during the evenings when Brigadier Rockingham liked nothing better than to chip in with his staff. (His own favorite tune was Waltzing Matilda).

After serving at the front with his men for longer than any Canadian force C.O. before or since, Brigadier Rockingham was ordered home.

He became director-general of military training at army headquarters in 1952 and later attended the Imperial Defence College.

In 1954 he was promoted to major-general and given command of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

Between then and being given his present command in October, 1961, he managed to devote plenty of time to his pet sport, skiing.

●

On Thursday, Maj.-Gen. John Meredith Rockingham will pay his last official visit to Work Point Barracks, Victoria.

His army career will be ended.

But the man will long be remembered.

Lee Calls for Conference On School, Hospital Costs

Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee today called for an early provincial-municipal conference to discuss revision of school and hospital financing.

The reeve will ask the Greater Victoria-Vancouver inter-municipal committee to press the government for a meeting before the legislature opens Jan. 27.

"Since the government in the past few years has announced budget surpluses, I see no reason why it shouldn't pay more towards school costs," he said.

"What was a satisfactory school tax formula a few years ago, is not necessarily so today," he said. "School costs are escalating and have become a heavy burden on municipalities."

Reeve Lee said the government should also pay more towards hospital construction costs. It now pays 50 per cent.

The reeve was the first civic leader last fall to oppose a two-mill levy for hospital construction in the capital region on the grounds the government should pay more.

The reeve isn't against municipalities sharing hospital construction costs.

"I don't believe hospitals should be entirely under government control," he said. "But I feel the government should take on more financial responsibility."

Wrong-Way Grade Protested

A road with a wrong-way grade on a dangerous curve is causing too many accidents, according to H. M. Pottinger, superintendent of Wayside House, 550 Foul Bay Road.

In a letter to city council Mr. Pottinger said Foul Bay Road at Gonzales was graded so that cars travelling either way were forced into dangerous positions when rounding the curve.

City engineer James Garnett admitted to the public works committee this morning the grade is bad but said it would be extremely costly to correct. Any changes would spoil the beauty of the road, he added.

20 MPH ZONE

"It is clearly posted as a 20 mph zone," he said. "At that speed a driver encounters no difficulties. It is only when that speed is exceeded that a driver runs into trouble.

Ald. Robert Baird said he travelled the road regularly and agreed the curve is dangerous.

"I'm afraid that one day there will be a serious accident there," he said. "It is almost a blind corner and taking it at even slightly over 20 mph is exceptionally dangerous. The situation there is desperate and we should do something about it."

Mr. Garnett said the problem only existed because people disobeyed traffic regulations.

The committee decided to have the city engineer review the problem and bring in a recommendation.

Pedestrian Fairly Good After Mishap

A pedestrian involved in an accident at Rockland and Terrace Monday is in fairly good condition today.

Edith Priest, 72, of 1151 Rockland, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering a broken hip and other injuries at 3:23 p.m.

She was crossing Rockland from north to south at Terrace when in collision with a car driven by Brian Tucker, 5850 West Saanich, police said.

Also in hospital but in good condition is motorcyclist David Keith Henderson, 18, of 3796 Cadboro Bay.

BACK INJURY

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at 7:39 p.m. Monday suffering back and thumb injuries.

Henderson was proceeding south on Douglas when he was in collision with a vehicle driven west on Finlayson by Andy Krogstad, 1671 Richardson, police said.

Cyclist Jennifer Soulsby, Margaret Newton Hall, University of Victoria, was treated Monday for a head cut after she was in collision with a car in Saanich.

Police identified the driver of the vehicle as Dale Thompson, 880 Island Highway.

Inquests To Resume

Inquests into four December deaths will resume this week.

A probe into the traffic death of city newsman Vernon Lacey will continue tonight. He died in a Beacon Hill Park crash Dec. 15.

Wednesday night an inquest into the death of pedestrian Mrs. Annie Bradley will continue.

She died from injuries received when in collision with a car on Pandora Dec. 5.

Thursday evening a coroner's jury will deal with the deaths of Frank Miller, 66, and his wife Cleo, 44.

Miller shot his wife in their Colwood home Dec. 18, then died in city police cells shortly after.

More clues into his death will be given Thursday when lab test results are presented as evidence.

All inquests will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Victoria Law Courts.

$3,500 Bail Set For Man Charged With Break-In

Leonard George Bell, 4145 Wilkinson Rd., was remanded to Jan. 18 for election when he appeared in court today charged in connection with a break-in Monday night.

He is charged with breaking and entering and theft from Burnside Esso Service, 300 W. Burnside.

Bail was set at $3,500 by Magistrate William Ostler who denied a request from Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett to have it fixed at $5,000.

Entry was gained to the premises by smashing a window in a large sliding door. Cigarette and soft drink machines were rifled.

REPORT NEARLY READY

Outside Help Probed In Colquitz Escapes

An investigation at Colquitz provincial jail is nearing completion but the possibility of "outside help" in some recent escapes still is under scrutiny, it was disclosed today.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said S. Rocksborough Smith, director of corrections in the province, is almost finished preparing his report.

"The possibility of charges being laid against people outside the jail have not been fully canvassed yet but it remains under consideration," Mr. Bonner said in answer to a question.

He said it was obvious "there was a gap in the security at the jail—there were steps taken to meet a known risk but they were not sufficient."

Ten inmates have escaped for varying periods since the former mental home on Wilkinson Road in Saanich was turned into a provincial jail about two years ago.

The current investigation was ordered after David Robinson, convicted of the sex-slaying of schoolgirl Susan Freschi, broke out of custody last fall and remained free 2½ days.

DESTROYER TO ESCORT NEW FERRY

B.C.'s newest ferry, the Queen of Prince Rupert, will have an armed escort when she makes her inaugural run from Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert this May.

The destroyer-escort HMCS Yukon, under Cmdr. Richard Carle, of Victoria, will be conducting a series of exercises to and from the northern port city during the ferry's first run.

The Yukon and the Queen of Prince Rupert will arrive at Prince Rupert May 21 for inaugural ceremonies.

Details of the ship's program will be announced later.

Crop Loss Cheques Mailed Soon

Farm representatives expressed satisfaction with their first meeting on the golden nematode problem Monday with the new federal agriculture minister, J. J. Greene.

"The meeting accomplished a lot and we should have had a meeting like this four or five months ago," said Geoffrey Vantreight, one of a delegation that spent almost three hours with Mr. Greene during his first visit to Victoria.

Ed Lohbrunner, another delegation member, said Mr. Greene gave the first commitment by the federal government that farmers and nurserymen would be compensated for destroyed crops and surplus stock which could not be sold due to a government quarantine after the infestation was discovered here.

CHEQUES SOON

"Compensation for crop loss is in the process of settlement and I believe some of the cheques will be in the mail in the very near future," Mr. Greene said after the meeting.

He said the government will study all possibilities of rehabilitating the affected land. Expropriation also would be considered if necessary.

Dr. W. P. Campbell, chief of the plant protection division in Ottawa, came here with the minister and stayed to work on specific compensation questions for the next two weeks.

Mr. Greene flew to Edmonton from Vancouver this morning to continue his week-long western Canada tour to learn first-hand the most pressing problems facing farmers. He has been minister for only one month and makes no bones about the fact he is not an agricultural expert.

'We Think She Can Hear Us' —Mother of Girl In Coma

A 12-year-old Victoria girl injured in a traffic accident Dec. 22 is showing signs of coming out of her coma.

Her 10-year-old brother is also unconscious as a result of the accident. His condition is unchanged.

Susan and Christopher Baker, children of Wing Cmdr. J. R. Baker, 3034 Westdowne, were injured in an accident near Medford, Ore. They were in a Medford hospital until Monday when they were flown to Victoria in an RCAF aircraft.

Mrs. Baker said this morning that both children are at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"Susan seems to be coming out of the coma. We think she can hear us. The doctors are hopeful about her. The boy's condition is unchanged," she said.

The Bakers were on their way to San Francisco for the Christmas holidays when their van struck ice, skidded and overturned. Wing Cmdr. Baker is head of surgery at Naden Hospital.

'Joke' Cost $50 And Lecture From Magistrate

John Lamont, 876 Craigflower, wasn't laughing when he found out a joke cost him $50 in city court today.

He pleaded guilty last week to a charge of misleading police and was remanded in custody until today for sentence.

Court was told earlier he called a telephone operator Dec. 12 and asked her to call police and tell them he was being held in his home against his will.

He said he did it "just as a joke."

"You are old enough and mature enough to distinguish between a practical joke and mischief," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

'Bombers' Delay Ferry Run

Teen-Agers' Joke On Bus Sparks Explosive Search

Two Victoria teen-agers joked about a bomb aboard a ferry Monday night.

But it wasn't a joke for passengers aboard the Queen of Victoria who waited 90 minutes while police searched for the bomb that wasn't there.

The RCMP said this morning the teen-agers were on a bus bound from Vancouver to Victoria taking the 7 p.m. ferry from Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay.

As a result of their conversation, a woman in the bus took for granted the possibility they could be planting a bomb said a spokesman.

She told the bus driver, who told authorities at Tsawwassen. Municipal police from Ladner and RCMP from Richmond arrived to search the vessel and question the youths.

"They said they did it as a joke and hadn't realized the implications," said RCMP.

The teen-agers may be lucky, though. At noon today, Ladner police said no charges have been laid.

Ask The Times

Q. Which country was Ben Gurion leader of? What is his first name? J.S.

A. He was prime minister and minister of defence for Israel until 1963. First name is David.

Q. Last year Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes received the Freedom of the City. Who makes this decision and what privileges go along with the honor? H.K.

A. City council decides and the honor permits a person to vote and run for council offices even though he may not be a property-owner or resident. The person's name is placed at the top of the voters' list, says city hall.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Lie on your back with your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Put your heels on the seat of a chair. Keep your knees stiff as you raise your trunk and touch your fingers to your toes. If you cannot do this, raise the trunk as far from the floor as possible. This is an excellent abdominal exercise and will also stretch fat off the back.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Wait Forever to Lose Your Unwanted Overweight

This is the second in a series of 15 articles by Josephine Lowman which tells how to lose up to 20 pounds in eight weeks. Today she suggests how to determine the number of pounds you should lose. Save the menus and exercises for continued use during the eight weeks.

Sometimes I think that OVERWEIGHT should be spelled EVERWEIGHT because overweights often wait forever to lose those extra pounds. Believe me I am not being unsympathetic. I, myself, must constantly battle the bulge.

Lowman

I know! You had a sick child, unexpected guests arrived, you lead an active social life. All sorts of minor crises occurred and you just couldn't do what you had planned to do about your figure. Do it now or you will never do it! The tomorrows will be the same if you live an active, busy life.

I am currently bringing you my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan (B.I.P.) to help. It is easier to stick to a reducing program when you know what you can accomplish in a given length of time. In just eight weeks, you can lose from 15 to 20 pounds, improve your hair and complexion and increase your energy and self-confidence. The weeks fly by. Why not give yourself this break?

TO DIRECT YOU

If you would like to join tens of thousands of other women in this adventure to see how much you can improve your appearance in eight weeks, read "Why Grow Old" carefully for the next seven days. I will be here to direct you and after that I will give one day a week to reinforce your reducing efforts until the eight weeks are up.

First, you must decide what your ideal weight is. How many pounds should you lose? There are several factors which enter into this calculation. There is, of course, your height. Then, there is your frame or bone structure. Is it small, medium or heavy?

This is somewhat difficult for a woman to determine but the following ideas will be helpful. Remember that a woman may be very short and yet have heavy bones while another may be tall and have a light, delicate frame.

If you are athletic and have unusually well-developed muscles, you can weigh a few pounds more without being overweight.

BIRTHDAY SUIT

You can often get a fairly accurate idea of what kind of a frame you have by standing in front of a mirror in your birthday suit. However, this is more difficult when overweight is present because of the padding.

Also observe your shoulders, pelvis, knees, and ankle bones. It is entirely possible for a woman to have small wrists and thick ankles or broad shoulders. However, if your bones seem heavy at all of the places, you probably have a large frame.

Analyze yourself and consult the weight and height chart below. Now, we are really ready to GO! Begin following the menus which I am printing for a starter.

Beginning Career

PARIS (Reuters) — Mrs. Herve Alphand, ranked one of the world's 10 best-dressed women, who is entering the fashion business, thinks Paris' high fashions are too high-priced.

Mrs. Alphand, wife of the former French ambassador to Washington, is becoming an ambassador of fashion for the house of Pierre Cardin, one of the pioneers of smart ready-to-wear clothes, particularly abroad.

But it is not in export but in the home market that she hopes to expand sales.

"Good clothes with a high-fashion label should be made accessible to more women, and not just those who can afford to dress in the Paris haute couture," she says.

She believes creative ideas in dress can be extended in the lower price ranges as has been done in men's wear. She and her husband, now secretary-general at the French foreign ministry, buy their clothes from Cardin.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Too Many Doubts!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are all members of the Retail Clerks Association, and are facing a serious problem. The store manager insists that we address all our customers as Miss, Madame, or Sir, whichever the case may be. Inasmuch as we are on a commission basis, we are not about to insult a customer intentionally, but many young men with the "Beatle" haircuts are now using eye shadow, fingernail polish, hair spray, etc., and it's almost impossible to tell the boys from the girls.

The girls have taken to dressing mannishly, and have the same kind of haircuts as the boys. The only guide to which sex they are would be to try to get a look at their feet. The boys usually have larger feet, but with both sexes wearing those boots, even that's not certain. Can you help us?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: When in doubt, skip the Miss, Madame, Sir or whichever the case may NOT be. I am sure your boss would prefer that to your guessing and goofing.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that most of my "plain" women friends seem to have the best marriages, while the outstanding beauties are divorced, married again, and divorced, and can't make a success of a marriage? Even with the advantage of having been born beautiful they can't seem to find happiness. Why is that?

IMOGENE

DEAR IMOGENE: Believe it or not, natural beauty can be something of a handicap. Some beauties are so dependent on their "looks" to get them everything they want, they don't bother to develop other interesting or important qualities. A girl can "capture" a man with her beauty. Indeed she can capture more than one, if she wishes — but unless she knows how to give him more than the pleasure of just looking at her, she won't keep him long.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and all my children are married and have moved away, except my baby, a son who is 36. He is planning to get married in June. He and his lady are talking about buying a house. I told them they could move in with me. I have plenty of room and every convenience they need. They have nothing. Why should they struggle to buy a house with appliances and linen and furniture when they could live with me? I am not going to live forever, and when I die they can have everything. They tell me, "Thanks a lot, Ma, but we'd rather not." What is wrong with them? How can I talk them into it?

WANTS COMPANY

DEAR WANTS: Nothing is wrong with them. And don't try to "talk them into it." A 36-year-old "baby" is old enough to know what he wants.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT-BLUSHING BRIDE": Orange blossoms and myrtle are regarded as symbols of purity and are inappropriate for a bride who has been to the altar twice before. I recommend daisies. (They don't tell.)

A Time-Saving Device Pins Hair in Minutes

By Penny Saver

This year, the trend for hairstyles is very short. I believe that the idea is to create an easy-to-care-for hairdo. The person with naturally curly locks certainly would have few problems. Women with smooth, straight hair need only take a few minutes each night to set their hair.

A few minutes is all it takes with the automatic pin curler that I found. This plastic device has a comb on one end, and a circular spiked mechanism on the other. With the comb, section a pin curl-size piece of hair. Wind this partially around the device on the other end of the pin curler. Wind it completely, using the pin curler itself. The spiked device is complete with a plunger. This releases the curl so that you can pin it in place.

This little time-saver can create a bouffant, page boy, or any other type of curl. It sells for just $1.49.

Night caps save many a hairdo. One type, selling for 39 cents, is made of soft, perforated cloth. It is absorbent, and can be used as an inner net in a bathing cap or shower cap as well. Many tiny holes give it a "breathing" characteristic.

Plastic shower caps, with many colors to choose from, sell for 39 cents also.

Hand mirrors are very useful if you are in the process of setting or combing out your hair. Selling for $2.79 is one that has a handle that folds to make it a small dresser mirror as well as a hand mirror. It has a plain mirror on one side, and a magnified mirror on the other.

Another hand mirror, with a plastic handle that resembles twisted ribbon, sells for $2.49. This also has the two types of mirrors.

One very ideal item sells in this store for 59 cents. It's a dual-purpose clothes hanger, with a clothes brush. The transformation of hanger to clothes brush is very simple. The hanger is hinged in the centre, and when the side pieces are folded together, it is a clothes brush, as each end has bristles on them. When folded, it is very compact, and can be stored nicely in a drawer or suitcase.

Women's Editor Put Dufour

Mrs. Raul Sanchez Castro blows a kiss to the many well-wishers who attended the reception which followed her wedding in Mexico City.

Former Victorian Wed In Mexican Ceremony

A wedding of wide interest in Victoria took place in Mexico City recently when Denise Anne Poyntz exchanged vows with Raul Sanchez Castro.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy M. Poyntz, 214 Moss Street, Victoria, and the late Mr. Robert L. Poyntz. Her groom is the son of Basilio Sanchez Gonzalez and Altagracia Castro de Sanchez of Mexico City.

The Colonial San Sebastion Martir Chapel of Gamboa-Chimalistic San Angel was the setting for the picturesque ceremony. Calla lilies decorated the chapel for the early evening service.

The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fletcher, travelled from Victoria to attend the ceremony and Mr. Fletcher gave his granddaughter in marriage.

Exquisite Spanish lace in orchid design formed a short overblouse on the bride's floor-length gown of white satin. A full-length train of the same lace extended from her shoulders. Her chapel-length veil of illusion net misted from a headpiece of orange blossoms. She carried a single orchid.

Brother Guillermo Harves officiated. "Ave Maria" was sung by the soloist, adding to the beauty of the service.

Gowns of turquoise crepe, fashioned with empire waistlines and lace bodices, were worn by the four attendants. They were Miss Linda Poyntz, Vancouver, sister of the bride; Miss Joan Perry, Victoria, and the groom's sisters, the Misses Margarita and Josefina Sanchez. They wore matching bow headpieces and carried bouquets of white stocks and pink roses.

The bride's mother was gowned in a dressmaker suit of off-white French brocade while the groom's mother chose a dark brown gown with complementing accessories.

Oscar Sanchez was best man for his brother.

A reception followed in the new apartment of the newlyweds at Torres Adalid. In accordance with tradition, a civil ceremony there had preceded the religious service. A three-tier wedding cake centered the head table.

The couple plan to tour Mexico as a honeymoon trip. For her travelling costume, the bride donned a French knit coat and dress with contrasting accessories.

John Larsen was another Victorian who attended the ceremonies. Oscar Sanchez and Josefina Sanchez travelled from the Mexican city of Sanchez.

On return, the newlyweds will make their home in Mexico City where the groom is an advertising agent for The News.

THOUGHT 'FASHIONABLE'

Tardiness is Ritual In Many Gatherings

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Better later than never, but better never late."

These words in the writings of C. H. Spurgeon in 1885 seem timelier than ever as the world operates on accelerated routine, only to have the habit of tardiness also grow.

There is a saying that the only living thing on time these days is the snap bean — it pops up exactly eight days after planting. True or not, tardiness has become almost a ritual at the theatre, the cocktail party and with the RSVP card.

Why are some people habitually late? The answers open a whole Pandora's box of psychological theory, says a new treatise on promptness — and tardiness. The paper was put together by researchers for Westclox.

Observers of human behavior say the habitually tardy may feel it is "fashionable" to be late and are determined to be fashionable.

Tardiness may give drama to the person. By keeping everyone waiting at the party, you set the stage for a dramatic entrance and then you, for a few minutes at least, capture everyone's attention.

Dr. Eli Feldman, clinic director for the Long Island consultation centre, says that being late is one form of subconscious sulking — a means of "getting even" with another person or group. Feldman's theories are included in the research of the timepiece manufacturer.

Feldman feels that the chronically tardy still long for the timeless omnipotence of their early years. They have never fully accepted the responsibility and the reality of time in relation to other people.

"It is excusable for a baby to be late for its feeding," Feldman says, "but adults are not babies . . ."

Don't forget that the power play between the sexes often is a reason also for tardiness. Many young women keep their dates waiting as a matter of policy. Many young men are late today — by arriving late, the young man hides how much he really cares for the girl and protects his vulnerability.

All tardiness does not have to have deep psychological motivation, say the researchers. On a simpler level, there are the differences between people, their schedules, the demands of their environment.

According to some experts, some people are late because they operate on a 36 hour day . . . tending to crowd into their hours "too many chores, amusements, social and business engagements.

"Generally speaking," say the researchers, "the more formal the affair, the more punctual people seem to be."

Informal events seem to give greater license for lateness. A buffet, instead of sit-down dinner, for instance. "And cocktail party time is the loosest of all." And, the vague invitation — "around sevenish, seven-thirty-ish" — could indicate insecurity on the part of the hostess.

"Wives tend to be tardier than husbands," say researchers. About the only reason they give is that women's lives tend to be more complicated than men's (point of argument to set off another marital squabble).

There is just one foolproof defence against the tardy guest, says John Lord Lageman — "Give your party on a boat and when sailing time comes, take off. Latecomers who find on arrival that the party has departed will not be late next time."

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

Ira Rubin and Philip Feldesman, who finished first in the trials for the American team, are the one pair on the team who believe in sound opening bids.

The sound opening bid theory worked out well for them when Rubin passed with the East hand. South opened with one no-trump and when this was passed back to Rubin, he elected to double. South would have been well advised to run out to two clubs but he stood by his guns and Feldesman was delighted to let the double stand.

Phil did not want to lead from strength, and selected the apparently unfortunate opening bid of the nine of clubs.

This lead looked mighty good to South and he proceeded to run off his five club tricks to start proceedings. It was up to Phil and Ira to discard well, and they surely did.

Phil dropped the four and six of diamonds in order, while Ira let go the deuce of diamonds, five of spades and four of hearts in order. Now when declarer led out his king of diamonds, Ira took the trick with his ace and led the deuce of hearts. Phil cashed his king and queen and led his last heart, whereupon Ira collected two more heart tricks. South had to discard one of his spades on the last heart and Ira's jack of spades lead gave Phil the last three tricks with his ace, queen and nine.

The score of plus 300 for setting one no-trump two tricks was worth five International Match Points to the eventual winners.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

BITS 'N' PIECES: Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners" Saturday showed how much fun television used to be for the viewer at home. The rotund one called on his old cohorts, Art Carney and Audrey Meadows, to relive the famed comedy sketches in a musical-variety form.

Stephen

The plot, adoption of a baby, was weak, but it gave the trio an opportunity to show off again a comedy style which rocketed them to fame and fortune and provided so many funny viewing hours.

They ran the gamut from pathos to raucousness as easily as rolling off a log.

Gleason's clenched-fist, clenched-teeth threat to Norton: "One of these days, one of these days, vah-voom and right into orbit," or the tender and poignant scene with Gleason and baby in the hospital were as important to the successful television comedy as is electricity to television.

Gleason has signed another contract with CBS-TV for next season, in color, but he is concerned with the ratings.

A return to more "Honeymooner" sketches could go a long way in solving the problem.

The television production companies are showing great concern about the skyrocketing costs of pilot film production.

About 70 pilots have been completed and already the costs will far exceed even last year's record outlays.

A couple of factors have added up to the high costs. Firstly, the pilots are being filmed in color. Secondly, in many cases producers were not adequately prepared to shoot and too many changes were made at the last minute in an effort to make a perfect pilot. A series has to last at least two seasons before it gets the company into the black.

* * *

ABC-TV is reported to have purchased a couple of more series made in Britain, and may reveal them to the public this spring . . . Tammy, Gidget and the Patty Duke Show are expected to join Hullabaloo and Shindig in the discard vaults next fall. Teen-agers are apparently digging the far-out adult shows like The Man From U.N.C.L.E. and Get Smart . . . Johnny Carson has renewed his NBC-TV "Tonight" show contract at more than $200,000 per year.

Concert Applauded

Mount View Secondary School band performed Sunday afternoon at the McPherson Playhouse in the second of a series of Greater Victoria schools concerts.

Well received, the students presented their program with vigor under the direction of Howard Denike.

With their enthusiasm transmitted to the capacity audience, the youngsters provided an enjoyable three hours of well-selected pieces.

BROADWAY TUNES

Numbers ranged from the classical to the modern and several engaging Broadway show tunes.

The program was arranged to display the band's versatility, and show its several sections to advantage.

Soloists included baritone Hary Elsdon whose best performance was in Take the Sun, a song arranged especially for him by bandleader Denike.

Also performing solo was trumpeter Bobby Herriot, whose playing features distinctive style and good technique.

Next in the series of school concerts at the McPherson is the appearance of the Victoria Secondary Schools Orchestra on Jan. 23.

VICTORIA ASSIZES TOLD:

'Police Arrested Suspects In House of Wild Parties'

A house at 634 Toronto Street was described in Victoria Assize Court Monday afternoon as a regular rendezvous for noisy, all night parties involving drinking, gambling, shouting and "the banging of drums."

And it was the scene of an arrest when a man and a woman were charged with breaking and entering Clark and Cordick's feed store at 2503 Douglas Street on Sept. 9.

Steve Remington of Victoria and Shirley Lalonde of Seattle were said to have been staying at the house at the time of their arrest.

Both pleaded not guilty to being in unlawful possession of cash under $50.

Their defence counsel, Dermod Owen-Flood, said the house at 634 Toronto was used by a number of people as "a place of residence in which to hold wild parties."

Victoria architect Peter N. Cotton, the owner of the house, was called as a witness.

ONE OCCASION

Questioned by Crown Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy, Mr. Cotton said at no time did he see Remington at the house. But he remembered seeing the accused Lalonde there on one occasion.

"I think it was in late July or early August," witness said.

Mr. Owen-Flood asked Mr. Cotton if noisy, all-night parties were held at the house.

"Periodically," Mr. Cotton replied.

Mr. Owen-Flood: "During the period culminating Sept. 9, there was gambling going on at all hours of the day and night?"

Mr. Cotton: "I didn't know."

LIQUOR FOUND

Further questioned, Mr. Cotton said he re-entered the house after the arrest and found about 40 liquor bottles in a large cupboard.

"Twenty-six-ounce bottles?" asked Mr. Owen-Flood.

"There was a variety," Mr. Cotton replied.

Mr. Own-Flood: "And lots of playing cards?"

Mr. Cotton: "One pack."

Mr. Owen-Flood: "Which had all the earmarks of being very well used."

Mr. Cotton: "I couldn't say—I didn't open them."

Mr. Owen-Flood: "I understand a lady living in the house next door, Miss Victoria Walters, moved out because she couldn't stand the noise and the number of people who visited the premises."

Mr. Cotton: "She went back to college at Kingston."

Mr. Owen-Flood: "But she said she couldn't stand the noise of the drums and the all-night parties."

Mr. Cotton: "She returned to college."

Mr. Owen-Flood: "But she did complain of the noise."

Mr. Cotton: "Yes."

EARLY HOURS

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy asked Mr. Cotton if he heard any partying at 634 Toronto Street in the early hours of Sept. 9 when the accused were alleged to have broken into the Clark and Cordick feed store.

"No," Mr. Cotton replied.

"Was there any partying later in the morning?"

"Nothing that I could be aware of," Mr. Cotton answered.

Arthur J. Matcham, assistant manager of the store, said he found it had been broken into when he arrived there at 7:45 a.m.

The safe had been moved from the front office to the rear of the building and was lying on its back, with the front door open.

Mr. Matcham said a large quantity of cash and cheques had been taken from the safe.

Lorne Ross, former office manager at the Clark and Cordick feed store, said a number of marked currency bills had been placed in the safe. Some of them were contained in an envelope bearing the name Mrs. Jones.

"This was a fictitious name," he added.

Mr. Ross said he made a practice of keeping a record of the numbers printed on dollar bills. He made one copy for himself and another for the police department.

The prosecutor said two of the marked bills taken from the safe were found in the possession of the accused.

Mr. Ross said it appeared the store had been broken into through the skylight.

"Did you ever see a lady jump through the skylight?" asked Mr. Owen-Flood.

"Not in my capacity," Mr. Ross replied.

The trial continued today.

Oil Tank Work Bid Tabled By Esquimalt

Esquimalt council Monday night tabled a request to start an oil tank manufacturing centre on Lampson Street.

Council asked for details of construction plans from the company, Western Tanks Ltd. Councillors also decided to view a similar operation at Yarrows Ltd. before making any final decision.

It was pointed out that a certain amount of hammering would accompany the manufacturing of the tanks.

Council was concerned that this might go on at night and disturb nearby residents.

However municipal engineer John Graeme noted in his recommendation that "if properly housed" the operation would have no nuisance value for neighbors.

Western Tanks Ltd. also was asked to state where the road access to the property would be.

AMENDMENTS

At the same meeting Coun. Gerald Horne presented six proposed amendments to the Esquimalt recreation commission bylaw for approval by council.

They included proposals that the commission chairman sit for two years instead of the present one year, and that the number of non-council members on the commission be increased by one, giving a total of six commission members.

Coun. Horne has been chairman of the recreation commission for the past two years.

His proposals were approved and will be written into the bylaw with further condideration by council.

Members of standing committees for 1966 on Esquimalt council were also named at the meeting.

COMMITTEES

They are: Finance—Coun. A. R.Mebs (chairman), Coun. W. Lock, Coun. R. Elphick. Public works, including street lighting—Coun. E. L. DeCosta (chairman), Coun. G. T. Horne, Coun. Elphick.

Parks, playgrounds, and boulevards—Coun. Lock (chairman), Coun. DeCosta, Coun. Elphick. Fire—Coun. J. Bryant (chairman), Coun. Horne, Coun. Mebs. Traffic—Coun. Mebs (chairman), Coun. Lock.

Midland Road Plan Opposed in Petition

Property owners on Midland Road, north of Lansdowne, are almost unanimously against improving the road to fit in with the metropolitan traffic plan.

In a petition signed by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Minaker, 3180 Midland, and 20 others, the residents voted for the status quo.

The traffic plan calls for a throughway on Midland Road, leading from Musgrave Avenue to Beach Drive.

The petition states: "... to provide convenient access to taxpayers of Saanich living in Ten Mile Point, Cadboro Bay, Saanich Peninsula, Arbutus Road, or to the university, is abhorrent to the whole idea of maintaining the high values, beauty and attraction that Uplands residential area is, and deserves at all times to continue to be."

CURTAIL TRAFFIC

The petition suggested that future development should be taken to curtail traffic through the area.

The council earlier polled residents on the type of road they would prefer; a single wide road, or two lanes with a boulevard.

The municipality's B committee tabled the matter.

In other business the committee:

● Recommended approval of a $5,175 budget for 1966 for the Oak Bay Recreation Commission.

● Eliminated a $4,800 expenditure for improvement of Quimper Park "on the premise that council approves half the cost of the Windsor Park pavilion in the 1966 capital projects."

Mr. Price, 78, died Monday at his home at 1391 Victoria Ave.

He was former rector of St. David's-by-the-Sea Church, Cordova Bay.

Woman to Face Liquor Charge

One woman was charged and a quantity of liquor seized when police raided a Niagara Street home Sunday afternoon.

Nine officers and detectives participated in the raid, carried out at 4 p.m. Ten persons were in the home at the time.

Police seized several mickey bottles of hard liquor and a large number of cases of beer.

A charge was laid under the Liquor Act against a woman who was a tenant in the home, police said.

MAYOR DOBSON:

Indians Must Measure Up

DUNCAN — If Cowichan Indians want to be considered first class citizens they must measure up to it.

Mayor Jack Dobson who last week criticized the local Indian band for non-co-operation with council was back to the attack Monday night.

He specifically criticized the Indians for erecting "private—No Parking" signs on their property adjoining the civic parking lot.

'LACK DIRECTION'

Mayor Dobson said this was an illustration of the band's readiness to ask exhorbitant rents from the city and yet not try to make revenue from other property they owned.

He said: "They obviously lack direction."

The city has cancelled paid parking in its civic parking lot.

Mayor Dobson suggested the Indians could make money by renting their land for this purpose.

City clerk Gordon Berry said this morning one of the differences between the parties is that basically the city is aginst leasing property.

City council wants to buy land for a road to bypass the city's south boundary and the new provincial courthouse.

A private Indian involved is willing to sell but negotiations are being blocked by the Indian band.

REFUSE TO SELL

The city is also trying to negotiate for other Indian land for parking purposes near the courthouse site.

The Indians refuse to sell.

It is understood the band is asking as much as $6,500 an acre for some reserve land.

Mr. Berry said council feels the Indians should co-operate the same as any other subdivider when the general land area value is being enhanced.

The Wonderful World of Animals

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband and I recently acquired a beautiful 10-week-old Airedale puppy. He is heavy, sturdy and will grow into a large dog. Unfortunately, my husband insists on picking him up by grabbing a fistful of skin and fur over the shoulders and neck. The puppy cries out, but my husband insists it does not hurt him. Please settle the argument for us. If this does not hurt the puppy, I would like to know so I can stop clenching my teeth — but if it is hurting, perhaps a word from you will carry more weight. Please hurry with you answer. I don't know if my marriage is going to survive this puppy!

S.L.

DEAR S.L.: Yes, your puppy suffers physical pain when hoisted in this manner. Equally important, he suffers considerable mental anguish, as shaking by the scruff of the neck is a form of punishment often used by the bitch to punish a wayward youngster. While an Airedale is not easily cowed, continually snatching the pup up in this manner can eventually break his spirit completely. To continue to ignore a puppy's cries of pain or fright is inexcusable. Such an animal develops into a neurotic adult either cowed completely, or agrressively hostile. And frequently the person most responsible for the confused canine is the first to suggest "giving him away to a good home" or "putting him to sleep for his own good."

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: I am always careful to see to it that my animals don't get any food where they might have used insect spray on it because I have read that insecticides can cause cancer. My brother thinks I'm just an old fussbudget. Am I right or not I'd like to know.

—A.I.

DEAR A.I.: A certain amount of caution is certainly indicated. While there are many factors involved, some pesticides can induce cancer in animals.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLAR: We have had our parakeet three years now but just read an article that concerns us. Is there a health hazard if we keep our bird in the breakfast room. We have all our meals in this room which is 9x12 and the cage is on a stand very close to the table.

—H.B.

DEAR H.B.: If your bird has been able to stand this close association for three years without becoming ill, you probably won't make him sick from here on. (The reverse situation applies too, of course.)

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: When my mother rat, Totsy, died I gave her a nice funeral. And then I cut her up for science. I found out she had cavities in her teeth. Is this unusual? I have three (live) children of hers and wonder if I have to watch out for cavities with them!—S.I.

DEAR S.I.: Cavities are not unusual in rats. As the tendency to develop these may be hereditary, those ratty kids are prime candidates for cavities.

* * *

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would you discuss the pros and cons of spaying year-old female? We think Flossy has been in heat several times but we never let her get out with a tomcat, and don't intend to. She carries on something awful. —O.A.

DEAR O.A.: A female cat who isn't to be intentionally bred (and few should be) cannot be a happy feline unless she is operated upon. The feline is so constituted that only breeding relieves the intensity of feeling instigated by estrogenic hormones. (This drive is much stronger in the feline than in her canine counterpart.) The ovario-hysterectomy cannot be too strongly recommended for Flossy. (There simply are no "cons" to this discussion, aside from the very slight risk involved in the surgery itself.)

Canadian Experts Help Gather Data

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

I have just been talking to Kahlil Samra, vice-president and executive director of the new American Schizophrenia Foundation. Schrizophrenia is the commonest mental disturbance known. I read that there are at least 2 million persons in the United States and Canada afflicted with this disease.

Alvarez

The impression of some experts is that the victims were born with their tendency, and many of them sufffer from it to some extent all their days. This does not mean that they will have to go into a mental hospital; only a fefw do that. Many spend useful lives out in the world. They may always be somewhat shy and reserved and odd, and some never have any interest in the opposite sex.

Today a few psychiatrists are admitting that the disease begins in infancy, and hence its presence can often be recognized in a small child. Some of these children are called autistic, because they are so self-centred and uncommunicative that they ignore their parents and possible playmates and often refuse to talk to anyone. They feel no need for human contacts. My late friend, Dr. Franz Kallmann, spent his lifetime gathering data that show that schizophrenia is inherited.

* * *

I have just been reading a booklet (put out by the American Schizophrenia Foundation) "What You Should Know About Schizophrenia." That was prepared by a cured schizophrenic, with the help of two able Canadian psychiatrists, Drs. Abram Hoffer and Humphrey Osmond. They say that one can find schizophrenics among some of the world's greatest scientists, religious leaders, statesmen, artists and writers. Some of these people use their schizophrenia to make their writings or their artistic work much more interesting and distinctive than it otherwise might have been.

The writers of the booklet list among changes (in schizophrenics) from normal, troubles with the eyes, the ears, smell, touch taste, and sense of time, also changes in the thought processes. The patients sometimes have hallucinations (seeing and hearing things that are not there) and delusions (ideas that are wrong). Sometimes they are paranoid. They feel they are under the control of outside forces, like radio, or of people who wish them harm.

They may feel people are listening to their telephone conversations, or a woman may be sure men with infrared rays are photographing her in the nude.

Many of these patients have a poor sequence in their thinking, and many find it hard to talk to people, or to be friendly with them. As Robert Louis Stevenson once said, Many were sewed up in a bag at birth, and like a Gypsy, are unable to converse with most people.

As I shall doubtless keep saying in this column, much research is now being done on the body chemistry of schizophrenics — studies which suggest that their brain is being poisoned by chemical changes taking place elsewhere in their body.

Japanese Students Seek 'Pals'

Three Japanese students living in Higashi-ku, Nagoya, have written to The Times seeking pen pals in Victoria.

They are:

Msako Inasaki, 15, of 18 Yamaguchi-cho. She attends junior high school and her hobbies are stamp collecting and reading.

Midori Stou, 16, of 13 Maeno-cho. She attends senior high school, plays the violin and piano and collects foreign stamps. Would like to hear from young Victoria instrumentalists.

Yuko Ohashi, 15, of 68 Kodeki-Machi. She attends junior high school and her hobbies are stamp collecting, picture postcard collecting and reading books. Would like to hear from young Victoria males with similar interests.

Yoshio Narita, a teacher at Sakuragaoka Junior High School, Higashi-ku, Nagoya City, Japan, conducts an international correspondence club for students.

"We have received letters from Victoria students who read your newspaper and they are most welcome," he writes.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sheryl Riehl, age 11, of Littleton, Mass., for her question:

How old is the organ?

Music is woven into human history, becoming more beautiful through the centuries. Musical instruments have improved, and most of them developed from ancestors that we would never recognize. The original ancestor of our majestic organs was a handful of hollow reeds. We call it the syrinx, and many of the ancients called it the pipes of Pan.

Shy, shaggy Pan was a woodland god and the syrinx may have been invented by shepherds who lived in his outdoor realm. When you blow through a hollow reed, the air whistles a note. Reeds of different lengths pipe different notes. We do not know who first bound together a row of different reeds to pipe a tune, but he lived perhaps 3,000 years ago.

The pop tunes of ancient Egypt were piped on the reedy syrinx. Around 200 B.C. an inventor improved on the popular old instrument and built what can be called the first real organ. It still had reedy pipes, but the wind to blow them was provided by water power rather than by human puffing. The mechanical blower was run by a piston and cylinder. This water organ was called the hydraulus, and it was created by Ctesibius, an engineer who lived in the Egyptian city of Alexandria.

Powered By Electricity

The water driven hydraulus added its festive piping to the circuses of Rome. The craftsmen of Istanbul specialized in making the best water organs, and for some 400 years they were exported from this old Byzantine city to other lands. Here the first organ driven by windy bellows was created. In the fifth century, proud owners as far away as Spain displayed organs made in Istanbul.

In the 600s, the organ went to church. Its music became grand and solemn. In the 1300s, fine organs with many modern features were made in Germany and through the 1800s the proudest organs were made in England.

This mighty effort called for an easier way of doing things. In the 19th century, organs powered by electricity were developed. Electrical devices were added, giving small organs the orchestral majesty of the great church organs. The wonderful old instrument then entered our everyday lives with pop and jazz and every other kind of music.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Richard Anders Valentine, age 13, of Bowling Green, Ky., for his question:

Who really discovered America first?

All of a sudden, everybody seems to be involved in a big argument about who should be given credit for the discovery of North America. Some stand faithfully by Columbus and others support Leif Ericson. The fiery debate does not settle the question, but sometimes it leads to the learning of history.

However, these historical facts should be known by every Canadian. The New World was first found and settled by wanderers from Siberia. Columbus, who found the New World some centuries after Ericson had been here, met these original Americans when he arrived. He called them Indians.

11 Lost As Ship Sinks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The captain and 10 crewmen of a Spanish freighter were believed to have perished shortly after abandoning the vessel before it sank in a North Atlantic storm, according to reports received today.

The coast guard said 23 other crew members of the Monte Palomares were missing and were the objects of a search by several merchant vessels, the coast guard cutter Escanaba, and coast guard planes. The search area was 840 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Four crewmen were rescued uninjured by the freighter Steel Maker after a harrowing night on a raft tossed by 35-foot seas. They said they witnessed the drowning of the Monte Palomares' master and a number of crewmen but saw at least 23 others transfer safely to a lifeboat and a raft.

The coast guard said the ship, which normally carried 38 men, was abandoned at 3:55 p.m. EST Monday and sank shortly after.

Sixty-knot winds had moderated to 25 knots today, aiding the search operation. Seas had subsided to 20 feet.

THREE SHIPS

The 474-foot Monte Palomares was one of three ships to radio for assistance from the storm area.

The Greek freighter Lampsis with 30 crewmen aboard, reported its hull was cracked by the storm and abandonment appeared imminent. However, the crew managed to keep the vessel afloat by boring holes in the bulkheads to drain the bilge.

The 441-foot Lampsis radioed that it would continue the voyage as soon as its No. 3 hold was sufficiently drained. It was adrift about 240 miles southwest of the Spanish ship.

The Coast Guard cutter Androscoggin stood alongside the Lampsis and damage control men planned to board the vessel with portable pumps when weather permitted.

NO DANGER

Engine damage disabled the Polish freighter K. I. Galczynski about 700 miles north of Bermuda. The 5,584-ton vessel was in no danger and awaited the arrival of a tug to tow it to Halifax. It had been bounced from Northern Europe to New York.

The rescued Monte Palomares crewmen said they counted 18 shipmates in a lifeboat and five others on a raft. Early search reports said there were no signs of lifeboats or rafts.

The 5,973-ton Spanish vessel was carrying grain from Norfolk, Va., to Spain when its cargo shifted under the stress of high seas. The vessel immediately heeled to an angle of 30 degrees.

STUDENTS TOSS ROCKS AT POLICE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Hundreds of Negro students rioted today at Parker High School in Birmingham, hurling rocks and bricks at hastily summoned police.

Cause of the uprising was not immediately determined, but there were reports some adult civil rights workers had gone to the Negro school to recruit students for a voter discrimination protest march.

The students congregated in a courtyard behind the school and hurled bricks, rocks and bottles over the roof of the one-storey white structure.

Officers armed with riot guns ringed the school.

$2 Million in Art Stolen From Museum

BESANCON, France (UP)—Thieves escaped with an estimated $2 million worth of drawings and etchings from the Besancon art museum Monday night, museum officials said today.

The officials said robbers ransacked two exhibition rooms filled with the works of Fragonard, Tiepolo, Veronese and other masters, and carried away about 50 of them. First estimates placed the loss at about $2 million.

Authorities said the thieves removed a heavy iron grill from a window in the main entrance hall and then apparently went upstairs where a special exhibition of drawings and etchings was set up last November.

A spokesman for the museum said the thieves took only the drawings and etchings, bypassing a priceless collection of paintings in other rooms.

STORM HITS AGAIN

REGINA (CP) — Visibility was reduced to near zero across southern Saskatchewan today as another in a series of storms swept across the province. Wind, gusting to 40-miles-an hour, whipped snow into blinding clouds as snow removal crews cleaned up after the weekend storm.

NEW DELHI (CP)—The body of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, who died Monday in the Soviet city of Tashkent, returned here to an India whose prepared hero's welcome turned into grief and mourning.

A joyous welcome had been prepared for the diminutive 61-year-old Shastri before news was received of his death from a heart attack only hours after an Indo-Pakistani summit meeting in Tashkent agreed to shun war as a means of settling disputes.

Six generals carried the coffin on their shoulders from a special Soviet aircraft. It was borne on a gun carriage on the final journey to Shastri's bungalow where the body will lie in state before cremation Wednesday.

About 6,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen lined the route from Delhi airport.

President Saravpalli Radhakrishnan, newly sworn-in Prime Minister Gulzarilal Nanda and members of his interim government were among thousands who thronged the airport. Thousands more lined the seven-mile route into the capital.

Meanwhile, India's new prime minister promised today to carry through the agreement with Pakistan his fallen predecessor had hammered out.

Shastri had governed this troubled land of 460,000,000 people for 19 stormy months after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru.

The 5-foot-2, 110-pound prime minister had signed a limited peace pact Monday in Tashkent with Pakistani President Ayub Khan, agreeing to pull their forces back from territory seized during the September war between India and Pakistan.

Kosygin to Attend Funeral

Nanda, in a nationwide broadcast, said Shastri died "after successfully concluding a mighty effort for peace — we shall honor the agreement he made and implement it faithfully."

A Soviet plane bore the remains of the humble-born little leader across the Hindi Kush mountains to India's dusty plains.

Ayub Khan and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who was host of the Tashkent conference, helped carry Shastri's coffin to the plane in the Soviet Asian city.

Kosygin left shortly after to attend the funeral, and Ayub returned to Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital.

Shastri's body will be cremated beside the sacred Jumna River in New Delhi.

The Queen sent Earl Mountbatten, last viceroy and first governor-general of India, to represent her at the funeral. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and State Secretary Dean Rusk will represent the U.S.

Tributes to Shastri poured in from many parts of the world.

Prime Minister Pearson, in Lagos for the Commonwealth prime ministers conference, said: "I receive with shock and regret the news of the death of Prime Minister Shastri, with whom I have had the honor of friendship. He will be greatly missed, especially by his Commonwealth colleagues meeting here."

World Leaders Pay Tribute

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said Shastri's death "is all the more tragic as it came just as he and the president of Pakistan had begun relations on a new and more hopeful course."

President Johnson said his death was a "grievous blow to the hopes of mankind for peace and progress."

Kosygin hailed Shastri as "a great humanist of our time."

British Prime Minister Wilson, also in Nigeria, said the loss of Shastri "will be felt throughout the Commonwealth, and indeed everywhere. His qualities of statesmanship, sincerity and integrity are valued."

Ayub Khan said he was deeply shocked and sorrowed.

Shastri died at 1:32 a.m. (11:32

American Newsmen Kicked Out

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno today ordered all American correspondents expelled from Indonesia.

Sukarno issued the order in a speech at a ceremony installing the new Indonesian ambassador to Syria, H. M. Sudjono.

The president said he has decided to expel American correspondents in retaliation for lies he said were being written in the American press about the current Indonesian political crisis.

There now are two American correspondents in Indonesia: R. E. Staniard of United Press International and Donald Kirk, representing the New York Times.

Antoine Yared of The Associated Press is a Lebanese.

"They also say," Sukarno declared, "that (Defence Minister Gen. Abdul Haris) Nasution has become supreme commander of Koti (the supreme operations command). I am still the supreme commander of Koti.

"Go to hell with your lies," he added.

Sukarno then turned to First Deputy Premier Subandrio, who is also foreign minister, and said:

"I order you, Subandrio, to kick out all American correspondents from Indonesia. This is our country. We do not want foreign correspondents writing untrue things about Indonesia."

Wilson Explains Boycott Strategy

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — Africa's first conference of Commonwealth prime ministers opened today, then went into restricted session to discuss "economic war" against Rhodesia.

The already sombre atmosphere of the meeting was saddened by the death of India's Prime Minister Shastri and tribute to his memory became the opening item of business.

Zambia's Vice-President Reuben Kamanga reiterated his government's demand that Britain use force to topple the regime of Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith who declared independence from Britain on an unconstititional basis two months ago today.

Britain's Prime Minister Wilson gave an hour-long explanation of Britain's position, stating once again that economic sanctions alone—particularly an oil embargo—will be sufficient to bring down the white-supremacist Rhodesian breakaway government without the use of force.

Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, as leader of the senior Commonwealth country outside Britain, replied to an address of welcome by Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria, who called the conference.

Senior also in point of experience in diplomatic and foreign affairs, Pearson noted that this is the first prime ministers' conference since formation of the Commonwealth secretariat under Canadian diplomat Arnold Smith.

"It is a unique conference in other ways also," said Pearson. "It is the first emergency meeting. It is the first meeting to discuss a single problem. I have heard cynics say it may also be the last meeting anywhere.

'This Meeting Will Be Success'

"I do not for one moment believe this. I am convinced this meeting will be a success, that it will assist the effort to end soon the deplorable situation in Rhodesia, something which we all desire."

Sir Abubakar, leader of Africa's most - populous country, also spoke in confident vein but said that the Rhodesian problem presents a threat to the existence of the Commonwealth.

"Although held together by invisible links the Commonwealth has continued to thrive," he said. "Indeed its continued existence is accepted by many as vitally important not only to the member states but to the world as a whole. It is for this reason that we consider it necessary for the heads of Commonwealth countries to meet and avert the threat to the existence of this organization."

Soldiers in pith-helmets and uniforms reminiscent of British colonial days guarded the Federal Palace Hotel where the conference was held amid exotic tropical gardens on the shore of the Lagos lagoon.

It was learned Wilson—determined not to be put in the "dock" at the conference—was pleased with the moderate tone of the opening session.

Balewa, presiding at the conference, paid a tribute to Shastri on behalf of the Commonwealth delegations after which the assembly stood in two-minute silence as a mark of respect.

In his opening speech, the Nigerian prime minister called for a swift crushing of the Rhodesian regime and said the Commonwealth leaders must decide what to do if sanctions failed to achieve this, conference sources said.

He urged Wilson to call a conference of black and white Rhodesians to draft a new constitution for the country and to arrange a crash program to train Africans to take over responsibility.

He also called for the release of all political prisoners in Rhodesia.

The sources said Balewa made it clear he did not envisage African majority rule in WAR WEEKS AWAY?

Special to The Times

LAGOS, Nigeria —Rhodesia is only eight to 12 weeks away from the roar of guns if economic war does not smash the rebellion of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

That was the Canadian view today as 19 Commonwealth countries sat down here to discuss the African crisis that is a threat to the organization and the peace of the world.

NEEDS TIME

The Canadian delegation believes Britain should have time to keep the economic screws on Rhodesia in a bid to end the breakaway by peaceful means. But Canada believes that if this does not work in about three months, Prime Minister Harold Wilson will have to turn to alternative means.

The only alternative is force.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson was in a tricky position as Canada sat down at the conference table with some angry African Commonwealth partners. Britain expects Canada's backing in its stand that economic sanctions and time will break the Smith regime, while the African states expect Canada to understand and appreciate their impatience and position.

NO SOLUTIONS

Some of them believe Pearson has something to pull out of the hat, although he said he had no ready solutions when he arrived here Sunday for the two-day talks that opened today at the Federal Palace Hotel. The situation calls for some Pearson diplomacy, and he has been receiving a steady stream of callers in his hotel suite. He met with Wilson before the conference opened.

Hanoi Contact At Bomb Pause

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee disclosed today that the direct communication from the United States to North Viet Nam was transmitted shortly after the start of the present U.S. pause in bombing the Communist country.

Representative Cornelius Gallagher (Dem. N.J.) told this to reporters after a 2½-hour closed briefing of the committee by State Undersecretary George W. Ball. Gallagher said the communication, first mentioned Monday by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers, was in the form of an aide memoire.

"The significance is that when an aide memoire was sent before, it was rejected out of hand," Gallagher said. "This one was accepted."

The greater part of the Dominican capital was quiet.

New York Mayor Rebuffed Again By Striking Transit Workers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The striking Transport Workers' Union today dealt another blow to hopes of settling the city's 11-day bus and subways strike quickly by rejecting for a second time Mayor John V. Lindsay's latest strike-ending efforts.

Following informal morning meetings with a three-man mediation panel, union spokesman John O'Connell said the TWU would stand on a statement made Monday by chief union negotiator Douglas MacMahon.

MacMahon, in the statement, flatly rejected the mayor's three proposals for ending the walkout. The mayor had suggested arbitration, fact-finding by a special panel, or recommendations by the present mediation panel.

"The mayor's statement is not going to contribute to the settlement of this strike," MacMahon said following Lindsay's proposals in a television report. "The mayor must tackle the issues."

STYLIST'S ADVICE TO LADIES

'Get Rid of Hair, Start Living'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vidal Sassoon, the London hair stylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in the U.S. ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdos and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when the United States is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Sassoon, 38, expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews Monday. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

"Every woman would cut her hair this way if she saw how easy it is," says Anna Lenz of Munich. To contrast her close - cropped hair, she wears makeup that takes one hour to put on.

"Men love my hair short," says Sassoon model Judy Mursch, 23, of Copenhagen. "They rub their hands in it. They can't believe it's so thick. I think it's very sexy."

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two or three weeks.

So far, ladies in the U.S. aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

In the words of beauty expert Virginia Graham: "Imagine showing your wedding pictures and have people ask, 'Which one's the groom?' "

A tire expert tells us tires should be replaced when there is less than 1/32 of an inch of tread left. He says manufacturers generally make five different grades. New cars usually wear "first line" tires, and second, third and fourth line tires of diminishing quality are also available. Best of all are "premium" grade.

A third or fourth line tire should last 8,000 to 12,000 miles, a second line 12,000 to 20,000 and a premium tire more than 35,000 miles.

So next time you see bargain tires on sale check the grade. You probably are getting what you pay for.

B.C. Municipal Aid Condemned by Rathie

VANCOUER (CP) — Provincial aid to municipalities in B.C. looks sick compared to that in Ontario and Quebec, Mayor William Rathie said Monday.

Mayor Rathie said governments in both the eastern provinces have different financial arrangements with their municipalities than in B.C. and both provide greater assistance.

He was commenting on a claim Saturday by B.C. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that B.C. is better to its municipalities than any other province.

The mayor said Quebec is making huge contributions toward the routing of the Trans-Canada Highway through Montreal. He compared this with the $350,000 Vancouver received last year from the provincial government's $80,000,000 highways budget.

Rhodesia in the immediate future.

But he proposed that Britain should immediately announce a definite target date by which the African majority would take over control through a phased program.

Under an agreed agenda they considered ways to topple the Rhodesian regime as quickly as possible, the constitutional future of Rhodesia including its advance to Negro majority rule, and Commonwealth help for Zambia in its vulnerable position as Rhodesia's neighbor and major trading partner.

Arrival statements by delegates indicated most are willing to wait and see whether the British - sponsored sanctions bring down the government of Premier Ian Smith.

But some qualified this willingness with a warning that other measures, including armed intervention, should not be ruled out if sanctions prove ineffective.

Warrant Issued In Break-In At Motor Firm

One of the cheques was cashed over the weekend at a local beer parlor. It was made out for $150.

The cheques were taken from the office of firm manager J. P. Destrube. A screwdriver was used to force the office door, police said.

Police said the man they are seeking is believed to be driving one of the firm's autos.

COMMUNISTS SILENT . . . . . . ON 'DIRECT' CONTACT

Viet Peace Hopes Dimmed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A peace bid delivered at a face-to-face meeting between diplomats from the United States and North Viet Nam has so far failed to spark any official reply from the Communists, administration sources said today.

It was disclosed Monday night the United States sent a note to Hanoi more than a week ago clarifying its position on negotiations on the war in Viet Nam and seeking to persuade the Communists to go to the conference table.

Administration officials said the U.S. communication was handed to a North Vietnamese official by an American diplomat at one of the capitals in which the two countries both have representatives.

The message sent to Hanoi apparently was the only such "direct" contact that has been made between the two governments. Hanoi's failure to answer it further dimmed hopes for turning back the tide of war in Southeast Asia and moving closer to the conference table.

Disclosure of the meeting between U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats followed a general statement by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers it was a "safe deduction" the U.S. had been in direct contact with Hanoi during the course of the "peace offensive" launched by President Johnson last Dec. 20.

Several factors apparently motivated the administration's decision to disclose its direct approach to Hanoi. Among these were:

- President Johnson's reported desire to bring the public and Congress up to date on his peace efforts prior to delivering his State of the Union Address Wednesday night.
- The assertion by assistant professor Staughton Lynd of Yale University that he was told by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong that the U.S. government had made no contact with his country and this was "quite disturbing." Moyers said Lynd, who returned Sunday from an unauthorized trip to Hanoi, was "incompletely informed."
- The desire to convince U.S. allies, neutralists and European Communists that the president was passing up no avenues in his effort to find a peaceful solution in Viet Nam.

There apparently was some difference of opinion among some high administration officials as to whether the direct U.S. peace bid should be disclosed at this time.

Some, particularly in the state department, were reported to feel that the disclosure might lessen the possibility of a favorable response from Hanoi. The White House apparently concluded otherwise.

There was no detailed information available on the contents of the American message. It was assumed, however, it consisted of some additional clarification of the 14-point peace plan Johnson authorized Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to submit to the United Nations last week.

At the same time he discussed the possibility of a direct contact with Hanoi Moyers also disclosed Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman would stop in Saigon to discuss the peace campaign with American and South Vietnamese officials.

WEEK TO CLEAR

Regina Tied Up After Blizzard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway crews in parts of Saskatchewan and eastern Newfoundland today were started on what would turn out to be a week's plowing in the wake of two enormous blizzards that slugged the areas Sunday.

The worst storm to hit Regina in almost 20 years left the city buried under drifts that officials estimated could disrupt normal movement for a week. Conditions at Moose Jaw were similar.

Milder weather was to move into Saskatchewan today although predicted highs of 10 above were unlikely to help in snow-clearing operations. Only light snow was expected.

Hurricane-force winds gusting to 85 miles an hour pushed the Atlantic blizzard through Eastern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Sunday. It moved across to Newfoundland around noon and piled drifts up to 15 feet in the streets of St. John's.

A 300 - mile stretch on the Trans - Canada Highway from St. John's to Grand Falls was blocked but by Monday night plows had reached a point 50 miles west of the capital.

As communications were restored, reports of washed-out bridges, causeways and sections of road filtered in from the island's south coast, battered by giant seas and high tides during the storm.

SCHOOLS STAY SHUT

Power was restored in most of St. John's Monday night after widespread failures. Schools were to remain closed for the second day today but businesses were expected to re-open after the weekly Monday holiday.

Elsewhere in Canada generally typical winter conditions were predicted for today.

Milder weather was moving across Alberta and in Manitoba a few snowflurries and highs of five and 10 below were forecast.

British Columbia's coastal temperatures were rising to the mid-40s today with some rain. In northern B.C., 30 - degree readings were bringing a welcome break after two weeks of sub-zero conditions.

Quebec was becoming cold and windy but no heavy snowfall was expected.

Southern Ontario was expected to follow the warm and cold pattern prevalent during the last couple of weeks. The temperature in Ottawa dropped to zero early today from 38 Monday. In Toronto the plunge was to 15 above from 43.

Baby Born In Stalled Truck

CUDWORTH, Sask. (CP)—A story of a baby born in an unheated truck marooned in a strong weekend blizzard came to light here Monday.

When Mrs. Joseph Gruza, 24, of Prudhomme, Sask., realized her baby was on the way, she and her husband headed for the Cudworth hospital 15 miles distant in their farm truck at the height of the storm Saturday night.

Five hours and two miles later, when the truck bogged down in the drifting snow and stalled, Mr. Gruza struggled to a nearby farmhouse for help.

When Mr. Gruza returned with a horse and sleigh, he found a newborn baby girl in the unheated cab. Mother and child were rushed to the farmhouse.

Instructions from Dr. G. Kondzielewski at the hospital here were relayed over the telephone. When the blizzard ceased and snowplows cleared roads Sunday Mrs. Gruza and her child were taken to hospital.

The baby qualified as the first born this year in the district 45 miles northeast of Saskatoon and will receive gifts from local merchants. She is the couple's fourth child.

No-Spill Beer Gets Car Ride

Magistrate William Ostler said he was puzzled in central court Monday how two opened bottles of beer could remain upright on a floor of a moving car without tipping over.

But he gave the benefit of the doubt to Peter A. Reid, 19, of HMCS Qu'Appelle, and acquitted him of being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Cpl. Robert Duncan, Esquimalt police, said he stopped Reid and his companion in the accused's car on Paradise St. Dec. 16.

He said he found two opened bottles of beer on the floor of the vehicle in front of the front seat.

Reid testified he had no knowledge of the beer being in the car and first saw it when the officer came around to him from the other side of the vehicle.

He said he got into the car at HMCS Naden parking lot and had driven around Esquimalt for about 10 minutes.

"It is a great tribute to the roads in the municipality they (the bottles of beer) didn't fall over," commented Magistrate Ostler.

He said foam on the bottles was consistent with drinking before the two sailors were stopped or the bottles being shaken in transit.

Investigating officers did not smell liquor on the breath of the two men.

p.m. PST Monday) in the villa where he was staying outside Tashkent. Aides said he dined alone at 10:30 p.m., telephoned his family in New Delhi, and went to bed half an hour later but could not sleep.

At about 1:20 a.m., the prime minister was seized by a coughing spell and staggered into the hall crying, "Doctor, doctor." His staff, packing to leave Tashkent today, put their chief back to bed and summoned his personal physician, Dr. R. N. Chugh. The doctor said Shastri lost consciousness three minutes later and stopped breathing at 1:32. A team of eight Soviet physicians joined in unsuccessful attempts to revive him.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that death was due to a heart attack. Shastri had had a serious heart attack in 1959, before becoming prime minister, and another a month after succeeding Nehru.

Shastri had seemed in good spirits earlier in the evening when he and Ayub Khan were Kosygin's guests at a reception. He smiled and clapped at a brief program of music and dances.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan said the prime minister, during the automobile ride back to the villa, said, "We must fight bravely for peace as we fought in the conflict."

Shastri's body was flown home across Pakistan. Since the fierce Indo - Pakistani war, the two countries have barred each other's planes from crossing their borders.

About two hours after Shastri's death Nanda, who is 67, took over the reins of government. As home minister he was next in line, and he was sworn in by President Radhakrishnan in a brief ceremony at the presidential palace.

The president and Nanda then went to Shastri's residence to pay their respects to the prime minister's wife, Lalita. They were accompanied by Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter, who is information and broadcasting minister.

Congress party members in Parliament will meet soon to decide whether Nanda will remain at the head of the government or be pushed aside for someone else, as he was after Nehru's death. Observers expressed belief that he has a good chance of holding the post this time.

Shastri was born in the abject poverty of a mud hut in backcountry Mughalsarai village in North India's Uttar Pradesh state Oct. 2, 1904.

The date was 43 years before the end of British rule brought the independence he was to help win in the non-violent resistance movement of Mohandas K. Gandhi and Nehru.

His work for freedom cost him nine years in British jails.

Shastri's school teacher father died when he was 18 months old and he and his two sisters grew up with their grandfather, who sent him to school in the nearby holy city of Banaras.

Lacking the ferry fare, sometimes he swam the Ganges, books strapped to his head.

Three months before graduation, Shastri quit high school to join the independence campaign. His activities soon landed him in prison. Released, he finished high school, entered a Sanskrit college and won the degree of "Shastri," meaning graduate in ancient scriptures. The title remained part of his name.

His education behind him, he married Lalita Devi at the age of 23 and rejoined the resistance.

Imprisoned again, he got word that his year - old daughter had died of typhoid because his family lacked money for medical care. The Shastris later had two other daughters and four sons.

Shastri, a five-foot two-inch, 110-pounder, developed into an adroit politician and a force in the All-India Congress party, becoming its general secretary for Uttar Pradesh state—India's most populous—at 31.

Flag Honor Ordered For Shastri

Canadian flags on all federal buildings were ordered to half staff in Ottawa today by External Affairs Minister Martin in tribute to the late Prime Minister Shastri of India who died after a heart attack Monday.

Flags on provincial buildings will follow suit, officials in Victoria said this morning.

At noon today, however, most flags on federal poles were still flying high, as news of the order had not come through official channels.

A check with officials at Work Point, HMCS Naden and the Bay St. Armouries showed their flags were still flying at full staff.

A memorial service for Prime Minister Shastri has been tentatively set for Friday at the Victoria Sikh Temple.

Ajab Singh Sangha, a spokesman for the Sikh community, said Sikhs from all parts of Vancouver Island will be invited to attend.

"Shastri's death came as a shock to members of the community, he said. "He was highly respected because he worked to improve the general lot of the poor people of India."

TOLD TO DROP COVER CHARGE FRENCH CAFES

PARIS (Reuters) — Cover charges in French restaurants were abolished by government decree Sunday.

The charge is forbidden following complaints the price of a restaurant meal can often turn out to be 25 per cent or more above than stated on the menu.

Restaurant owners can increase their food prices 10 per cent to make up for the loss of the cover charge, but there must be no increase in drink prices.

Patrol Boy To Bounce Right Back

Oak Bay municipality will use rubber children to slow down traffic on Henderson Road.

The suggestion was made by Chief John Green Monday night while the traffic committee was studying the problem of kindergarten children crossing Henderson Road at Uplands School.

Chief Green said the rubber figures of children at school crosswalks had been used successfully in Vancouver and New Westminster.

The committee asked the chief to investigate the possibility of obtaining two figures.

Coun. J. D. Watts also asked the police to "toughen-up" on speeders on Henderson Road.

TORRENTIAL RIO STORM KILLS 145

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—A torrential daylong summer rain storm crippled this Brazilian city of three-and-a-half million today. An estimated 145 persons were dead, more than 1,000 others injured and many thousands homeless.

The storm, which dumped more than 10 inches of rain on the city in 18 hours, knocked out light, gas and telephone service in many parts of the city.

Slum areas, perched precariously on hills that spread fingerlike through the city, were hardest hit.

The city's 40 ambulances were unable to answer all appeals for help.

In the Pavaozinho slum, 19 persons died when shanties collapsed and slid down a hillside. In the famed Copacabana Beach area, five bodies were recovered after 10 houses were swept downhill.

Double Your Reading Speed?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of rapid reading which should enable you to double your reading speed and yet retain much more. Most people do not realize how much they could increase their pleasure, success and income by reading faster and more accurately.

According to this publisher, anyone, regardless of his present reading skill, can use this simple technique to improve his reading ability to a remarkable degree. Whether reading stories, books, technical matter, it becomes possible to read sentences at a glance and entire pages in seconds with this method.

To acquaint the readers of this newspaper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing rapid reading skill, the company has printed full details of its interesting self-training method in a new booklet, "How to Read Faster and Retain More", mailed free. No obligation. Send your request to: Reading, 835 Diversey, Dept. 4991, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

Announce New Healing Substance::: Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

STRONG ECONOMIC UNION NECESSARY

HAMILTON (CP)—The time is ripe for a strong economic union between Canada, the United States and Mexico, Douglas Ambridge, chairman of the board of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Co., said Monday night.

He told the annual civic night dinner that such a union would not only help Latin American countries to self-sufficiency, but also would keep communism out of these same countries.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Speculatives Hold Toronto Spotlight

Spectulatives held the spotlight in trading today on the Toronto stock market.

D'Eldona, which recently reported some encouraging drill results from its property near Rouyn, Que., was the outstanding issue climbing 33 cents to 2.48 on more than 1,330,000 shares. It traded as low as 10 cents last June.

Other speculatives to show good gains were Quebec Manitou up 17 to 47 cents and Wilco 16 to 95 cents on more than 593,000 shares.

Patricia Silver, in the news over a faked press release probe, dropped from $1.64 to $1.57 at Montreal.

Wall Street closed higher today in heavy trading.

AT TORONTO in the industrial list Rothmans was up 1¼ to 26 and Pacific Petroleum 1 to 12¾. Aluminium and the Bank of Nova Scotia added ¾ each to 36¼ and 76½.

Among base metals Campbell Chibougamau gained 30 cents to 7.90 while Normetal was up 20 to 4.95, and Sherrit Gordon 15 to 6.15. Noranda was off ½ to 54¾.

Alminex was ahead 15 cents to 4.60 in western oils and Canadian Export Gas 8 to 2.83.

AT NEW YORK the ticker tape ran as late as five minutes as speculative and investment interest ran high.

Rails, airlines and a variety of the glamour or "science issues were especially strong.

AT MONTREAL utilities were off but most other sections were off but most other sections moved fractionally higher in moderately active trading.

Banks were higher. Montreal and Nova Scotia each climbed ¾ to 66½ and 77¼ respectively. Royal added ¼ to 77½ and Canadienna Nationale ⅛ to 69⅛.

AT VANCOUVER trading eased towards noon today as most mining issues declined.

Borite continued its downward trend dropping .04 to $1.10 on 39,950 shares. Lornex lost .10 to $3.90 on 1,700 shares and Patricia Silver slipped .07 to $1.58 on 60,950 shares.

Gainers included Western Mines which climbed .05 to $5.95 and Grandue, up .10 to $3.50 on 2,800 shares.

Royal American led the oil section dropping .14 to $1.85 on 131,300 shares. Share oil was up .02 to .50 on 12,100 shares.

Macmillan, Blodel climbed .50 on the industrial board hitting $28.62 on 360 shares. Growers B rose by .20 to $3.80.

AT LONDON the market turned quietly firm today on small selective buying. Monday's warning by Prime Ministeer Wilson that continued economic restrictions would be necessary this year caused some initial declines, but these were later reduced or eliminated.

Tourism Canadian Gold Mine

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Tourism is a multi-million-dollar gold mine which could be developed into Canada's greatest earner of foreign exchange, says Harold Merilees, chairman of the B.C. Tourist Advisory Bureau.

In a speech to the annual meeting of the Kamloops chamber of Commerce Monday night he said the annual world expenditure on domestic and international tourism exceeds $53,000,000,000.

B.C.'s share of this was $200,000,000 in 1965, "yet the total budget for the B.C. government travel bureau is only $950,000."

He said provincial recreation minister Kiernan has estimated B.C.'s 1966 centennary will bring in in excess of $240,000,000 tourist-convention dollars. He suggested one per cent of this, or $2,400,000, was the least that should be expended to promote the tourist trade this year.

"When are we in British Columbia going to stop playing with this multi-million dollar industry as though it was some fascinating Christmas toy?" he asked.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed led a general market advance as it jumped as much as 14 cents in active trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Gains in rapeseed prices were sparked by a U.S. agriculture department report indicating smaller supplies of soybeans on farms than had been expected and broad advances in soybean futures at Chicago.

Flax gained about two cents at the highs.

Barley and oats edged higher in fairly active trade.

Rye was fractionally higher.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were up ⅛ cent.

Within certain limits you can augment your future income by subscribing to a Registered Retirement Savings Plan and pay for it through income tax savings.

The medium which we recommend has a built-in hedge against inflation.

First Born Get Breaks

The dice are loaded in favor of first-born children, says a University of California psychologist.

Citing 29 studies to prove it, he argues that a significantly higher percentage of scientific geniuses and other eminent persons were first born than would be expected according to the laws of chance.

Professor William D. Altus, writing in scholarly "Science" magazine, traced the relation of birth order to genius back to 1874, when Sir Francis Galton made the first known observations.

Galton found that an unusually high percentage of the fellows of the Royal Society were eldest sons. The Englishman concluded that it was due to the law of primogeniture (exclusive right of inheritance to the first born), which gave the eldest the means to follow his ambitions.

In 1916, the American researcher E. L. Clarke reached a similar conclusion in his study of great authors.

However, Professor Altus, himself the last born in a family of six, points out that Clarke and several other researchers note a second correlation between genius and the last born.

Clarke's explanation was that first and last born enjoy greater educational opportunity than those born in-between. The first succeeds in getting a start before adversity falls and the youngest have the elders to help them financially.

How Long Can Europe Sleep?

U.S. Boosting Its Scientific Lead

By DIETER STOLZE
In Die Zeit, Hamburg

Somewhere a forgotten satellite is circling the earth.

Who is going to think about the modest attempt of France one month ago to become established as the newest space power in view of America's great space triumph?

The difference is really too great. The U.S.A. caused four astronauts to meet in space whilst one of Europe's industrial nations was just able to launch one tiny satellite—with great effort—an attempt that ended uselessly because the satellite burnt out immediately after take-off.

The unmistakable satisfaction concerning that failure which could be sensed occasionally in the Federal Republic seems understandable in view of the unpleasant energy with which some propagandists tried to boast of their grandeur.

Malicious Joy

But does this occasion really allow feeling of malicious joy to arise? France's failure is at the same time proof of our incapability in this important field of technology.

A study was recently presented to the European countries which proves that they will lose even more ground in comparison with the U.S.A.—not only in space travel but in many other fields of science and technology.

The most thorough analysis of funds invested in research to date, made for the OECD by two scientists of the British National Institute of Economic and Social Research has resulted in the following: Europe is still investing too little in her future.

The main points of the OECD study are:

$17,500 Million

The U.S. spent 17,500 million dollars for research and development in 1962. The five European industrial countries, Great Britain, France, Holland, Belgium and the Federal Republic together only spent 4,360 million dollars.

About 435,000 scientists and engineers are presently working in research and development in the U.S.—still more in the Soviet Union. The five previously mentioned industrial countries together only have a total of 147,000.

Some 1,300 scientists and engineers from western Europe emigrate to the U.S. annually, most of them expecting better working conditions and higher pay. Western Europe passes about 5 per cent of her young generation of natural scientists to the U.S. each year.

The consequences of this development are obvious. The New York Herald Tribune made the following comment on the OECD report: "Technically speaking, American industry has managed to surpass its European competitors by far."

America's superiority has paid for itself for a long time. With the sale of licences and patents, the U.S. makes nearly 600 million dollars per year, some 9 times more than what they have to pay for their work.

The Federal Republic, especially, is in a very bad position. We spend less per head of population for research than any other of the countries investigated with the exception of Belgium.

Two Spoke Out

Only Karl Schiller and Franz Josef Strauss spoke out at the Bundestag debate by saying that the refusal of sufficient "investments for the future" is a terrible threat for us as the third largest industrial nation of the world. For that reason we must bring order to our financial policy. And we have to increase our efforts to achieve European co-operation in technology.

The Plowden Commission report concerning the British aviation industry states: if we want to survive, we must find partners in Europe—the Americans do not need us, they are strong enough by themselves.

De Gaulle Must Look to France

By JOHN ARDAGH

PARIS—There is a long list of pressing domestic measures that many Frenchmen feel President de Gaulle has neglected in the past seven years in favor of his foreign and military policy. As he and his ministers resume this month their dubiously-renewed mandate, they will have to begin to tackle some of these reforms if they want to survive. For the voters have warned them clearly.

M. Pierre Sudreau, the distinguished ex-minister who broke with de Gaulle in 1963, and last autumn was invited to be the Centre parties' candidate, long before M. Lecanuet, told me: "Gaullism will die unless de Gaulle now makes some new reforms. His vote was poor because he and his ministers have been victims of their own stability, and have failed to notice how the country has changed. They thought it was the same as five years ago. But the basic structures of France, over-centralized and too juridical, are rapidly being made obsolete by technical progress."

I asked him what de Gaulle should do.

Forget Prestige

"First, stop spending so much money on nuclear weapons and other prestige luxuries—including, I fear, aid to Africa. Next, devote far more public money to social services, education, public works, the modernizing of industry, and so on. Finally, carry out basic structural reforms notably in land ownership." (Sudreau was Minister of Housing, 1958-62.)

In 1960 an official committee headed by two leading planners, Louis Armand and Jacques Rueff, reported to the government on the main obstacles to economic and social progress, and how to remove them. The government tacitly accepted most of the proposals, but has applied very few.

True, its record of reform is better than that of the Fourth Republic, but it is poor compared with the power it enjoys, and what it could have done. And many problems grow more pressing each year.

The rapid French economic progress of recent years is now, in every field, coming up against outdated structures and methods that prevent it from advancing much further. The engine has been revved up to a fair speed—thanks to the Plan, the Common Market, and so on—but now it cannot go faster without a tune-up.

In some sectors, the problem is lack of public money rather than of reforming zeal. The growth of private wealth has vastly outstripped the growth of public services, so there is a crying lack of good modern roads, adequate telephone services, hospitals, etc.

Complex Issue

The biggest problem of all is decentralization and regional development—a vast and complex issue. Though most provincial towns are far livelier than 10 years ago, the government's policy of coaxing industry out of the Paris area has been largely a failure; and worst of all, the Gaullists have shown little sign of relinquishing to the provinces one jot of the highly centralized political power bequeathed them by Napoleon. The power of the "communes" remains largely negative. All decisions pass through Paris still.

Most liberal Frenchmen agree that if de Gaulle really wants to build a balanced and modern France in the next seven years, his government will have to take the initiative by simplifying, and decentralizing, the hopelessly complex state administrative machine.

It may have served Napoleon well, but it makes no sense in 1966.

Few Regret Giscard Out

By BERNARD NOSSITER
The Washington Post

PARIS—Economic officials in the West are privately delighted with the exit of Valery Giscard d'Estaing from the French finance ministry.

Giscard, as he is popularly known, has become the very symbol of hard-nosed, old-fashioned economics. His austere, go-it-alone policies, clearly supported by President de Gaulle, amassed gold for France at other nations' expense.

The new cabinet, led by super economics Minister Michel Debre, holds out the hope of increased spending on public works and encouragement to revive France's lagging business investment.

This should increase the demand here for foreign goods, perhaps reduce French sales abroad and generally relieve some of the pressure Paris has been exerting on the financial reserves of other nations.

MICHEL DEBRE
. . . super minister

This does not mean that Debre is a wild-eyed inflationist. He has said that "monetary stability is a necessary measure." But he has also said that stable prices are not the be-all, end-all of economy activity.

Debre, unlike Giscard, believes strongly in the importance of France's indicative plan of economic development. He will not hesitate to junk Giscard's balanced budget and will spend to reach the growth targets.

For the rest of the world, there is at least one debit in the list of credits from the Debre appointment. The new minister is much less enamoured than Giscard of competitive markets. As a firm believer in planning and state intervention, Debre would turn much more readily to import curbs to protect French industry. He is thus less likely to be as interested in the Kennedy Round of tariff bargaining.

The key negotiation confronting Western finance ministers is that over reform of the world's monetary system. Here, Giscard embodied the most conservative view, demanding that any new international asset be tied in some fashion to gold. He was too sophisticated to hold the primitive gold standard views of some French theorists. But he never departed drastically from them.

Humanity Marching Toward a Synthesis Declares U Thant

I was brought up in a conservative Buddhist family and was trained to respect and observe the essentials of Buddhism. Among others I was trained to achieve a certain degree of emotional equilibrium or detachment which is one of the essential teachings of Lord Buddha. I was also trained to regard humanity as a whole and not in terms of segments or divisions constituting the whole.

U THANT
. . . humanity first

This observance of Buddha's teaching enables me, I believe, to view things from a perspective different from that of most people. When I was in college, I succeeded to some degree in overcoming certain types of emotion. For instance, local interests became subordinated to national interests. Gradually national interests were subordinated to human interests. I began to view things from a human point of view and not from a national or a regional point of view.

To illustrate my point, I would cite my experience at a boxing match. A Burmese boxer and a boxer from a foreign land were in the ring for a title bout. I could watch the progress of the boxing match without any emotional reaction. I would not feel one way or the other whatever the result of the match might be.

Sounds Strange

This perhaps may sound strange to you but this is the way in which I have been trained and this is the way I like.

Perhaps because of this background, my reading of history leads me to one conclusion among others: humanity is marching toward a great synthesis.

The trend is unmistakable. Let us look at the religious aspect of the human situation throughout history. History abounds with religious strife and struggles. Wars of crusades are a glaring testimony to the total absence of religious tolerance in the early days of history.

Even as late as the 19th century, religious tolerance was regarded in many parts of the world not only as a sin but as a colossal crime. However, humanity has moved a long way from those closed religious societies to much more open and much more tolerant societies.

Desirable Attitude

Now in the second half of the 20th century, religious tolerance is not regarded as a sin or a crime but as a very desirable attitude in civilized societies. So, all great religions are beginning to co-exist peacefully.

I believe that similar trends are noticeable in the political field. A close analysis of modern history will reveal one fact that political ideologies are not static but organic in that they are adaptable to the vicissitudes of time. What one considers to be a fixed political dogma at one time is no longer true at a later period.

Although ideological differences and intolerance from time to time have been acute, I believe that they are also undergoing fundamental changes like religious differences and intolerance at a certain stage in human history.

Since I am a believer in the concept of the great human synthesis, I hold the view that political ideologies are also moving toward a stage of peaceful co-existence in the same way as religious beliefs. This process may take a long time, perhaps several generations, but the trend is unmistakable.

Please do not misunderstand me when I say that I believe in the peaceful coexistence of political ideologies. If the choice is between democracy and dictatorship, I am for democracy as I have stated on many previous occasions. I believe very strongly in the democratic way of life, democratic processes, human dignity and fundamental freedom of conscience, freedom of religion, freedom of association, freedom of speech and freedom of work.

Not Blinded

But this belief in democracy does not blind me to the knowledge that there are hundreds of millions of people who believe otherwise, in the same way as there are hundreds of millions of people who do not agree with me in my religious beliefs.

This attitude and this belief in the concept of human synthesis enable me to view things perhaps differently from most of you.

If we believe in the future of the human race, homo sapiens, and if we really mean to build a better world on the basis of understanding, love, tolerance and a philosophy of live and let live, which are the keys to all great religions, then I believe that this approach is the only rational approach to all problems.

How Ottawa Bungled Arms Shipment Story

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—This is the story of a news report that wasn't true and a government that bungled the simple matter of denying a false report.

Waring

It isn't a big incident, but the pattern of cause and effect is so clear that it helps explain how the Pearson administration time and again gets its fingers caught in the wringer of adverse publicity.

It started Dec. 31, when the Canadian Press news service reported from Washington that "The Canadian government has vetoed two recent armament sales to the United States because the materials involved were bound for the Vietnamese war, sources here said today."

The story went on to report that "apparently" one sale was of ammunition and the other of replacement parts for "Buffalo" transport planes manufactured by De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. at Toronto. "Informants suggested "Canada couldn't sell any more of these planes to the U.S. if it wouldn't supply replacement parts, the CP said.

* * *

On Jan. 2 I telephoned the then minister of trade and commerce, Mitchell Sharp, to check out the story. It is under this department that export controls are exercised.

He flatly denied the story. "We don't forbid exports to the U.S., and we haven't forbidden any exports to the U.S.," he said. On the other hand, he added, "We don't permit shipment of arms to Viet Nam"—meaning direct shipments from Canada, because this would jeopardize Canada's official neutrality as a member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam.

On Jan. 3 Prime Minister Pearson was asked, during a press conference, if he had seen the CP story, and if he had any comment.

"Yes," he replied, "I saw that story. I have nothing to say about it at the moment."

On Jan. 4 he held another press conference, but neither he nor any reporter alluded to the story.

On Jan. 5 the Ottawa Journal commented editorially:

"Mr. Pearson should have been embarrassed to give such a lame response to a question he might have anticipated and on which the country expects him to be informed . . . But why didn't the prime minister have something to say? He had no answer, no defence, nor did he even promise a statement.

"This matter touches close to the heart of our foreign policy. Yet Mr. Pearson has no comment, other than to announce that the Liberal conference was all smiles."

* * *

Ouch! But fair comment. Why didn't Mr. Pearson ask one of his aides for a report when he saw the story? Why didn't Mr. Sharp send Mr. Pearson a memo on it? Why didn't the PM's two press secretaries foresee that the CP story presented a public relations problem? They should have seen to it that the PM was briefed to handle the question on Jan. 3, but failing that they should not have left it at "nothing to say." Mr. Pearson should have raised the matter himself next day and flatly denied the story.

It wasn't until late on Jan. 7, at another press conference, that the PM stated "exactly what the situation is . . . The shipment of military supplies to the U.S. for the U.S. armed forces does not require an export permit . . . The shipment of military items from Canada to Viet Nam would be incompatible with Canada's position on the International Control Commission."

'Divine Poet' Rehabilitated

The Manchester Guardian

ROME—Dante, the 13th century Florentine poet, who confined several popes to his "inferno" and who was a leading spokesman for the anti-papal political faction in Florence, has not only been rehabilitated by his church but has been proclaimed by Pope Paul as a prophet for such international authorities as the United Nations.

Pope Paul also has announced that he is endowing a Dante chair at the Sacro Cuore University of Milan because, he writes, "for a particular right, Dante is ours! Ours, we mean, in the Catholic faith. Ours, because he greatly loved the church whose glories he sang, and ours because he recognized and venerated the Roman pontiff as the vicar of Christ."

No Regret

There need be no regret that Dante's voice was often lashing and severe against more than one Roman pontiff and that he had bitter reprimands against ministers and representatives of the church," the pope's declaration reads. "We do not seek to hide this aspect of his work, well understanding his bitterness, which did not even spare his beloved Florence . . . and we can concede to him the right to make these judgments considering the deplorable failures of his time."

Until the beginning of this century, Dante's treatise "De Monarchia," was on the Vatican Index of forbidden books and his "Divine Comedy" was prohibited in several countries.

Pope Paul singles out the treatise for special praise, saying that, even though conceived in medieval terms, it calls for the presence of a supernational authority to be custodian of the peace.

"This omen of the divine poet's is not so Utopian as it might seem to some. In our own times it is reflected in the practical activities of the society of nations, with a range and with benefits which extend to the people of the whole world."

Famous Last Words

Victor Hugo
(1802-1885)

The celebrated French poet, dramatist and author of "Les Miserables" and "Toilers of the Sea," was the towering figure of 19th century French literature. He died at the age of 83 saying: "I see the black light!" Then: "Now begins the battle between day and night." And finally: "Goodbye, Jeanne, goodbye!"

Julian the Apostate
(331-363)

This Roman Emperor, son of Julius Constantius who was half brother to Constantine the Great, was brought up as a Christian but subsequently renounced his religion and announced his conversion to paganism. An enemy of Christianity all his life, he died crying: "The Galilean has bested me!"

Out of the Storms Come Topics for the Ombudsman

By ART STOTT

THE surface was clear and wet on the Shawnigan Cutoff when we drove up last weekend to check storm damage. The road into our little place was a foot to 14 inches deep in snow. Someone had been in before us, presumably on a similar errand.

Stott

I am not woodsman enough to tell from his prints how much earlier he had made the trip. Nor could I tell whether he followed deer track or deer took advantage of the trail he had mushed. It was odd, though, to see the cloven print in the middle of the boot depression. And the deer print was deeper, perhaps because, being smaller, it penetrated further in the first place.

We were relatively lucky. The shack was dry inside. The arbutus limbs that had fallen on the roof apparently had not pierced the shingles. But across the road coming in, small trees had come down, bringing the power line with them, and around the cottage half a dozen evergreens—pines, cedars and balsam—had snapped off at the top. A couple of weeks earlier and I could have been in the Christmas tree business.

Where the snow had rotted by the lake and under the trees, fresh green thrust up in tender leaf, small but certain sign that spring can't be far away.

* * *

Inside the shack it was cold as only the inside of an unused cabin can be—a sort of solid chill that confronts you.

In the soft living of the technological age, we aren't disposed to revert to pioneering practices and artifacts—coal oil lamps, wood stoves and the like. When the power's off, we look around, lock up and come home.

And because we're so dependent on modern conveniences now, we pay for power year around. Which makes me wonder if the B.C. Hydro will submit to me the regular minimum charge bill for January. Will I be expected to pay for a service that wasn't available? Do dozens of other people around the lake face the same question?

If we are, I'll have to appoint an ombudsman to take up the issue with the authorities. It's one of several matters that need inquiry. While we were at the lake, neighbors four houses removed were busy digging their way out of snow and setting up lines again. They had a problem.

What, they wanted to know, was Mr. Gaglardi going to do about the state of the Shawnigan Cutoff around the east side of the lake? If taxes were about twelvefold what they were a couple of decades ago, what were the summer home residents getting for them? If not a decent road, then what?

I'll take that up with the ombudsman, too, when he's appointed.

* * *

And there are a couple of other matters that concern me. Down at Foul Bay, when the sou'easters rode in on the high tides, they brought with them pounding logs to batter my boat-launching slip from its foundation. I read a few days ago about a ruling preventing beachcombers from salvaging logs that had broken from a boom in transit around our coastline. The logs, according to the ruling, were the property of the firm that had bought them, and couldn't be snaked off the rocks for a period of time through unauthorized salvage. That's fair enough. But who owned the logs that beat up my slip? Who do I sue?

While I'm feeling vinegary, perhaps I should also reserve for the ombudsman the question of long-distance telephone rates. When the issue was last discussed, some local people made the point that it costs more to phone from Victoria to Vancouver than it does from Victoria to Seattle. The explanation, as I remember it, was that long-distance calling carried a relatively high tariff because it was one of the revenue producers that offset local rates. The company has a point there, I think. But when I tried to phone Toronto on Christmas and New Year's, all I got, after the local operator, was a recording asking me to call back later because the circuits were overloaded.

In other words, we pay a higher rate than might be expected for a service which breaks down under pressure.

About time we got that ombudsman established, I think.

RCAF IN CONGO

By Wayne MacDonald
(Special To The Times)

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo—As the first rays of dawn crept over central Africa, it flashed against the silver fuselage of a giant RCAF Yukon one morning last week.

On board were 51 RCAF ground crew officers from Namao, Alberta and Otawa en route to Leopoldville to take part in the oil lift to petrol-starved Zambia.

The men will service the four mighty Hercules cargo carriers which each carry 108 barrels of oil a day to the Zambian cities of Ndola and Lusaka.

As the dawn filled the aircraft with spectacular orange light, the men stirred and prepared themselves for their final Canadian breakfast, an orthodox early morning meal of roast beef and mashed potatoes.

The servicemen had been 28 hours in the air flying from Ottawa to Etain in France from Etain to Kano, Nigeria, and from there on to Leopoldville.

106 IN CONGO

Their arrival in The Congo brings to 106 the total number of RCAF personnel taking part in the oil airlift. Many of the men on the Yukon had never been to Africa before.

Many, in fact, had never been to Europe. They spent the long hours of the flight glued to their cabin windows peering open-mouthed at the fields of France; the jewel lights of Nice and Monaco; as the aircraft flew over the Mediterranean at the sands of the Algerian desert and finally at the moonlit African jungles and the myriad native camp fires.

As the dawn rose, the Yukon was at the mouth of the Congo River and headed east to Leo. It finally swooped down across the city, a dirty, depressing metropolitan area of approximately 1,500,000 blacks and 25,000 whites. On arrival at the desolate airport, the men immediately saw the conditions they will work under for at least the next month; 100-degree heat all day; a humidity of between 90 and 100 per cent; a huge open service hangar which offers no protection from the searing heat; nearby fields which abound with snakes and lizards.

WORK AT NIGHT

Fortunately a good deal of the service work is done at night but even then the temperature is often in the 80s and the humidity just as high. The servicemen have been billeted at numerous hotels ranging from adequate to appalling in downtown Leo, some 20 miles from the airport. Many men are complaining bitterly about the accommodation but there is just nothing else available. Food is another source of irritation as there are few restaurants where it is safe to eat and prices are high. It is impossible to drink Leopoldville water which pours from the tap a muddy brown and the men must drink expensive beer or soft drinks. Virtually everything here is expensive due to two recent rulings by Congolese President Joseph Mobutu aimed at improving the local economy. Mobutu has ordered that all foreigners in the country exchange their money at the official bank rate of 150 Congolese Francs per American dollar.

This increases the cost of living of the servicemen since those who came here earlier, at the start of the air lift, were getting 350 to 400 Francs to the dollar on the money black market.

SPEND $20

Mobotu also declared that each foreigner in the country must spend a minimum of $20 American a day.

Persons in the country, including servicemen, can be stopped and searched at any time by armed officers of Mobotu's Force Publique and forced to show they have bank receipts for the required amount of Francs they should have spent.

The greatest problem of all facing both the ground crews and officers is ground transportation from Leo to the airport. No ground transport has been brought from Canada and replying on the Congolese is almost like hoping for Christmas in January.

Congolese-driven buses are ordered for a 6:30 a.m. pickup each morning at the various hotels. On occasions they arrive at 7 a.m., more often it is 7:30 or 8, and even later.

Even when they arrive you can't always be sure they will get to the airport in one piece.

But, even with these problems and more, the Royal Canadian Air Force is managing to make a great success of the oil lift.

Chef Hopefuls Seeking Entry To Cook Course

Applications are pouring in from would-be chefs.

Donald Cutler, supervising chef for the Canadian Pacific hotels, said he expected a dozen applications at the most but by late Monday more than 50 have arrived.

Of the applicants, possibly five or six will be chosen for a three-year course. They will graduate as juorneymen chefs and write provincial exams.

Mr. Cutler said the course met a good reception at CPR hotels in other cities.

Freedom-Bound Defectors Killed

TAIPEI (UPI) — Nationalist Chinese ships and planes Monday were ordered on "full alert" in the Formosa Strait, where Chinese Communist jets shot down an unarmed seaplane carrying three defecting seamen who, minutes earlier, proclaimed they were on "the road to freedom."

The twin-engine HU16 amphibious plane also carried a crew of three and an unknown number of Nationalist Chinese officials sent to the island of Matsu to welcome the sailors.

The seamen from Red China earlier in the day had sailed their 25-ton F131 armed landing boat to Matsu, off the Chinese mainland, after a shipboard mutiny in which seven of the 25 men aboard were killed. The defectors said four of the dead also wanted to defect.

The sailors, who were welcome by the Taiwan government, had displayed a safe-conduct card dropped over the China mainland by Nationalist planes.

Then they boarded the doomed plane for the trip to Taipei.

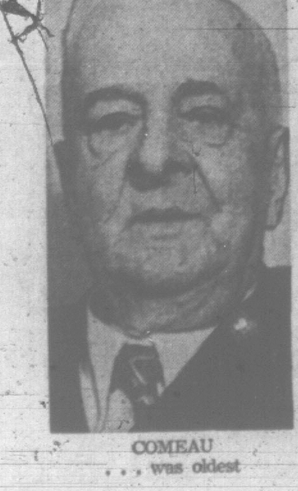
The aircraft took off from Matsu at mid-afternoon but 15 minutes later was attacked at low altitude by Red Chinese MiG jets. An air-sea search turned up no trace of the downed plane.

A large number of Nationalist jet fighters and warships were operating in the northern Formosa Strait with orders to engage any Red Chinese ships or planes in sight.

Canada Senator, 89, Dies in Nova Scotia

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—J. Willie Comeau, 89, one of Canada's oldest politicians, died in hospital here today following a brief illness.

Senator Comeau was taken to hospital about two weeks ago with an undisclosed ailment. Until his illness he had planned to attend the next session of Parliament. He submitted his resignation Monday to Governor-General Vanier.



COMEAU
. . . was oldest

He was first elected to the Nova Scotia legislature in 1907 and was continually returned as a Liberal member until 1925 when he was appointed to the executive council.

When the council was abolished in 1928 he again ran for the legislature and was elected continually until his Senate appointment in 1948.

Senator Comeau is survived by his wife, eight daughters, a brother and two sisters.

The body will be taken to the family home in Comeauville, N.S., and the funeral will be held from St. Mary's Church in Church Point, N.S. Time and date of the funeral has not yet been announced.

The current Senate standings are Liberals 54, Conservatives 31, independent 1, independent-Liberal 2, vacancies 14, total 102.

ONLY Conservative to win a Montreal seat in the last general election, Georges Calade said he is thinking of quitting the PC party. He said he will decide in the next few days but, in any event, will not attend the PC caucus Saturday of the Quebec Conservative MPs.

FIVE PROVINCES 'LAGGING'

More Civil Rights Urged For Mental Home Patients

OTTAWA (CP) — Patients in mental hospitals in five provinces can still be detained indefinitely against their wills and without reviews of their condition, a psychiatrists' conference was told Monday.

Toronto lawyer Barry Swadron said half the provinces have updated their laws to protect the civil rights of mental patients, but the other five lagged behind.

Speaking at the annual institute on mental health services sponsored by the Canadian Psychiatric Association, he criticized the mental hospital laws of Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces except Nova Scotia.

He said that in Ontario, for instance, a person could be committed to a mental hospital for life or long periods purely on the strength of certificates signed by two psychiatrists at the time of the patient's admission.

Mr. Swadron, who studied the legislation for the psychiatric association, praised Nova Scotia and the four western provinces for requiring hospital psychiatrists to examine all patients often and decide whether they are ready for release or need more care.

"There is an obvious need for independent boards of review to consider contentious cases, to protect the civil rights of patients.

'NOT ALL INCOMPETENT'

"Not all persons who are hospitalized against their will are incompetent to manage their affairs. No more rights than necessary should be taken from the individual."

In another address, Dr. C. A. Roberts, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Toronto, criticized federal plans to build four maximum-security criminals. The first one is under construction near Montreal.

He said the plans constitute an extreme approach. ". . . There have been proposals for the most physically restricted and psychologically damaging detention centres one could imagine."

He expressed concern about the "lack of communication" between penitentiaries officials in the justice department and the "best-informed professional people" in the corrections field.

Dr. Roberts also criticized the federal health department for not being more active in improving services for the mentally ill.

Dr. J. N. Crawford, deputy health minister, replied in an interview that the mental health division can only do as much as the provinces request. Health services were provincial matters.

FISHING CLUBHOUSE SET IN ESQUIMALT

Esquimalt council Monday night approved initial plans for construction of an Esquimalt and District Anglers' Association clubhouse.

The building will be at Fleming Beach on municipal property.

Council gave permission to lay a concrete slab and add a third ramp alongside the existing two.

Although the work will be done by the association as funds allow, the building will become the property of the municipality when completed.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

See those giant wide doors? Handi-Van is easy to load and unload. Two curbside doors may be specified, and then there are a number of extra window combinations available.

Handi-Van can turn in a 35.5 foot circle. Lets you scoot out of packed traffic and deliver your goods where and when you promised.

Look at all the space. Handi-Van measures 211 cu. ft. inside. That will hold up to a ton of payload. Loadspace length from engine housing back is over 92 inches.

The engine is a 120-hp engineering gem. And if you want more muscle, you can specify a 140-hp workhorse. Powerglide is available too.

The metal floor is built to shrug off abuse from 'most any kind of load. In fact, it's a heavy duty floor at no extra cost.

Handi-Van's body and frame are unitized. And the heavy-gauge steel has extra resistance to corrosion, giving you longer service.

You can see how great Handi-Van is from the back. But the most important thing is on the front.

It's that GMC nameplate that makes the difference. Not the plate itself of course, but what it represents. GMC has a reputation for Engineering Leadership. For instance: realizing most Handi-Vans would be city-operated and subject to road moisture and salt, GMC engineers started at the bottom. Sheet metal in exposed areas is first galvanized, then covered with aluminum paint, phosphated . . . then, after all that, undercoated! No wonder Handi-Van stands up so well under the worst a Canadian winter has to offer. And no wonder GMC has earned that reputation for leadership. When you're thinking vans—think Handi-Van, by GMC.

BOOKMAKERS' ODDS 5 TO 2

Brazil Favored to Put Trophy Out of Circulation

LONDON (AP)—Pele, the genius of Brazil; Rivera, the slim Italian schemer or Rocha, Uruguay's ace goal-grabber—any of them could shoot the golden goals that could take the Jules Rimet Cup, emblematic of world soccer supremacy, out of circulation this year.

When the World Cup finals are staged in England in July, those three countries each will be trying to win it for the third time and make it theirs for keeps.

British bookmakers believe it will be Brazil. The Brazilians, defending champions, are favorites at odds of 5 to 2.

They won it in Sweden in 1958, and again in Chile in 1962. Most of the 1962 team has gone now, and the new Brazilian squad still is something of an unknown quantity.

But Pele still is there. While he is in the forward line, weaving, drawing opponents out of position, letting fly with his fantastic shots, Brazil is capable of defeating anybody.

Garrincha (Little Bird), the right-wing wizard whose dribbling helped Brazil to win the World Cup in 1962, now is out of favor with Brazilian soccer officials. Nobody here knows whether he will be coming to England with the team.

But there still is Edson Arantes do Nascimento—Pele, for short—and any World Cup star will tell you that Pele is the most feared player of all.

Brazil is competing with Portugal, Hungary and Bulgaria in group three, on the grounds of Manchester United and Everton. Manchester and Liverpool fans have been clamoring for tickets ever since the draw was announced.

Italy, winner of the trophy in 1934 and 1938, edged into the tournament by a victory over injury-weakened Scotland.

The Italians have one of the finest pairs of fullbacks in the world—Burgnich and Facchetti, of Internazionale Milan. They have Rivera in the forward line, to put opposing defenders out of position, and centre forward Mazzola to punch home the goals.

Italy is playing at Sunderland and Middlesbrough, along with Russia, Chile and North Korea. Rivera and Mazzola will have a hard job getting the ball past Russia's black-clad goalkeeper Yashin.

Uruguay has a tough draw. It has to play at London's Wembley Stadium in a group that includes host country England, and sellout crowds of 100,000 will be roaring for the home team.

The Uruguayans have had an uneven career in the World Cup. They won the trophy in 1930 and 1950, failed to qualify for the tournament in 1958, and could get no farther than the quarter-finals in 1962.

Hector Silva and Pedro Virgilio Rocha starred in Uruguay's forward line in 1962, and they are likely to be playing again. They'll have one of the hardest tasks of all, finding holes in England's defence, solidly put together by team manager Alf Ramsey.

France and Mexico will be competing with England and Uruguay in the London group.

West Germany is the only other country to have won the World Cup.

It took the trophy once, in 1954. Veteran centre forward Uwe Seeler is expected to lead the West German forward line against Argentina, Spain and Switzerland in group two.

Want to Be A Millionaire? —Try Football!

NEW YORK (AP)—It might have cost National and American football league clubs in the neighborhood of $25,000,000—give or take a million or two—over the last few weeks to sign college players in the high-pressure war for new talent.

There's no actual way of telling how much the 24 clubs spent but if you can believe reports, the five-figure contract has become commonplace, if it isn't already on the way to becoming obsolete.

At least 20 players are reported to have received contracts calling for from $200,000 to $700,000 or a total of about $7,000,000—just under the going rate for a new franchise complete with 32 veteran players.

PRICE SOARS

Ever since the NFL and AFL began battling over the country's top collegians the price has mushroomed. Joe Namath's $400,000 was tops last year but at least four players may have exceeded that figure this time.

And when you add in the various free agents signed—maybe as high as 50 for the new Atlanta and Miami clubs—with a $5,000 bonus and $10,000 in salary, it's easy to see how $25,000,000 might have been spent.

Joining Anderson in the $500,000-and-up group are Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski, who also signed with Green Bay; Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis, who went with Atlanta of the NFL and Missouri back Johnny Roland, who signed with St. Louis of the NFL.

The players receiving about $350,000 are Tulsa quarterback Billy Anderson, Los Angeles, NFL; Michigan State tackle Hal Lucas, St. Louis, NFL, and LSU tackle Dave McCormick, San Francisco, NFL.

LINEMEN CASH IN

At $325,000 are Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams, New York, AFL; Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird, Oakland, AFL; Mississippi halfback Mike Dennis, Los Angeles, NFL; Mississippi tackle Stan Hindman, San Francisco, NFL.

The $300,000 group shows LSU tackle George Rice, Houston, AFL; Missouri tackle Francis Peay, New York NFL; Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton, Miami, AFL; Arkansas tackle Glen Ray Hines, Houston, AFL.

In the $200,000 and above category are Kentucky tackle Sam Ball, Baltimore, NFL; Michigan tackle Bill Yearby, New York, AFL; Massachusetts end Milt Morin, Cleveland, NFL; Tulsa tackle Willie Townes, Dallas, NFL.

And if all those figures can be believed some player in college today, such as Floyd Little of Syracuse, might be signing for $1,000,000 next year.

Apartheid Policy Extended to Golf

CAPE TOWN (AP)—The South African government underlined Monday its determination to extend its policy of apartheid in sports to golf tournaments.

Planning Minister Jan Haak, in a statement, reaffirmed the government's earlier decision not to allow South Africa Indian golfer Sewsunker Sewgolum to play at Cape Town later this week in the eastern provinces' major tournament.

Sewgolum, who travelled from Johannesburg to Cape Town during the weekend, was trying to make contact with the minister to appeal the decision but his chances of success seemed slim.

A department of planning official seemed to close the door firmly when he said his department could not "take the matter any further."

Haak referred in his statement to permission given to Sewgolum, who took part last weekend in the South African Professional Golfers Associated Tournament near Johannesburg, to participate in competitions in previous years.

He said the earlier permission had been granted "as a concession against government policy" and that the concession "should in no circumstances be regarded as an indication that the government was diverging from its approved and clear policy."

The minister ruled last week that Sewgolum would not be allowed to play in the Natal Province open championship at Durban next month but later reversed that decision. Sewgolum defeated Gary Player to win the Natal Open last year and has twice won the Dutch Open.

Champs Not for Sale Say Celtics' Owners

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Traveler says the owners of Boston Celtics are trying to sell the National Basketball Association champions. The Traveler says two attempts to sell the Celtics "within the past 17 or 18 days" were rejected.

The Rupert-Knickerbocker Breweries purchased the Celtics for $3,000,000 from Mrs. Walter A. Brown, widow of the club's founder, and Lou Pieri last June.

The brewery later was sold with all assets except the Celtics and some New York real estate. The present owners are Marvin Kratter and Jack Waldron.

Hirshberg said Kratter's asking price was "something considerably over the $3,000,000 he paid the original owners."

In Cincinnati Waldron, president of the Celtics denied the report.

"We deny it categorically," said Waldron, who was here for the annual NBA All-Star game.

"The Celtics are here to stay. Neither Mr. Kratter nor I have entered any negotiations to sell the Celtics."

ILLEGAL RECRUITING TACTICS

Houston on Probation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The University of Houston was found guilty of three football recruiting violations Monday and was slugged with a severe three-year probation that prohibits the school's football team from appearing in post-season bowl games.

The penalty was announced at the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention.

At the same time, the NCAA council, policy-making body of the organization, removed one-year probationary status from Arkansas and West Texas State, and returned them to full membership.

The council's action prohibits Houston's football team from appearing in post-season bowl games for three years, beginning immediately, and does not allow them to appear on any national television broadcasts.

Houston was charged with violations involving financial aid — in each case free transportation — in 1963 and 1964; with five violations involving recruiting — mostly transportation and entertainment of prospective athletes — 1962-65, and on one count of conducting out-of-season football practices.

England Goes One Up in Test

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters) — England sent Australia reeling to an innings and 93 runs defeat in the third Test match here today to take a triumphant 1-0 lead in the five-match series.

Losing their last seven wickets during the day for 89 runs, Australia was all out for 174 at 11 minutes after lunch. They had followed on Monday's 267 runs behind after being dismissed for 221 in its first innings in reply to England's 488.

Australia lost Brian Booth and Bill Lawry, their two remaining senior batsmen, with only one run added to their overnight score of 85 for three, and from then on they had virtually no chance of saving the match.

BATTING MEDIOCRE

England spinners David Allen and Fred Titmus cut through their ranks with some superb spin bowling, but on a pitch which was never acutely difficult the batting was mediocre.

Doug Walters, who made a century in each of the two earlier Tests, both of which were drawn, was unbeaten for a dour 35, top score for the team, and David Sincock clouted 27 runs, with five boundaries, in 37 minutes. The other batsmen never looked like making a stand.

Allen took four wickets for 40 runs in 16 overs today for innings figures of four for 47, and Titmus took four wickets for 40 runs, two of them today for 19 runs.

It was England's best win in Australia for 31 years.

The last time Australia went down by an innings in Australia was in 1936-37. England won by an innings and 122 runs.

Canada's Divers Poorly Trained

TORONTO (CP)—A U.S. diving expert says it's not the athletes' fault that the standard of divers in Canada is so low.

"Your kids have a long way to go to reach world standards," Hobie Billingsley, diving coach at Indiana University and one of the top Americans in his field, said Monday.

"But it's not their fault. There's kids competing here for a national championship who've never gone off a decent board or had proper coaching in their lives."

Billingsley, whose divers have won 23 major titles in the last three years, was discussing the diving situation in Canada following the Canadian indoor 3-metre titles here on the weekend.

Last week two members of a Czech military hockey team played here were reported to have asked for asylum.

Little Leaguers Find Defender

HAMILTON (CP) — Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play in baseball's major leagues, defended little league baseball Monday night.

Robinson, 47, was speaking at the 15th annual B'nai B'rith sports celebrity dinner here at which the little league all-star baseball team from nearby Stoney Creek, Ont., was honored.

Stoney Creek reached the finals of the 1965 Little League championship in Williamsport, Pa., before losing to Windsor Locks, Conn.

"There has been some criticism of little league ball," said Robinson, 47, who starred as a second baseman for Brooklyn (now Los Angeles) Dodgers of the National League after breaking into organized ball with the old Montreal Royals of the International League.

"But I'm all for it as long as coaches and parents realize the pressure of winning should not be too great on the boys. Let them relax and enjoy the game."

Among the accounts which filtered down from the snow-plugged Fraser Canyon last week was one that shocked me darn near speechless. The gist of it was that certain inclusive - fare passengers trapped in the crack CPR Transcontinental were refused food because they lacked the chikamin to pay for meals they hadn't counted on needing.

This because the company officer empowered to commission emergency chow for stranded travellers could not be reached from the slide area.

Well, maybe that's the way the grand old line handles matters these days, but I for one find it pretty disillusioning. Perhaps because a conductor on the E & N shared his lunch with me when I was about 11 years old, I have always taken it for granted that the CPR and its offshoots on land and sea couldn't bear to let a passenger go hungry.

My conviction was strengthened considerably when Win and I boarded the Princess Norah for a honeymoon cruise along the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The Norah was a humbler ship than her proud sister-princesses that coursed between the Island and the mainland. Like all of them, though, she fed her passengers royally.

★ ★ ★

This we discovered with our first meal, which happened to be breakfast.

The Norah was laying to off Nitinat Bar while Indians in a sea-going dugout canoe loaded mail and supplies for Clo-oose.

A heavy swell was running. This, augmented by tide, imparted to the ship a corkscrew motion which became downright unsettling.

"Is something the matter?" my bride asked. "You're turning the oddest shade of green."

I felt green, too, but before I could fully analyze the condition, a glass materialized by my hand. A voice said soothingly in my ear, "This will fix you up directly."

Against my better judgment, I drank. The top of my head lifted several inches, descended with a slight thud, and the green feeling vanished.

I ordered scrambled eggs and sausage for two, and we were embarked on such a marathon of good eating as has rarely come our way since.

That steward didn't merely serve us—he plied us with roast duckling, shrimps in curry, thick steaks and in-between snacks as if his very life depended on fattening us.

This while the Norah poked her way in and out of remote coves, with a stop for a cannery here, and a leisurely side-excursion to a floating camp or a mining settlement far down the next inlet.

The upshot was that our all-inclusive trip lengthened from the specified seven days to nine.

But did the line bid us go hungry when our week was up?

Not on your life! Instead, we continued to gorge on the best the Norah's wonderful galley could produce.

★ ★ ★

If the CPR's ships fed their patrons both generously and graciously — remember the dazzling white table linen, the baronial cutlery, the super-plump olives nestling amid the iced celery?—its trains weren't behindhand, either.

If we land lucky in our next reincarnation, our hope is to find ourselves in a diner with plenty of scenery whipping past the windows, and our appetites in good order.

We'll ask for an Alberta steak, or maybe a Winnipeg gold-eye, and later we'll drink Canada's best coffee from oversized cups while the power line poles tick off the miles.

I didn't mean it to happen, but this screed seems to have turned itself from a scolding into something mighty like a love-song. Back, then, to our theme!

Next time a batch of hapless passengers find themselves committed to the CPR for a space beyond the limit of their fares, I hope the line will be prepared to cover the situation adequately.

This it can best do by remembering the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and keeping him well fed, CPR-style, to journey's end.

FRONT AND CENTRE as usual, Maj.-Gen. John Rockingham autographs the 100,000th round fired in Korea by the 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Tonight at Bay Street Armoury he will be honored by officers who served with him in 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment.

ROCKY ON LAST VISIT

JOINS ENGINEERING FIRM

Kilted Wrecker Turns Constructive

By TERRY IZZARD

Victorians like to think of him as THEIR general.

Like something from a war movie, Maj.-Gen. John M. (Rocky) Rockingham, is rough and ready.

In his day, he gained fame on the battlefronts of France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Korea.

Now all that's behind him.

In just a few weeks, General Rockingham will be Mister.

The kilted superman, as he was affectionately known to the troops, is retiring from the army for the second time in his star-studded life.

In the 54-year-old general's own words: "A soldier's job is largely destructive.

●

"In industry the work is constructive. This appeals to me tremendously."

On Saturday he will relinquish command of the Western Command to take up a post with Loram Ltd., of Calgary, a long-range planning group of Mannix Co. Ltd., a general engineering firm.

His 33-year army career will end undramatically.

But long after the jovial giant—he's 6-foot 3-inch tall—is gone, his courageous exploits will be the talk of many a mess table.

Like the time in 1944 when he took an enemy machine gun post single-handedly.

He was alone, armed only with a Tommy gun, when the machine gunner opened fire on him.

Instead of diving for the ground he ran straight towards the emplacement, killing two men and capturing a third.

The former linesman for B.C. Electric Railway Co.—at one time he dug holes for power poles—was to notch up many more such exploits before his fighting days were over.

They were to earn him several medals, including the Companion of the Bath, DSO with Bar, CBE and ED.

Born Aug. 24, 1911, in Sydney, Australia, the man who was to become a legend had no thoughts of an army career when he arrived in Victoria as a boy of 19 in 1930.

●

In 1933 he joined B.C. Electric. Even more important, as it was to turn out, was his enrolment as a reserve in the 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment.

When war broke out in 1939, Rocky, as he was already known, was a captain in the reserves.

In order to get to the fighting front he took a position as lieutenant with the regulars.

It didn't take long for him to show his true metal and in 1942 he was promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

In 1944, at the age of 33, he became the youngest Canadian to command his own brigade—the 9th Canadian Infantry. By this time he had been made a brigadier.

●

He hit the front pages of London's daily newspapers with a photograph showing him accepting the German surrender of Boulogne.

At the time, Rocky had just lit a cigarette while the German general was fumbling in his trenchcoat pocket for a light.

According to the picture caption the brigadier in tartan trews was saying:

"I have given him a cigarette and now he wants me to light it for him—darned if I will."

A man of quick decision, he made headlines in August, 1950, when he received a phone call from Lt. Gen. Charles Foulkes asking: "Want to go back to war?"

●

At the time, Rocky was progressing rapidly up the executive scale with B.C. Motor Transportation Co. in Vancouver.

His answer: "Give me 20 minutes to make up my mind."

Although it was no easy decision for a man with a good business future and a growing family, a day or so later he was back in the Scottish uniform flying east.

●

As commander of Canada's 25th Brigade he went into the Korean front line Sept. 4, 1951.

There, the long-striding brigadier made a further name for himself.

A war correspondent of the day recalled how the brigadier asked a machine gunner at his post: "That position suit you?"

"No, sir, I would rather be up there," pointing a few yards up the hill.

"Why?"

"Well, sir, from up there I would have a better chance to kill more of them if they come in, sir."

●

"Son, if that's the way you feel about it, move your gun right up there and I won't worry about this flank any more."

He was also something of a psychologist.

At one stage of the war, out-of-combat troubles were caused just about 100 per cent by poison liquor sold by unscrupulous natives.

In an unprecedented action, he had the rotgut analyzed and the contents made publicly known.

The findings: formaldehyde, alcohol and 60 per cent human urine.

There was no more trouble.

At this time, the troops' theme tune was called "Rocky's Army."

It was among the many songs sung round a battered old piano during the evenings when Brigadier Rockingham liked nothing better than to chip in with his staff. (His own favorite tune was Waltzing Matilda).

After serving at the front with his men for longer than any Canadian force C.O. before or since, Brigadier Rockingham was ordered home.

He became director-general of military training at army headquarters in 1952 and later attended the Imperial Defence College.

In 1954 he was promoted to major-general and given command of the 1st Canadian Infantry Division.

Between then and being given his present command in October, 1961, he managed to devote plenty of time to his pet sport, skiing.

●

On Thursday, Maj.-Gen. John Meredith Rockingham will pay his last official visit to Work Point Barracks, Victoria.

His army career will be ended.

But the man will long be remembered.

Lee Calls for Conference On School, Hospital Costs

Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee today called for an early provincial-municipal conference to discuss revision of school and hospital financing.

The reeve will ask the Greater Victoria-Vancouver inter-municipal committee to press the government for a meeting brfore the legislature opens Jan. 27.

"Since the government in the past few years has announced budget surpluses, I see no reason why it shouldn't pay more towards school costs," he said.

"What was a satisfactory school tax formula a few years ago, is not necessarily so today," he said. "School costs are escalating and have become a heavy burden on municipalities."

Reeve Lee said the government should also pay more towards hospital construction costs. It now pays 50 per cent.

The reeve was the first civic leader last fall to oppose a two-mill levy for hospital construction in the capital region on the grounds the government should pay more.

The reeve isn't against municipalities sharing hospital construction costs.

"I don't believe hospitals should be entirely under government control," he said. "But I feel the government should take on more financial responsibility."

Wrong-Way Grade Protested

A road with a wrong-way grade on a dangerous curve is causing too many accidents, according to H. M. Pottinger, superintendent of Wayside House, 550 Foul Bay Road.

In a letter to city council Mr. Pottinger said Foul Bay Road at Gonzales was graded so that cars travelling either way were forced into dangerous positions when rounding the curve.

City engineer James Garnett admitted to the public works commitee this morning the grade is bad but said it would be extremely costly to correct. Any changes would spoil the beauty of the road, he added.

20 MPH ZONE

"It is clearly posted as a 20 mph zone," he said. "At that speed a driver encounters no difficulties. It is only when that speed is exceeded that a driver runs into trouble.

Ald. Robert Baird said he travelled the road regularly and agreed the curve is dangerous.

"I'm afraid that one day there will be a serious accident there," he said. "It is almost a blind corner and taking it at even slightly over 20 mph is exceptionally dangerous. The situation there is desperate and we should do something about it."

Mr. Garnett said the problem only existed because people disobeyed traffic regulations.

The committee decided to have the city engineer review the problem and bring in a recommendation.

$3,500 Bail Set For Man Charged With Break-In

Leonard George Bell, 4145 Wilkinson Rd., was remanded to Jan. 18 for election when he appeared in court today charged in connection with a break-in Monday night.

He is charged with breaking and entering and theft from Burnside Esso Service, 300 W. Burnside.

Bail was set at $3,500 by Magistrate William Ostler who denied a request from Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett to have it fixed at $5,000.

Entry was gained to the premises by smashing a window in a large sliding door. Cigarette and soft drink machines were rifled.

Pedestrian Fairly Good After Mishap

A pedestrian involved in an accident at Rockland and Terrace Monday is in fairly good condition today.

Edith Priest, 72, of 1151 Rockland, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering a broken hip and other injuries at 3:23 p.m.

She was crossing Rockland from north to south at Terrace when in collision with a car driven by Brian Tucker, 5850 West Saanich, police said.

Also in hospital but in good condition is motorcyclist David Keith Henderson, 18, of 3796 Cadboro Bay.

BACK INJURY

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at 7:39 p.m. Monday suffering back and thumb injuries.

Henderson was proceeding south on Douglas when he was in collision with a vehicle driven west on Finlayson by Andy Krogstad, 1671 Richardson, police said.

Cyclist Jennifer Soulsby, Margaret Newton Hall, University of Victoria, was treated Monday for a head cut after she was in collision with a car in Saanich.

Police identified the driver of the vehicle as Dale Thompson, 880 Island Highway.

Inquests To Resume

Inquests into four December deaths will resume this week.

A probe into the traffic death of city newsman Vernon Lacey will continue tonight. He died in a Beacon Hill Park crash Dec. 15.

All inquests will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Victoria Law Courts.

REPORT NEARLY READY

Outside Help Probed In Colquitz Escapes

An investigation at Colquitz provincial jail is nearing completion but the possibility of "outside help" in some recent escapes still is under scrutiny, it was disclosed today.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said S. Rocksborough Smith, director of corrections in the province, is almost finished preparing his report.

"The possibility of charges being laid against people outside the jail have not been fully canvassed yet but it remains usder consideration," Mr. Bonner said in answer to a question.

He said it was obvious "there was a gap in the security at the jail—there were steps taken to meet a known risk but they were not sufficient."

Ten inmates have escaped for varying periods since the former mental home on Wilkinson Road in Saanich was turned into a provincial jail about two years ago.

The current investigation was ordered after David Robinson, convicted of the sex-slaying of schoolgirl Susan Freschi, broke out of custody last fall and remained free 2½ days.

DESTROYER TO ESCORT NEW FERRY

B.C.'s newest ferry, the Queen of Prince Rupert, will have an armed escort when she makes her inaugural run from Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert this May.

The destroyer-escort HMCS Yukon, under Cmdr. Richard Carle, of Victoria, will be conducting a series of exercises to and from the northern port city during the ferry's first run.

The Yukon and the Queen of Prince Rupert will arrive at Prince Rupert May 21 for inaugural ceremonies.

Details of the ship's program will be announced later.

'We Think She Can Hear Us' —Mother of Girl In Coma

A 13-year-old Victoria girl injured in a traffic accident Dec. 22 is showing signs of coming out of her coma.

Her 10-year-old brother is also unconscious as a result of the accident. His condition is unchanged.

Susan and Christopher Baker, children of Wing Cmdr. J. R. Baker, 3034 Westdowne, were injured in an accident near Medford, Ore. They were in a Medford hospital until Monday when they were flown to Victoria in an RCAF aircraft.

Mrs. Baker said this morning that both children are at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"Susan seems to be coming out of the coma. We think she can hear us. The doctors are hopeful about her. The boy's condition is unchanged," she said.

The Bakers were on their way to San Francisco for the Christmas holidays when their van struck ice, skidded and overturned. Wing Cmdr. is head of surgery at Naden Hospital.

Crop Loss Cheques Mailed Soon

Farm representatives expressed satisfaction with their first meeting on the golden nematode problem Monday with the new federal agriculture minister, J. J. Greene.

"The meeting accomplished a lot and we should have had a meeting like this four or five months ago," said Geoffrey Vantreight, one of a delegation that spent almost three hours with Mr. Greene during his first visit of Victoria.

Ed Lohbrunner, another delegation member, said Mr. Greene gave the first commitment by the federal government that farmers and nurserymen would be compensated for destroyed crops and surplus stock which could not be sold due to a government quarantine after the infestation was discovered here.

CHEQUES SOON

"Compensation for crop loss is in the process of settlement and I believe some of the cheques will be in the mail in the very near future," Mr. Greene said after the meeting.

He said the government will study all possibilities of rehabilitating the affected land. Expropriation also would be considered if necessary.

Dr. W. P. Campbell, chief of the plant protection division in Ottawa, came here with the minister and stayed to work on specific compensation questions for the next two weeks.

Mr. Greene flew to Edmonton from Vancouver this morning to continue his week-long western Canada tour to learn first-hand the most pressing problems facing farmers. He has been minister for only one month and makes no bones about the fact he is not an agricultural expert.

'Joke' Cost $50 And Lecture From Magistrate

John Lamont, 876 Craigflower, wasn't laughing when he found out a joke cost him $50 in city court today.

He pleaded guilty last week to a charge of misleading police and was remanded in custody until today for sentence.

Court was told earlier he called a telephone operator Dec. 12 and asked her to call police and tell them he was being held in his home against his will.

He said he did it "just as a joke."

"You are old enough and mature enough to distinguish between a practical joke and mischief," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

'Bombers' Delay Ferry Run

Teen-Agers' Joke On Bus Sparks Explosive Search

Two Victoria teen-agers joked about a bomb aboard a ferry Monday night.

But it wasn't a joke for passengers aboard the Queen of Victoria who waited 90 minutes while police searched for the bomb that wasn't there.

The RCMP said this morning the teen-agers were on a bus bound from Vancouver to Victoria taking the 7 p.m. ferry from Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay.

As a result of their conversation, a woman in the bus took for granted the possibility they could be planting a bomb said a spokesman.

She told the bus driver, who told authorities at Tsawwassen. Municipal police from Ladner and RCMP from Richmond arrived to search the vessel and question the youths.

"They said they did it as a joke and hadn't realized the implications," said RCMP.

The teen-agers may be lucky, though. At noon today, Ladner police said no charges have been laid.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Wait Forever to Lose Your Unwanted Overweight

This is the second in a series of 15 articles by Josephine Lowman which tells how to lose up to 20 pounds in eight weeks. Today she suggests how to determine the number of pounds you should lose. Save the menus and exercises for continued use during the eight weeks.

Sometimes I think that OVERWEIGHT should be spelled EVERWEIGHT because overweights often wait forever to lose those extra pounds. Believe me I am not being unsympathetic. I, myself, must constantly battle the bulge.

Lowman

I know! You had a sick child, unexpected guests arrived, you lead an active social life. All sorts of minor crises occurred and you just couldn't do what you had planned to do about your figure. Do it now or you will never do it! The tomorrows will be the same if you live an active, busy life.

I am currently bringing you my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan (B.I.P.) to help. It is easier to stick to a reducing program when you know what you can accomplish in a given length of time. In just eight weeks, you can lose from 15 to 20 pounds, improve your hair and complexion and increase your energy and self-confidence. The weeks fly by. Why not give yourself this break?

TO DIRECT YOU

If you would like to join tens of thousands of other women in this adventure to see how much you can improve your appearance in eight weeks, read "Why Grow Old" carefully for the next seven days. I will be here to direct you and after that I will give one day a week to reinforce your reducing efforts until the eight weeks are up.

First, you must decide what your ideal weight is. How many pounds should you lose? There are several factors which enter into this calculation. There is, of course, your height. Then, there is your frame or bone structure. Is it small, medium or heavy?

This is somewhat difficult for a woman to determine but the following ideas will be helpful. Remember that a woman may be very short and yet have heavy bones while another may be tall and have a light, delicate frame.

If you are athletic and have unusually well-developed muscles, you can weigh a few pounds more without being overweight.

BIRTHDAY SUIT

You can often get a fairly accurate idea of what kind of a frame you have by standing in front of a mirror in your birthday suit. However, this is more difficult when overweight is present because of the padding.

Also observe your shoulders, pelvis, knees, and ankle bones. It is entirely possible for a woman to have small wrists and thick ankles or broad shoulders. However, if your bones seem heavy at all of the places, you probably have a large frame.

Analyze yourself and consult the weight and height chart below. Now, we are really ready to GO! Begin following the menus which I am printing for a starter.

Beginning Career

PARIS (Reuters) — Mrs. Herve Alphand, ranked one of the world's 10 best-dressed women, who is entering the fashion business, thinks Paris' high fashions are too high-priced.

Mrs. Alphand, wife of the former French ambassador to Washington, is becoming an ambassador of fashion for the house of Pierre Cardin, one of the pioneers of smart ready-to-wear clothes, particularly abroad.

But it is not in export but in the home market that she hopes to expand sales.

"Good clothes with a high-fashion label should be made accessible to more women, and not just those who can afford to dress in the Paris haute couture," she says.

She believes creative ideas in dress can be extended in the lower price ranges as has been done in men's wear. She and her husband, now secretary-general at the French foreign ministry, buy their clothes from Cardin.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becoming firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Too Many Doubts!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are all members of the Retail Clerks Association, and are facing a serious problem. The store manager insists that we address all our customers as Miss, Madame, or Sir, whichever the case may be. Inasmuch as we are on a commission basis, we are not about to insult a customer intentionally, but many young men with the "Beatle" haircuts are now using eye shadow, fingernail polish, hair spray, etc., and it's almost impossible to tell the boys from the girls.

The girls have taken to dressing mannishly, and have the same kind of haircuts as the boys. The only guide to which sex they are would be to try to get a look at their feet. The boys usually have larger feet, but with both sexes wearing those boots, even that's not certain. Can you help us?

BAFFLED

DEAR BAFFLED: When in doubt, skip the Miss, Madame, Sir or whichever the case may NOT be. I am sure your boss would prefer that to your guessing and goofing.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that most of my "plain" women friends seem to have the best marriages, while the outstanding beauties are divorced, married again, and divorced, and can't make a success of a marriage? Even with the advantage of having been born beautiful they can't seem to find happiness. Why is that?

IMOGENE

DEAR IMOGENE: Believe it or not, natural beauty can be something of a handicap. Some beauties are so dependent on their "looks" to get them everything they want, they don't bother to develop other interesting or important qualities. A girl can "capture" a man with her beauty. Indeed she can capture more than one, if she wishes — but unless she knows how to give him more than the pleasure of just looking at her, she won't keep him long.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and all my children are married and have moved away, except my baby, a son who is 36. He is planning to get married in June. He and his lady are talking about buying a house. I told them they could move in with me. I have plenty of room and every convenience they need. They have nothing. Why should they struggle to buy a house with appliances and linen and furniture when they could live with me? I am not going to live forever, and when I die they can have everything. They tell me, "Thanks a lot, Ma, but we'd rather not." What is wrong with them? How can I talk them into it?

WANTS COMPANY

DEAR WANTS: Nothing is wrong with them. And don't try to "talk them into it." A 36-year-old "baby" is old enough to know what he wants.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT-BLUSHING BRIDE": Orange blossoms and myrtle are regarded as symbols of purity and are inappropriate for a bride who has been to the altar twice before. I recommend daisies. (They don't tell.)

11 Lost As Ship Sinks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The captain and 10 crewmen of a Spanish freighter were believed to have perished shortly after abandoning the vessel before it sank in a North Atlantic storm, according to reports received today.

The coast guard said 23 other crew members of the Monte Palomares were missing and were the objects of a search by several merchant vessels, the coast guard cutter Escanaba, and coast guard planes. The search area was 840 miles northeast of Bermuda.

Four crewmen were rescued uninjured by the freighter Steel Maker after a harrowing night on a raft tossed by 35-foot seas. They said they witnessed the drowning of the Monte Palomares' master and a number of crewmen but saw at least 23 others transfer safely to a lifeboat and a raft.

The coast guard said the ship, which normally carried 38 men, was abandoned at 3:55 p.m. EST Monday and sank shortly after.

Sixty-knot winds had moderated to 25 knots today, aiding the search operation. Seas had subsided to 20 feet.

THREE SHIPS

The 474-foot Monte Palomares was one of three ships to radio for assistance from the storm area.

The Greek freighter Lampsis with 30 crewmen aboard, reported its hull was cracked by the storm and abandonment appeared imminent. However, the crew managed to keep the vessel afloat by boring holes in the bulkheads to drain the bilge.

The 441-foot Lampsis radioed that it would continue the voyage as soon as its No. 3 hold was sufficiently drained. It was adrift about 240 miles southwest of the Spanish ship.

The Coast Guard cutter Androscoggin stood alongside the Lampsis and damage control men planned to board the vessel with portable pumps when weather permitted.

Engine damage disabled the Polish freighter K. I. Galczynski about 700 miles north of Bermuda. The 5,584-ton vessel was in no danger and awaited the arrival of a tug to tow it to Halifax. It had been bounced from Northern Europe to New York.

The rescued Monte Palomares crewmen said they counted 18 shipmates in a lifeboat and five others on a raft. Early search reports said there were no signs of lifeboats or rafts.

The 5,973-ton Spanish vessel was carrying grain from Norfolk, Va., to Spain when its cargo shifted under the stress of high seas. The vessel immediately heeled to an angle of 30 degrees.

$2 Million Art Theft At Museum

BESANCON, France (UP)—Thieves escaped with an estimated $2 million worth of drawings and etchings from the Besancon art museum Monday night, museum officials said today.

The officials said robbers ransacked two exhibition rooms filled with the works of Fragonard, Tiepolo, Veronese and other masters, and carried away about 50 of them. First estimates placed the loss at about $2 million.

Authorities said the thieves removed a heavy iron grill from a window in the main entrance hall and then apparently went upstairs where a special exhibition of drawings and etchings was set up last November.

A spokesman for the museum said the thieves took only the drawings and etchings, bypassing a priceless collection of paintings in other rooms.

NEW DELHI (CP)—The body of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, who died Monday in the Soviet city of Tashkent, returned here to an India whose prepared hero's welcome turned into grief and mourning.

A joyous welcome had been prepared for the diminutive 61-year-old Shastri before news was received of his death from a heart attack only hours after an Indo-Pakistani summit meeting in Tashkent agreed to shun war as a means of settling disputes.

Six generals carried the coffin on their shoulders from a special Soviet aircraft. It was borne on a gun carriage on the final journey to Shastri's bungalow where the body will lie in state before cremation Wednesday.

About 6,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen lined the route from Delhi airport.

President Saravpalli Radhakrishnan, newly sworn-in Prime Minister Gulzarilal Nanda and members of his interim government were among thousands who thronged the airport. Thousands more lined the seven-mile route into the capital.

Meanwhile, India's new prime minister promised today to carry through the agreement with Pakistan his fallen predecessor had hammered out.

Shastri had governed this troubled land of 460,000,000 people for 19 stormy months after the death of Jawaharlal Nehru.

The 5-foot-2, 110-pound prime minister had signed a limited peace pact Monday in Tashkent with Pakistani President Ayub Khan, agreeing to pull their forces back from territory seized during the September war between India and Pakistan.

Kosygin to Attend Funeral

Nanda, in a nationwide broadcast, said Shastri died "after successfully concluding a mighty effort for peace — we shall honor the agreement he made and implement it faithfully."

A Soviet plane bore the remains of the humble-born little leader across the Hindi Kush mountains to India's dusty plains.

Ayub Khan and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who was host of the Tashkent conference, helped carry Shastri's coffin to the plane in the Soviet Asian city.

Kosygin left shortly after to attend the funeral, and Ayub returned to Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital.

Shastri's body will be cremated beside the sacred Jumna River in New Delhi.

The Queen sent Earl Mountbatten, last viceroy and first governor-general of India, to represent her at the funeral. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and State Secretary Dean Rusk will represent the U.S.

Tributes to Shastri poured in from many parts of the world.

Prime Minister Pearson, in Lagos for the Commonwealth prime ministers conference, said: "I receive with shock and regret the news of the death of Prime Minister Shastri, with whom I have had the honor of friendship. He will be greatly missed, especially by his Commonwealth colleagues meeting here."

World Leaders Pay Tribute

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said Shastri's death "is all the more tragic as it came just as he and the president of Pakistan had begun relations on a new and more hopeful course."

President Johnson said his death was a "grievous blow to the hopes of mankind for peace and progress."

Kosygin hailed Shastri as "a great humanist of our time."

British Prime Minister Wilson, also in Nigeria, said the loss of Shastri "will be felt throughout the Commonwealth, and indeed everywhere. His qualities of statesmanship, sincerity and integrity are valued."

Ayub Khan said he was deeply shocked and sorrowed.

Shastri died at 1:32 a.m. (11:32

STORM HITS AGAIN

LADIES ADVISED

Start Living By Getting Rid of Hair

NEW YORK (AP) — Vidal Sassoon, the London hair stylist who makes Janes look like Joes, claims every woman in the U.S. ought to get rid of her hair "so she'll have time to do some real living."

Nightly pinups, teasing, bouffant hairdos and bobby pins are ridiculous, he says, "especially when the United States is otherwise such a modern, spectacular place."

Sassoon, 38, expressed his views for 200 fashion writers attending New York Couture Group style previews Monday. The ladies gasped when shown one German model with platinum blonde hair shorter than Sassoon's.

"Every woman would cut her hair this way if she saw how easy it is," says Anna Lenz of Munich. To contrast her close-cropped hair, she wears makeup that takes one hour to put on.

"Men love my hair short," says Sassoon model Judy Mursch, 23, of Copenhagen. "They rub their hands in it. They can't believe it's so thick. I think it's very sexy."

Sassoon charges $25 when he cuts a girl's hair, and she must have it recut every two or three weeks.

So far, ladies in the U.S. aren't rushing to their hairdressers to cut their tresses.

INDONESIA

American Newsmen Kicked Out

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno today ordered all American correspondents expelled from Indonesia.

Sukarno issued the order in a speech at a ceremony installing the new Indonesian ambassador to Syria, H. M. Sudjono.

The president said he has decided to expel American correspondents from Indonesia in retaliation for lies he said were being written in the American press about the current Indonesian political crisis.

There now are two American correspondents in Indonesia: R. E. Staniard of United Press International and Donald Kirk, representing the New York Times.

Antoine Yared of The Associated Press is a Lebanese.

"They also say," Sukarno declared, "that (Defence Minister Gen. Abdul Haris) Nasution has become supreme commander of Koti (the supreme operations command). I am still the supreme commander of Koti.

"Go to hell with your lies," he added.

Sukarno then turned to First Deputy Premier Subandrio, who is also foreign minister, and said:

"I order you, Subandrio, to kick out all American correspondents from Indonesia. This is our country. We do not want foreign correspondents writing untrue things about Indonesia."

Rock-Tossing Mob Fired On, Youth Killed

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—Violence erupted anew in downtown Santo Domingo today. A youth was killed and another seriously wounded when police fired into a rock-throwing mob.

The greater part of the Dominican capital was quiet.

National Police Chief Gen. Herman Despradel said a mixed police and army patrol in a truck near a high school in the suburbs was greeted by a shower of rocks. One of the soldiers fired, he said, killing one of the rioters. The other youth was struck in the thigh.

Wilson Outlines U.K. Position

LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — Africa's first conference of Commonwealth prime ministers opened today, then went into restricted session to discuss "economic war" against Rhodesia.

The already sombre atmosphere of the meeting was saddened by the death of India's Prime Minister Shastri and tribute to his memory became the opening item of business.

Zambia's Vice-President Reuben Kamanga reiterated his government's demand that Britain use force to topple the regime of Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith who declared independence from Britain on an unconstititional basis two months ago today.

Britain's Prime Minister Wilson gave an hour-long explanation of Britain's position, stating once again that economic sanctions alone—particularly an oil embargo—will be sufficient to bring down the white-supremacist Rhodesian breakaway government without the use of force.

Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, as leader of the senior Commonwealth country outside Britain, replied to an address of welcome by Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria, who called the conference.

Senior also in point of experience in diplomatic and foreign affairs, Pearson noted that this is the first prime ministers' conference since formation of the Commonwealth secretariat under Canadian diplomat Arnold Smith.

"It is a unique conference in other ways also," said Pearson. "It is the first emergency meeting. It is the first meeting to discuss a single problem. I have heard cynics say it may also be the last meeting anywhere.

'This Meeting Will Be Success'

"I do not for one moment believe this. I am convinced this meeting will be a success, that it will assist the effort to end soon the deplorable situation in Rhodesia, something which we all desire."

Sir Abubakar, leader of Africa's most-populous country, also spoke in confident vein but said that the Rhodesian problem presents a threat to the existence of the Commonwealth.

"Although held together by invisible links the Commonwealth has continued to thrive," he said. "Indeed its continued existence is accepted by many as vitally important not only to the member states but to the world as a whole. It is for this reason that we consider it necessary for the heads of Commonwealth countries to meet and avert the threat to the existence of this organization."

Soldiers in pith-helmets and uniforms reminiscent of British colonial days guarded the Federal Palace Hotel where the conference was held amid exotic tropical gardens on the shore of the Lagos lagoon.

It was learned Wilson—determined not to be put in the "dock" at the conference—was pleased with the moderate tone of the opening session.

Balewa, presiding at the conference, paid a tribute to Shastri on behalf of the Commonwealth delegations after which the assembly stood in two-minute silence as a mark of respect.

In his opening speech, the Nigerian prime minister called for a swift crushing of the Rhodesian regime and said the Commonwealth leaders must decide what to do if sanctions failed to achieve this, conference sources said.

He urged Wilson to call a conference of black and white Rhodesians to draft a new constitution for the country and to arrange a crash program to train Africans to take over responsibility.

He also called for the release of all political prisoners in Rhodesia.

The sources said Balewa made it clear he did not envisage African majority rule in WAR WEEKS AWAY?

Special to The Times

LAGOS, Nigeria —Rhodesia is only eight to 12 weeks away from the roar of guns if economic war does not smash the rebellion of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

That was the Canadian view today as 19 Commonwealth countries sat down here to discuss the African crisis that is a threat to the organization and the peace of the world.

NEEDS TIME

The Canadian delegation believes Britain should have time to keep the economic screws on Rhodesia in a bid to end the breakaway by peaceful means. But Canada believes that if this does not work in about three months, Prime Minister Harold Wilson will have to turn to alternative means.

The only alternative is force.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson was in a tricky position as Canada sat down at the conference table with some angry African Commonwealth partners. Britain expects Canada's backing in its stand that economic sanctions and time will break the Smith regime, while the African states expect Canada to understand and appreciate their impatience and position.

Some of them believe Pearson has something to pull out of the hat, although he said he had no ready solutions when he arrived here Sunday for the two-day talks that opened today at the Federal Palace Hotel. The situation calls for some Pearson diplomacy, and he has been receiving a steady stream of callers in his hotel suite. He met with Wilson before the conference opened.

U.S. Contact With Hanoi At Bomb Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee disclosed today that the direct communication from the United States to North Viet Nam was transmitted shortly after the start of the present U.S. pause in bombing the Communist country.

Representative Cornelius Gallagher (Dem. N.J.) told this to reporters after a 2½-hour closed briefing of the committee by State Undersecretary George W. Ball. Gallagher said the communication, first mentioned Monday by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers, was in the form of an aide memoire.

"The significance is that when an aide memoire was sent before, it was rejected out of hand," Gallagher said. "This one was accepted."

New York Mayor Rebuffed Again By Striking Transit Workers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The striking Transport Workers' Union today dealt another blow to hopes of settling the city's 11-day bus and subways strike quickly by rejecting for a second time Mayor John V. Lindsay's latest strike-ending efforts.

Following informal morning meetings with a three-man mediation panel, union spokesman John O'Connell said the TWU would stand on a statement made Monday by chief union negotiator Douglas MacMahon.

MacMahon, in the statement, flatly rejected the mayor's three proposals for ending the walkout. The mayor had suggested arbitration, fact-finding by a special panel, or recommendations by the present mediation panel.

"The mayor's statement is not going to contribute to the settlement of this strike," MacMahon said following Lindsay's proposals in a television report. "The mayor must tackle the issues."

A tire expert tells us tires should be replaced when there is less than 1/32 of an inch of tread left. He says manufacturers generally make five different grades. New cars usually wear "first line" tires, and second, third and fourth line tires of diminishing quality are also available. Best of all are "premium" grade.

A third or fourth line tire should last 8,000 to 12,000 miles, a second line 12,000 to 20,000 and a premium tire more than 35,000 miles.

So next time you see bargain tires on sale check the grade. You probably are getting what you pay for.

B.C. Municipal Aid Condemnedby Rathie

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial aid to municipalities in B.C. looks sick compared to that in Ontario and Quebec, Mayor William Rathie said Monday.

Mayor Rathie said governments in both the eastern provinces have different financial arrangements with their municipalities than in B.C. and both provide greater assistance.

He was commenting on a claim Saturday by B.C. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that B.C. is better to its municipalities than any other province.

The mayor said Quebec is making huge contributions toward the routing of the Trans-Canada Highway through Montreal. He compared this with the $350,000 Vancouver received last year from the provincial government's $80,000,000 highways budget.

But he proposed that Britain should immediately announce a definite target date by which the African majority would take over control through a phased program.

Under an agreed agenda they considered ways to topple the Rhodesian regime as quickly as possible, the constitutional future of Rhodesia including its advance to Negro majority rule, and Commonwealth help for Zambia in its vulnerable position as Rhodesia's neighbor and major trading partner.

But some qualified this willingness with a warning that other measures, including armed intervention, should not be ruled out if sanctions prove ineffective.

Warrant Issued In Break-In At Motor Firm

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a man believed responsible for a break-in at a city auto dealership, police said today.

Theft of six blank cheques with the firm's name on them was reported by Dolphin Motors, 904 Pandora.

One of the cheques was cashed over the weekend at a local beer parlor. It was made out for $150.

The cheques were taken from the office of firm manager J. P. Destrube. A screwdriver was used to force the office door, police said.

Police said the man they are seeking is believed to be driving one of the firm's autos.

COMMUNISTS SILENT . . . . . . ON 'DIRECT' CONTACT

Viet Peace Hopes Dimmed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A peace bid delivered at a face-to-face meeting between diplomats from the United States and North Viet Nam has so far failed to spark any official reply from the Communists, administration sources said today.

It was disclosed Monday night the United States sent a note to Hanoi more than a week ago clarifying its position on negotiations on the war in Viet Nam and seeking to persuade the Communists to go to the conference table.

Administration officials said the U.S. communication was handed to a North Vietnamese official by an American diplomat at one of the capitals in which the two countries both have representatives.

The message sent to Hanoi apparently was the only such "direct" contact that has been made between the two governments. Hanoi's failure to answer it further dimmed hopes for turning back the tide of war in Southeast Asia and moving closer to the conference table.

Disclosure of the meeting between U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats followed a general statement by White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers it was a "safe deduction" the U.S. had been in direct contact with Hanoi during the course of the "peace offensive" launched by President Johnson last Dec. 20.

Several factors apparently motivated the administration's decision to disclose its direct approach to Hanoi. Among these were:

- President Johnson's reported desire to bring the public and Congress up to date on his peace efforts prior to delivering his State of the Union Address Wednesday night.
- The assertion by assistant professor Staughton Lynd of Yale University that he was told by North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong that the U.S. government had made no contact with his country and this was "quite disturbing." Moyers said Lynd, who returned Sunday from an unauthorized trip to Hanoi, was "incompletely informed."
- The desire to convince U.S. allies, neutralists and European Communists that the president was passing up no avenues in his effort to find a peaceful solution in Viet Nam.

There apparently was some difference of opinion among some high administration officials as to whether the direct U.S. peace bid should be disclosed at this time.

Some, particularly in the state department, were reported to feel that the disclosure might lessen the possibility of a favorable response from Hanoi. The White House apparently concluded otherwise.

There was no detailed information available on the contents of the American message. It was assumed, however, it consisted of some additional clarification of the 14-point peace plan Johnson authorized Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to submit to the United Nations last week.

At the same time he discussed the possibility of a direct contact with Hanoi Moyers also disclosed Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman would stop in Saigon to discuss the peace campaign with American and South Vietnamese officials.

WEEK TO CLEAR

Regina Tied Up After Blizzard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway crews in parts of Saskatchewan and eastern Newfoundland today were started on what would turn out to be a week's plowing in the wake of two enormous blizzards that slugged the areas Sunday.

The worst storm to hit Regina in almost 20 years left the city buried under drifts that officials estimated could disrupt normal movement for a week. Conditions at Moose Jaw were similar.

Milder weather was to move into Saskatchewan today although predicted highs of 10 above were unlikely to help in snow-clearing operations. Only light snow was expected.

Hurricane-force winds gusting to 85 miles an hour pushed the Atlantic blizzard through Eastern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Sunday. It moved across to Newfoundland around noon and piled drifts up to 15 feet in the streets of St. John's.

A 300 - mile stretch on the Trans - Canada Highway from St. John's to Grand Falls was blocked but by Monday night plows had reached a point 50 miles west of the capital.

As communications were restored, reports of washed-out bridges, causeways and sections of road filtered in from the island's south coast, battered by giant seas and high tides during the storm.

SCHOOLS STAY SHUT

Power was restored in most of St. John's Monday night after widespread failures. Schools were to remain closed for the second day today but businesses were expected to re-open after the weekly Monday holiday.

Elsewhere in Canada generally typical winter conditions were predicted for today.

Milder weather was moving across Alberta and in Manitoba a few snowflurries and highs of five and 10 below were forecast.

British Columbia's coastal temperatures were rising to the mid-40s today with some rain. In northern B.C., 30 - degree readings were bringing a welcome break after two weeks of sub-zero conditions.

Quebec was becoming cold and windy but no heavy snowfall was expected.

Southern Ontario was expected to follow the warm and cold pattern prevalent during the last couple of weeks. The temperature in Ottawa dropped to zero early today from 38 Monday. In Toronto the plunge was to 15 above from 43.

Baby Born In Stalled Truck

CUDWORTH, Sask. (CP)—A story of a baby born in an unheated truck marooned in a strong weekend blizzard came to light here Monday.

When Mrs. Joseph Gruza, 24, of Prudhomme, Sask., realized her baby was on the way, she and her husband headed for the Cudworth hospital 15 miles distant in their farm truck at the height of the storm Saturday night.

Five hours and two miles later, when the truck bogged down in the drifting snow and stalled, Mr. Gruza struggled to a nearby farmhouse for help.

When Mr. Gruza returned with a horse and sleigh, he found a newborn baby girl in the unheated cab. Mother and child were rushed to the farmhouse.

Instructions from Dr. G. Kondzielewski at the hospital here were relayed over the telephone. When the blizzard ceased and snowplows clared roads Sunday Mrs. Gruza and her child were taken to hospital.

The baby qualified as the first born this year in the district 45 miles northeast of Saskatoon and will receive gifts from local merchants. She is the couple's fourth child.

No-Spill Beer Gets Car Ride

Magistrate William Ostler said he was puzzled in central court Monday how two opened bottles of beer could remain upright on a floor of a moving car without tipping over.

But he gave the benefit of the doubt to Peter A. Reid, 19, of HMCS Qu'Appelle, and acquitted him of being a minor in possession of alcohol.

Cpl. Robert Duncan, Esquimalt police, said he stopped Reid and his companion in the accused's car on Paradise St. Dec. 16.

He said he found two opened bottles of beer on the floor of the vehicle in front of the front seat.

Reid testified he had no knowledge of the beer being in the car and first saw it when the officer came around to him from the other side of the vehicle.

He said he got into the car at HMCS Naden parking lot and had driven around Esquimalt for about 10 minutes.

"It is a great tribute to the roads in the municipality they (the bottles of beer) didn't fall over," commented Magistrate Ostler.

He said foam on the bottles was consistent with drinking before the two sailors were stopped or the bottles being shaken in transit.

Investigating officers did not smell liquor on the breath of the two men.

MOURNING FOR SHASTRI

p.m. PST Monday) in the villa where he was staying outside Tashkent. Aides said he dined alone at 10:30 p.m., telephoned his family in New Delhi, and went to bed half an hour later but could not sleep.

At about 1:20 a.m., the prime minister was seized by a coughing spell and staggered into the hall crying, "Doctor, doctor." His staff, packing to leave Tashkent today, put their chief back to bed and summoned his personal physician, Dr. R. N. Chugh. The doctor said Shastri lost consciousness three minutes later and stopped breathing at 1:32. A team of eight Soviet physicians joined in unsuccessful attempts to revive him.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that death was due to a heart attack. Shastri had had a serious heart attack in 1959, before becoming prime minister, and another a month after succeeding Nehru.

Shastri had seemed in good spirits earlier in the evening when he and Ayub Khan were Kosygin's guests at a reception. He smiled and clapped at a brief program of music and dances.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan said the prime minister, during the automobile ride back to the villa, said, "We must fight bravely for peace as we fought in the conflict."

Shastri's body was flown home across Pakistan. Since the fierce Indo - Pakistani war, the two countries have barred each other's planes from crossing their borders.

About two hours after Shastri's death Nanda, who is 67, took over the reins of government. As home minister he was next in line, and he was sworn in by President Radhakrishnan in a brief ceremony at the presidential palace.

The president and Nanda then went to Shastri's residence to pay their respects to the prime minister's wife, Lalita. They were accompanied by Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Nehru's daughter, who is information and broadcasting minister.

Congress party members in Parliament will meet soon to decide whether Nanda will remain at the head of the government or be pushed aside for someone else, as he was after Nehru's death. Observers expressed belief that he has a good chance of holding the post this time.

Shastri was born in the abject poverty of a mud hut in backcountry Mughalsarai village in North India's Uttar Pradesh state Oct. 2, 1904.

The date was 43 years before the end of British rule brought the independence he was to help win in the non-violent resistance movement of Mohandas K. Gandhi and Nehru.

His work for freedom cost him nine years in British jails.

Shastri's school teacher father died when he was 18 months old and he and his two sisters grew up with their grandfather, who sent him to school in the nearby holy city of Banaras.

Lacking the ferry fare, sometimes he swam the Ganges, books strapped to his head.

Three months before graduation, Shastri quit high school to join the independence campaign. His activities soon landed him in prison. Released, he finished high school, entered a Sanskrit college and won the degree of "Shastri," meaning graduate in ancient scriptures. The title remained part of his name.

His education behind him, he married Lalita Devi at the age of 23 and rejoined the resistance.

Imprisoned again, he got word that his year - old daughter had died of typhoid because his family lacked money for medical care. The Shastris later had two other daughters and four sons.

Shastri, a five-foot two-inch, 110-pounder, developed into an adroit politician and a force in the All-India Congress party, becoming its general secretary for Uttar Pradesh state—India's most populous—at 31.

Flag Honor Ordered For Shastri

Canadian flags on all federal buildings were ordered to half staff in Ottawa today by External Affairs Minister Martin in tribute to the late Prime Minister Shastri of India who died after a heart attack Monday.

Flags on provincial buildings will follow suit, officials in Victoria said this morning.

At noon today, however, most flags on federal poles were still flying high, as news of the order had not come through official channels.

A check with officials at Work Point, HMCS Naden and the Bay St. Armouries showed their flags were still flying at full staff.

A memorial service for Prime Minister Shastri has been tentatively set for Friday at the Victoria Sikh Temple.

Ajab Singh Sangha, a spokesman for the Sikh community, said Sikhs from all parts of Vancouver Island will be invited to attend.

"Shastri's death came as a shock to members of the community, he said. "He was highly respected because he worked to improve the general lot of the poor people of India."

TOLD TO DROP COVER CHARGE FRENCH CAFES

PARIS (Reuters) — Cover charges in French restaurants were abolished by government decree Sunday.

The charge is forbidden following complaints the price of a restaurant meal can often turn out to be 25 per cent or more above than stated on the menu.

Restaurant owners can increase their food prices 10 per cent to make up for the loss of the cover charge, but there must be no increase in drink prices.

Patrol Boy To Bounce Right Back

Oak Bay municipality will use rubber children to slow down traffic on Henderson Road.

The suggestion was made by Chief John Green Monday night while the traffic committee was studying the problem of kindergarten children crossing Henderson Road at Uplands School.

Chief Green said the rubber figures of children at school crosswalks had been used successfully in Vancouver and New Westminster.

The committee asked the chief to investigate the possibility of obtaining two figures.

Henderson Road is the main traffic route to the University of Victoria.

Dibelius to Retire

The heads of the synods of East and West Berlin have convoked an electoral college to suggest a candidate to succeed him.

TORRENTIAL RIO STORM KILLS 145

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)— A torrential daylong summer rain storm crippled this Brazilian city of three-and-a-half million today. An estimated 145 persons were dead, more than 1,000 others injured and many thousands homeless.

The storm, which dumped more than 10 inches of rain on the city in 18 hours, knocked out light, gas and telephone service in many parts of the city.

Slum areas, perched precariously on hills that spread fingerlike through the city, were hardest hit.

The city's 40 ambulances were unable to answer all appeals for help.

In the Pavaozinho slum, 19 persons died when shanties collapsed and slid down a hillside. In the famed Copacabana Beach area, five bodies were recovered after 10 houses were swept downhill.

Announce New Healing Substance::: Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved .... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.
